GUILTY!

THE LONG TRIAL ENDED.

VERDICT APPLAUDED.

The Assassin Denounces Judge and Jury.

Wednesday the 25th ult., the long and tedious trial of the murderer Guitau closed by a verdict of "guilty." Up to the moment the jury brought in their verdict the assassin pretended to believe that he would be acquitted, although it seems doubtful whether his counsel shared this hope.

After an exhaustive, strong and convincing argument by Judge Porter, and an able and impartial charge by Judge Cox, the jury retired. They deliberated about thirty minutes when they brought in their verdict.

The following graphic account of the closing scenes of the trial, we clip from the Patriot:

First came the prisoner with a quick, nervous step, and as he seated himself in the dock, perhaps for the last time, the light of a solitary candle fell full upon his face and disclosed its more than usual pallor. Not a tremor of the limbs or movement of the muscles of the face was observable as he threw back his head and fixed his gaze upon the door through which the jury were to enter. Judge Cox soon afterwards took his seat. The crier called order, and the jury at 5.35 filed slowly into their seats. Every sound was hushed save the voice of the clerk as he pronounced to the foreman the usual inquiry. Clear and distinct came the reply: "We have." "What is your verdict, guilty or not guilty?" With equal distinctness came the reply: "Guilty."

The pent up feeling of the crowd found expression in uproarious demonstrations of applause and approval.

"Order! Order!" shouted the bailiffs. Mr. Scoville and the counsel for the prosecution were simultaneously upon their feet. Mr. Scoville attempted to address the court, but the district attorney shouted: "Wait till we have the verdict complete, and in due form of law."

Order was at length restored, and the clerk again addressing the jury, said: "Your foreman says guilty as indicted, so say we all of us?" "We do," they all responded.

Another demonstration of approval following this announcement, but not so prolonged as the first.

Mr. Scoville, still on his feet, demanded a poll of the jury which was granted, and each juror was called by name, and each in a firm voice promptly responded "Guilty." As the last name was called the prisoner shrieked: "My blood will be upon the heads of that jury, don't you forget it!" Mr. Scoville again addressed the court, saying: "Your honor, I do not desire to forfeit any rights I may have under the law and practice in this district. If there is anything that I ought to do now to save those rights, I would be indebted to your honor to indicate it to me."

Judge Cox in reply assured him that he should have every opportunity; that the charge would be furnished to him in print to-morrow, and he would be accorded all the time allowed by law within which to file his exceptions, and that he would also be entitled to four days within which to move an arrest of judgment.

Guitau, who from the moment Judge Cox began the delivery of his charge, had dropped completely his air of flippancy and sat with rigid features and compressed lips, called out in tones of desperation, "God will avenge this outrage!"

Judge Cox then turned to the jury and said: "Gentlemen of the jury, I cannot express too many thanks for the manner in which you have discharged your duty. You have richly merited the thanks of your countrymen, and I feel assured you will take with you to your homes the approval of your consciences. With thanks gentlemen of the jury, I dismiss you."

A Law For The Succession.

An Iowa congressman has introduced a constitutional amendment providing that the members of the electoral colleges shall hold office for four years, with power to fill vacancies in their ranks. In case of the death of the president and vice president the colleges shall immediately assemble and fill the vacancies. The secretary of State in the meantime serving as acting president.—Exchange.

The suggestion is worthy of consideration. It would seem to be a plain and practical solution of the doubts and difficulties that enshroud our constitutional laws of Presidential succession.

The democrats of Philadelphia have elected their delegates to the democratic state convention. About two thirds of the delegation favor the nomination of Robert E. Pattison, of Philadelphia, for Governor. No better man could be nominated to lead the party to probable victory next fall. Ex-Speaker Randall says the following of Mr. Pattison: There should be a solid delegation for him. If he can't be elected Governor no Democrat can. He is the strongest man in the State. If Pennsylvania should elect a Democratic Governor it would settle the Presidential question of 1884 in favor of our candidate.

