An Effectual Elbow At Mormonism.

Monday the 6th instant will become memorable in the history of the country, as the day on which that other twin relic of barbarism, polygamy, received its first effective stab in the halls of our national legislature. All laws heretofore passed against the cancerous evil amount to practically nothing and remain a dead letter on our statute books, because the government lacks either the will or the power to enforce them.

But enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in Congress assembled that hereafter no person shall be a delegate in the House of Representatives from any of the Territories of the United States who shall not have attained the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, or who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of the Territory in which he shall be chosen; and no such person who is guilty either of bigamy or polygamy shall be eligible to a seat as such delegate.

News Miscellany.

Whisky as a Preventive of Small-Pox.

CHICAGO, February 7.—Andrew Olsen last night, fearing an attack of small-pox, drank nearly three quarts of whisky, believing it to be an effective preventive. Of course, he died in a few hours.

General Hancock in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, February 7.—General W. S. Hancock arrived in this city at five o'clock this morning and after a brief rest visited the United States Arsenal, where he was received with a salute of thirteen guns. Later he held an informal reception at the residence of Major John D. Adams, where he was visited by a number of citizens. He will leave this afternoon for Friar's Point, Miss., whether he goes to visit his son Russell, who is largely engaged in planting near that town.

The Case of Uriah Moyer.

HARRISBURG, February 6.—The certified record in the case of Uriah Moyer, of Snyder county, one of the Kintzler murderers, has been received at the State department. Governor Hoyt will designate a day in the latter part of April for the hanging, unless the case should be appealed to the Supreme Court, in which event he will issue no death-warrant before the decision is rendered. Moyer is the fourth man convicted of the murder of Kintzler.

Queer Case of Buck Agau.

From the James River (Va.) Herald. What old deer-hunters call the "buck agau" will often affect a man rather curiously. A gentleman of our acquaintance was in the woods chopping, when a deer, not noticing him, came up quite close. The sight of the deer, "so near and yet so far," naturally excited our friend, and mistaking his axe for a gun he slammed it against his shoulder, took deliberate aim at the deer, and sawed away with his finger, vainly trying to pull the trigger. But there was no go off, except by the deer.

A Berks county man picked up a quill toothpick in a doctors office and used it. It turned out to be a virus point and now he wears his tongue hanging out. The vaccination took.

Additional Locals.

Nearly thirteen millions of the national debt were paid in January.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN SCHEBY, of Montgomery county, are each ninety-one years of age and have been married seventy-two years. They are natives of Wurtemberg, Germany, and have lived in this country since 1811.

—Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin says: It cost Centre county $1,048.92 for her printing last year, divided among seven Democrats, good and true. And she paid $1,251.35 for the scalp of 539 foxes and 1,176 skunks. Lycoming county only paid $1.50 for skunk scalps, when it was discovered that the law was unconstitutional, notwithstanding it had been drawn up by a great constitutional lawyer.

—On Friday evening the 3rd inst., the friends from Millheim paid a surprise visit to the family of Rev. J. Beuson Aker, at Penn Hall, during his absence, and proceeded to give them a pounding—perhaps the severest they ever received. Pounds of coffee, sugar, tea, cornstarch, rice and other articles came pounding in until the parson's table looked like the counter of a grocery store after the arrival of new goods. After an hour or so of enjoyable music, singing and pleasant conversation the party returned to their homes, leaving the parson's family as happy as they were themselves. Such occasions are pleasant in enjoyment and pleasant in memory. Long may the happy donors live, and may their lives be as prosperous as long.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9, 1882.

Your readers must not take too bad a view of Washington and its people from the frequency of homicides of late. The regular population of the city is orderly and hospitable, but, as at other great capitals, tramps and drunks congregate here from every section, and it is to these that Washington's undeserved fame is due. The whole world knows that Giltspur was not of Washington people, and the two men who on Thursday evening attempted to murder the editor of the National Republican were not only not Washingtonians, but not Americans. With almost twenty years' knowledge of the city, I can truthfully say that nearly every homicide committed during that time has been by people strangers to our own citizens.

The bill introduced in the House by Mr. Hewitt, of New York, to provide for the count of the electoral vote, throws upon the State courts the duty of determining the title of any elector in the time between the day of the election and the day fixed for the final count of the votes, which is to be done by a joint meeting of the two houses of Congress. The vote of every State to which no objection is made shall be counted, but if one member each from the Senate and House shall object to the vote of any State in writing, it shall not be counted, except upon the affirmative vote of both houses in separate session. It is further provided that the two houses shall not separate until the count is completed and the result declared. The title of any person so declared elected may be tried and determined in any circuit court of the United States, with the right of appeal to the Supreme Court.

