FARM HELP. - This question of help is one of a great deal of interest, and has quite an important bearing upon the agricultural development of the state in the future. It has been the custom from time immemorial for most men to hire their help in the spring for the season, or until the crops are harvested in the fall. Then follow three or four months in which the farmer gets along without help, doing his chores himself, while the hired man is out of a job, and must either live upon what he has earned through the summer or get work from other sources. This is not the case in other kinds of business. There men work the year round, and often year after year in the same place. A man likes to be in a kind of business that will give him steady work at a fair compensation. conditions will find a plenty of help that calls for much additional labor, certainly ter season that will help to equalize the work throughout the year. We allude to this as one of the points touching this question of help. The employer wants efficient help, the employed want steady work formed. The relation between the two their just and equal rights.

The number of seeds to a hill may be three or four and the disif too far apart on other soils the brush will be too coarse. As soon as the germ sprouts, and for a month later, the soil should be diligently cultivated and hoed, slight pressure, milk exudes from the seed.

REARING LARGE HORSES.-There is a large profit in rearing large, powerful, enduring horses, as the demand for them at extra prices among us at present is considerably beyond the supply. This can not he fully met for years, and, when done, Europe will gladly take our surplus at equal or perhaps higher prices for an indefinite length of time. The superior profit in rearing these is, that they can be put to light farm work at eighteen to twenty-four months of age, and the hardest of it at now sell will be a clear gain to the farmer. This is the calculation in Europe, and it luncheon. may be still more easily realized in America, where grain, grass and hay are so much cheaper and more abundant.

A NEW disease called scurvy leg, which attacks poultry, is described by an exchange as follows. "It is caused by a gathering of infinitessimal parasites, which come imperceptibly at first, in the crevices between the edges of the leg scales, and apparently forming grayish white warts or roguh bunches. There are millions of them in one bunch. Kerosene oil will destroy them and remove the bunches; brimstone is also said to be good."

A Picture Worth Beholding.

Hanging between two small windows; and catching the light from a larger one Express Company, at 59 Broadway, New York—the office occupied by Mr. W. H. Hall, head of the delivery department-is a plainty finished but neatly framed chromo about 21 by 8 teet in size, which is looked upon by hundreds of people daily, on many of whom it has a wonderful and salutary effect. It represents a flight of half a dozen rough stone steps leading from the swarded bank of a placid lake to a little rustic temple set in the rugged side of the mountain which rises in stupeadous proportions in the background all covered with a rank luxuriant growth of foliage in brush and tree. In the open door of this little temple stands a half concealed figure, with an arm and hand extended, holding forth a small, dimly defined package, while seated on the sward at the foot of the steps an aged pilgrim, barefooted, lame and decrepid, bears a staff in one hand, and in the other holds before his dim eyes a small bottle, whose label he eagerly scans. This label bears the words "St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy." Simple as this little chromo appears in its unostentatious position, it has an influence which it would be difficult to estimate. "It is to that picture and the persuasions of Mr. Hall," suit Mr. Edward J. Douglass, a gentleman connected with Mr. Hall's department "that I owe my present ability to perform my work. Some weeks ago I was violently attacked with sciatic rheumatism, and hour by hour I grew worse, and nothing my family or the doctor could do gave me any relief. I began to think in a few days that my case was hopeless and that I was doomed to be an invalid and hopeless cripple for life. But at last I thought of that picture which I had so often looked at with but little interest, and then Mr. Hall came to my bedside, and telling me how St. Jacobs Oil had cured him of a worse and longer standing case than mine, urged me to use the same remedy. I did so that very night, directing my wife not to spare it but to apply it thoroughly according to the directions; this she did with a large piece of flannel cloth saturated with the Oil, and then bound the cioth to the affected parts. The next morning I was free from pain, and although a little sore in the hip, was able to dress myself, and the next day resumed my duties in the office as sound as a dollar. Here I am now in full health and strength, having had no touch of rheumatism or other pain since. Whenever I see one of our drivers or any other person who shows any symptons of lameness or stiffness, I point him to the picture in Mr. Hail's office, and then

THE ONE GREAT MEDICINE.

Without doubt there are now, and have been for years past, several medicines of remarkable merit before the public—medicines which have been used, in very many cases, with excellent success. The names of these will readily recur to our readers, and they are the names of preparations whose worth, for certain purposes, no one is supposed to deny. But we are fully justified, by undeniable and notorious facts, in saying, and we do unhesitatingly say, that the one great medicine of the present day—the medicine, we mean, which now stands pre-eminent above all others—is the famous Vegetine of Mr. H. R. Stevens of Boston. Some of the undeniable facts respecting this fa-mous medicine are these: First, it is astonishingly efficient in really curing the various diseases for which it is especially compounded and intended.

Second, it acts with a celerity which is generally very surprising. A single bottle has often either cured the user of a serious difficulty, or brought about a most agreeable change, while a very few bottles have in thousands of instances affected the complete cure of a long standing disease which had previously baffled the skill of the best phy-

Third, it acts directly upon the blood, of which it is the only powerful and thorough purifier.

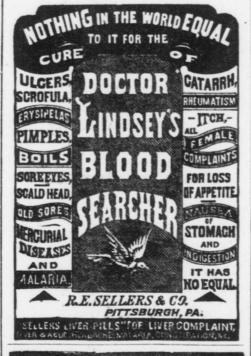

Fourth, the testimonials in support of these facts and the extraordinary worth of this mediacts and the extraordinary worth of this medi-cine are from well-known and most respect-able men and women, and, in many in-stances, from persons holding the highest social positions. They are not certificates from unknown and irresponsible individuals. We, our-selves, know the very high estimation in which vegetine is held in one of the best families in the

There is, in short, and can be, no doubt or mistake whatever about the unprecedented and sur-prising efficacy, value and success of the Vegetine. As a purifier of the blood and a quick renovator and invigorator of the human system, physical and mental, no medicine, as is now generally conceded, has ever been devised and compounded at all equal to it; and, as a speedy and thorough cure for such complaints as catarrh, cough, stomach weakness and faintness, loss of appetite, dyspep-sia, cancerous humors, scrofula, rheumatism, kid-ney and some other equally serious complaints, Vegetine altogether surpasses any and all other known medicinal preparations. The rapidity with which this great medicine has won its way into all parts of this country and various foreign ones since its discovery and introduction, not many years ago, is something alike surprising and con-armatory of its intrinsic excellence.—Providence, (R. L) Gazette.

CATITION

All remedial agents capable of destroying life by an overdose should be avoided. Morphine, opium, strychnine, arnica, hyosciamus, and other powerful remedies, do at certain times, 'n very small doses, relieve the patient during their action in the system. But perhaps the second dose, if repeated, may aggravate and increase the suffering, and another dose cause death. There is no necessity fer using these uncertain agents when a positive remedy like Radway's Ready Relief will stop the most excruciating pain quicker, without entailing the excrugiating pain quicker, without entailing the least difficulty in either infant or adult.

THE TRUE RELIEF.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is the only remedia. agent in vogue that will instantly stop pair Fifty Cents Per Bottle.