The following truthful words, which we clip from the Clinton Democrat, relate to a subject that is but little understood. The newspaper is of more importance to a town and community, in sundry ways, than most people know, but is seldom appreciated and supported as it should be. The paper gives you the latest news, both local and general. It labors assiduously, year in, year out, to promote every proper material enterprise, every movement calculated to promote the culture and tone of society. The local paper is the warm friend and advocate of the church, the Sunday school, the public school. It is the stern, uncompromising foe of ignorance, immorality and vice. It chronicles with pleasure every passing act of charity or benevolence; it fearlessly condemns whatever is wrong or pernicious. In the great, fierce battle of truth against error, light against darkness, right against wrong, progress against inertia, the local newspaper always takes a prominent and aggressive position for the right. The local newspaper—often misunderstood, often abused, and still oftener neglected—should have a permanent place in every family, every store, every work-shop, every public business place.

The business capacity and worth of every town is largely judged from the number and variety of advertisements its newspapers contain, and this criterion of the business value of a town is not only a just one but never leads to an erroneous conclusion. Every man may know the business aptitude and consequence of any place by looking over the advertisements its newspapers contain. Free advertisers, therefore, not only benefit themselves largely in a direct way by it, but also indirectly to an important degree. It exhibits the qualities both of energy and liberality in business men, and in this way invites not only business of every kind but population too. There is no more effective way of adding to the growth and prosperity of a town, and at the same time it largely remunerates those who exhibit their business energy and generosity in that way.

It is strongly hinted that Boss Cameron has ordered Gov. Hoyt to call an extra session of the legislature, to apportion the state into congressional and judicial districts and "fix things" generally. The rumor however is denied. Time will tell.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25, 1882. Guitau's conviction has fallen like a peace offering over the nation. In addition to the feeling of disgust and dissatisfaction manifested on all sides during the last half of the trial, there has been a quite general fear that the villain would escape the death penalty. Now that all danger of such an event is past every one draws a long, heartfelt sigh of relief and thankfulness. So thoroughly were all the legal technicalities observed in every stage of the trial that there does not now exist a single point on which an appeal for a new trial can be granted. Undoubtedly the convict's counsel will use every means in their power to obtain one, but their efforts can only result in a temporary prolongation of Guitau's life. The best authorities in the country have said as much, and even hinted further, that already too much justice has been shown the murderer, more than is ever shown in ordinary cases where crime and motive are admitted by the accused. Exit Guitau till July or September, then with a rope, one end of which fast around his neck, the other pointing toward the realms of his claimed to be partner, he will take his flight, the direction of which depends upon whether the devil's claim is not stronger and prior to all others. The whole world confidently awaits the result with the firm conviction that he will go down, down, down, and never more be heard again till the crack of doom bursts the barriers of pandemonium for his last and eternal judgment.

In Congress the bills granting the widow of President Lincoln an additional pension, and finally retiring Justice Miller of the Supreme Court have passed.

Hon. D. C. Smith, of Illinois, a member of the Banking and Currency Committee, delivered a speech in the House last night on a bill offered by him to amend the law on the subject of silver certificates. Mr. Smith proposes that certificates shall issue as a premium in any amount upon the deposit of silver dollars in the Treasury. He also proposes to have them issued in one, two, and five dollar certificates, as well as in ten and twenty dollars, as at present issued. Mr. Smith, who is a successful banker and manufacturer in Pekin, Ill., says the people demand the paper certificates when based upon coin deposited in the Treasury on account of its being more convenient for use in the transaction of ordinary business.

The report accompanying the bill agreed upon by the House Committee on Education and Labor on Wednesday, in regard to Chinese immigration, which was submitted to the House on Thursday by Representatives Page and Willis, reviews the several sections of the bill in detail, and says: "Your committee, in view of the recent treaty and all previous legislation by Congress, deem it necessary to amend, at large upon the discussion of the necessity of the passage of some act restricting Chinese immigration. Suffice it to say, that the national convention of both political parties for the last eight years have passed resolutions condemning the policy of Chinese immigration. The States of the Pacific coast are practically a unit upon the subject, and at a recent election in California, when a vote upon this question was submitted to the voters of that State, only about 800 votes were cast for it out of a total vote of 162,000. It is an undisputed fact that there are over 100,000 Chinese in the State of California; that they are mostly coolies or Chinese laborers, who were brought here under a contract for a term of years by one of the three Chinese companies that control the labor controlled by said companies, and that there coming here was not voluntary, and many are detained here under their contract term expires. They monopolize many of the mercantile industries of the Pacific coast, to the detriment of the better class. They take the place of the poor laboring classes, who are compelled to compete with them. This they can do for the reason that the Chinese bring no families, have no children to support or educate, contribute nothing to the support of the Government, assume no responsibility, and could not be called upon to bear arms for the defense of our State or the Nation when in danger of foreign invasion.

