DRY EARTH FOR STABLES .- If any one will observe where the cows lie down in the barnyard or pasture, it will be seen that they choose the bare ground, rather than the sod or bedding of straw. The same is true of sheep. I have taken the hint, says a Western farmer, and furnished the cow stables with dry earth-bedding. Leaves and straw are poor absorbents in comparison. In the pig-pens dry earth has no equal. in very cold weather we add straw or leaves, but until the weather is very cold, the animals will be more comfortable with a bed of fresh soil, or soil changed once in a fortnight or week. In the chicken-house we have learned its great value as a deodorizer,-Our roosts are over a sloping floor, on which we occasionally scatter dry earth. The droppings roll down into a pile of dry earth. This is turned over with a shovel each week or oftener, and we can say that the chicken-house is free from any offensive odor, and bright combs and glossy feathers tell of the health of the fowls. Dry earth is a good preventive, too, of vermin on cattle, pigs, and poultry. It not only promotes neatness and health, but saves the very elements of the manures which make them most valuable, and most of which would evaporate if not absorbed by the dry earth. We do not like it as a bedding for horse stables, but it should be found in every stable, to sprinkle the floor with as 300n as the bedding is removed in the morning. When removed from the stables, styes, or coops, it should be kept under cover until used, and is excellent for drilling with all kinds of grain.

EXPERIENCE has proved board floors for poultry houses to be injurious to the fowls. No amount of cleaning can keep them free from vermin and bad odors. Clean, dry earth is the proper flooring for hen-houses. It should have an under strata, of solid, packed earth. This should be scraped at least once a week and again sprinkled with road dust mixed with air-slacked lime.

It will in a few moments, when taken according to directions, cure Cramps, Spasms, Sour Stomach, Heartourn, Sick Headache, Diarrhosa, Dysentery, Colic, Wind in the Bowels, and all Internal Pains.

Travelers should always carry a bottle of Radway's Ready Relief with them. A few drops in water will prevent sickness or pains from change of water. It is better than French brandy or bitters as a stimulant.

Miners and Lumbermen should always be provided with it. Internal Pains.

All remedial agents capable of destroying life by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, optum, strichnine, arnica, hyosciamus, and other powerful remedies, does at certain times, in very small doses, relieve the patient during their action in the system. But perhaps the second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and intrease the suffering, and another dose cause death. There is no necessity for wing these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like Radway's Ready Relief will stop the most experience and in the system.
