-The country is about to be flooded with a book which will do an untold amount of harm-the life and history of the notorious murderer and bandit Jesse James, who was recently shot by one of his own band. Its publication should be suppressed as far as possible, for it will be read by thousands of bad boys who will learn by it how to put villainous plans into execution, and the gallows will reap a plentiful harvest by its influence. - Lewisbur, Chronicle.

That's our mind exactly on the matter. It is truly deplorable that so many christian people allow such horrid, demoralizing stuff to enter their homes. They might as well and as safely invest some money in buying venomous serpents for house pets, or have bomb shells or dynamite in profusion for ornaments on parlor tables. If young folks once acquire a taste for such low and pernicious literature they will seldom return to a course of read ing that instructs, cultivates and imsuch move on in the lowest grooves of have the good of their children at class be kept out of their reach.

Worth Trying.

The Scientific American gives the following as a sure mode to exterminate rats. We suggest that some one try it and give the result to the public:

"We clean our premises of the detestable vermin, rats, by making whitewash yellow with copperas and covering the stone and rafters with it. In every crevice in which a rat may go we put the crystals of the copperas and scatter in the corners of the floor. The result was a perfect stampede of rats and mice. Since that time not a foottall of either rats or mice has been heard around the house. Every spring a coat of yellow wash is given the cellar as a purifier, as a rat exterminator, and no typhoid, disentery, or fever attacks the family. Many persons deliberately attract all the rats in the neighborhood by leaving the fruits and vegetables uncovered in the cellar, and sometimes even the soap is left open tf for their regalement. The Street Loafer.

A Sunbury man gives the following graphic pen picture of the street loafer. It is true to life and will be recognized at sight anywhere. Sunbury may have more than its quota of the loafer element, but it abounds all over, in every town we ever saw. What can be done against the evil?

The street loafer is one of Sunbury's town institutions. He is as necessaev for the carrying on of business as a crowd is to a dog fight. He should be v ted a pension by the town council for the faithful and constant perseverance with which he so jealously guards the property and franchises of our men of business, and the clothing men ought to give him a unanimous vote of thanks for his generosity in offering From 3.15-4.15. Discussion of the them "dummies" at a low figure.

The street loafer is an intelligent individual. He can perceive the signs of the times with unerring accuracy and knows more about political economy in a day than Horace Greeley could scrape up in a century. At election time he is a ship reapers on trial to all who wish to great necessity, acting as a sewer for buy. I ask no one to sigh any contract | carrying off all the bad whiskey accumulating on the hands of innocent landlords since last election and which, on its own merits. For simplicity of otherwise, might break its contines and construction, lightness of draft, ease flood the country, leaving death and

The street loafer always likes to strike a nice sunny day, a clean pavement and a big plug tobacco. With these three elements to commence with he is supremely happy and don't care a picayune whether school keeps or not. His head resembles, in one respect, a magnetic needle-invariably turning on its pivot at the passing of an attractive body (with, perhaps, the difference that a magnetic needle is seldom made of wood.) He is always cently we received a letter from an old on the look out for "something to friend, a prominent minister who tray- turn up." PENNSYLVANIA'S ROLL OF HONOR. WHO SHALL BE FIRST?

We desire to call the attention of residents of this county to the following original, and highly interesting, and liberal offer made in Pennsylvania's new literary paper, the Oriental Casket, just received, and which can be ex-Casket, just received, and which can be examined by any of our readers who may call at this offine. Within a week or two we will announce through the columns of this paper, the name of the first subscriber from each of Pennsylvania's sixty-seven countes, in the order received by Mr. Smith, entitling each of the sixty-seven persons to incombership to "PENNSYLVANIA'S ROLL OF HONOK," and a year's subscription to the Oriental Casket free. We have often wondered why Pennsylvanians have not heretofore supported a publication such as the Oriental Casket bids for take such as the Oriental Casket bids such as the Oriental Casket bids fair to be. This grand old State is greatly behind in this respect; and if its people have any pride left for home enterprise, they will not to New York or Boston, he cafter for their pure and wholesome reading matter.

The names of L. LUM SMITH, as publisher, and EMERSON BENNET, as editor-in-chief, are sufficient guarantees that the magazine will achieve a grand success.

"For the first letter mailed from either of Penna's sixty-seven counties, which we received."

Penna's sixty-seven counties, which we receive and open, containing a subscription of Two Dollars in cash, stamps, postoffice order, or check, we agree to add the subscriber's name to Pennsylvania's Roll of Honov, publish it in the Oriental Casket, return the Two Dollars in radiated letter with a consultant and the subscriber's resultant of the consultant of the consu LARS by registered letter, with a complimentary subscription certificate also enclosed, and send our magazine for one year, from Jan. to Dec. 1882 free of any charge whatever, with a subscribers full privileges to compete in the Eight $125 Month y Lexiconic Orthography Contests, Aggregating $1000.