It is remarkable that the number of bills relating to improvements in the navy are less in number and importance than in former sessions. Evidently a new and economical era in the habit of enormous appropriations for repairs and renewals is dawning. It is a sensible movement, for unless we are going to make some effort for the recovery of our lost ocean carrying trade it will not matter what becomes of our navy. Our rotten old hulks that we now have afloat are entirely in keeping with the condition of our commercial marine. We should need to ships to protect our flag so long as we keep our flag, and sail at home.

It seems although each week surpassed its predecessor in the way of grand social events. Never before in the history of the capital have the receptions, dinners and balls attained such magnitude. Hundreds and thousands of dollars are spent each session of Congress in this manner, and should it increase as rapidly in the coming decade as during the past one, it will require a millionaire's purse to draw from for each prominent Congressman and Cabinet officer. Very few attain the celebrity that have the courage to set up a standard of expenditure commensurate with their income, but rather try to surpass all former events by the magnitude and originality of their entertainments. Thus far we are free from the source that is so rapidly spreading over the country. Every precaution has been taken to quench it on its first appearance and to isolate all patients at once. It will be a miracle, however, if we escape entirely, as our city dwells its population from all directions.

The new Museum building in the Smithsonian grounds is being rapidly filled up with the stored and surplus stock of anthropological curiosities that has been accumulating for years; also much that is new and valuable has been secured. The building is built to well worth an inspection, being the largest and handsomest one in the world devoted exclusively to such a purpose.

Secretary Hunt has awarded a medal of honor to Corporal Francis Moore, of the Marine Corps, for gallant and meritorious conduct. [Why not promote Corporal Moore to a lieutenant, and thus break the custom that has prevailed for a quarter of a century in this honorific institution of not allowing an enlisted man to wear the epaulettes of an officer.]

It has been definitely decided that the eulogy upon the late President Garfield will be delivered in the House of Representatives on Monday, February 27, next, by ex-Secretary Blain.

Senator Ferry has introduced a bill granting pensions to certain Union soldiers and sailors of the war of the rebellion who were confined in the so-called Confederate prisons.

WILLS.

Hangman's Day Friday March 24.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 24.—Gov. Hoyt, gave the murder cases under his consideration attention this morning. There were six waiting for the naming of the day of execution. The 24th of March next may be properly termed hangman's day, as, unless some unforeseen event happens, six men will be swung off. The names of the unfortunate for whom death warrants have been issued are as follows: Frank and Henry Ramberger, Dauphin county.

John Coyle, York county.

Jonathan Moyer, Snyder county.

John Nevelin, Clearfield county.

Frank Small, Allegheny county.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," says the old proverb. Let us apply it to temperance. A long line of reeling, staggering candidates for perdition, 150,000 in number, one after another, through the year drop out of sight and memory. And still the death march goes on. Is there any way to prevent it?

Why certainly. Drunkards grow from moderate drinkers from the untaught, or wrongly educated children of our homes. There is a point where the stop can be put on, and that is in the home. Every parent is responsible for the intemperance of his child, if he has not by example and precept done everything possible to prevent it.

NEW RULES IN THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

At the first meeting of our new board of County Commissioners the following resolutions and rules were adopted, which commend themselves as eminently proper and necessary: Resolved, That the present board of commissioners be governed by the following rules and regulations, and for the information of the public it is ordered that they be published for four successive weeks in each newspaper of the county:

1st. That the commissioners meet in their office in the Court House, Bellefonte, on the first and third Tuesday of each month, at ten o'clock, A. M., and remain in session until four o'clock, P. M.

2nd. All goods and materials for the use of the county must be purchased by the commissioners or by their order.

3d. All bills presented to the board for payment must be itemized; and no order shall be drawn for any bill until the board has approved the same.

4th. No goods or material of any kind for the use of the county shall be furnished by any of the commissioners.

JOHN WELLS, (Commissioner).

H. C. GRUBB, (Commissioner).

A. J. GRIFF, (Commissioner).