The House Committee on the Judiciary, at their meeting Friday, further considered Representative Shepley's bill to prohibit politicians from holding offices of trust in the United States. The general features of the bill were agreed to, and the matter was referred to a sub-committee with instructions to prepare a substitute bill and report it to the full committee.

General Sherman, before the House Committee on Military Affairs yesterday, favored the compulsory retirement of all officers who were sixty-two years of age.

To-day is the seventieth birthday anniversary of Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, the distinguished Georgian statesman and scholar. As is his custom on these occasions, he dines in his rooms at the National Hotel to-day with his colleagues in the house of Representatives from Georgia.

The outcry against the act to pay the arrears of pensions to Union soldiers in the great civil war does not appear to have disturbed the Senate. That body will be found nearly unanimous in opposition to the repudiation of a dollar of these most sacred of all the debts contracted by the Nation.

A gunno island has been discovered in the Gulf of California, twenty-eight miles southwest of Port Loreto. The deposit is very large. The island contains about sixteen square miles.

The painting of Mrs. R. B. Hayes, presented to the President by the temperance ladies of the United States, has been returned to the White House from Paris, where it was sent to be engraved. An elegant oak frame, elaborately carved in emblematic designs by the Cincinnati School of Designs, has also arrived at the White House, and was unboxed. The portrait will be hung in the Green Parlor.

Though many discharges are sent from this city to the effect that Secretary Sherman's three per cent bond will not probably pass the House, I may say with certainty that nearly every member of Congress expects it to pass. There will be amendments, besides those placed on the measure in the Senate, but the desire for a legal recognition of three per cent, as the sovereign rate in future is so strong that amendments likely to impede the passage of the bill will not be insisted on. It is a fact upon which the United States may well be congratulated, that while our debt is twenty times greater than 1860, our three per cent bonds will now be eagerly taken all over the world. Our six per cents were then below par in New York, and not known abroad at all.

ABOUT THE BLIND.

The circular printed below is self-explanatory: The number of blind persons in Pennsylvania, by the census of 1880, is nearly 4,000. The number in each county is as follows:

Table listing counties and number of blind persons: Adams 111, Allegheny 21, Armstrong 31, Berks 62, Bradford 51, Bucks 63, Butler 17, Cambria 24, Carbon 11, Centre 44, Chester 77, Clarion 98, Clearfield 13, Clinton 18, Columbia 16, Crawford 28, Cumberland 32, Dauphin 4, Delaware 27, Erie 10, Fayette 26, Franklin 50, Fulton 29, Green 69, Huntingdon 18, Indiana 73, Jefferson 19, Juniata 10, Lackawanna 3,967.

The "Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind, will receive applicants between the age of 10 and 15.

The "Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men" will receive those between the ages of 25 and 50, to learn trades and receive employment therein.

And the "Pennsylvania Industrial Home for Blind Women" will instruct blind females of 21 years and upwards.

The last two institutions are supported mainly by legacies, and benevolent contributions.

It is very certain that a large number of the blind in the counties know nothing about these institutions; and also that very many who do know of them have not had the friendly hand to prepare the way for their coming here.

It is obviously the kind office of every good citizen and certainly the poor official duty of the Guardian of the Poor to look faithfully into this matter.

WILLIAM CHAPIN, Principal of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Blind;

H. L. HALL, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Working Home for Blind Men.

A Baby, a Pistol and a Serious Wound.

Herman Sellinger, a German, residing Second and Poplar streets, Philadelphia undertook to amuse a baby by placing the muzzle of a loaded revolver in his mouth and leaving the trigger within the reach of the child. The infant, by an adroit movement, discharged the weapon, sending the ball crashing through the jaw of the unfortunate man. He was taken to the Pennsylvania Hospital.

How The Patent Wagon Tongue Works.

"The patent wagon-tongue man" has been having things pretty much his own way among the Missouri farmers. He is of genteel appearance and pleasing address. He drives up to a farmer's house and during his talk with the farmer lets him know what a big business he is doing with a certain wagon-tongue patent. He is on his way home, and as he may not be back in that county the farmer can have the right for the county for $2 00. If the farmer should want it he may just write. In a few days the swindler's confederate happens along. He has learned that the farmer has the right of the county for the patent wagon-tongue, and as he made a big thing out of it in Nebraska, he wants to buy the right of the county for $400. He pays $10 down to bind the bargain. The farmer at once writes to No. 1, sending his note for $250. He never hears of either of the men again, but his note comes up for collection in a neighboring town all the same.
