The Democratic State Convention met at Harrisburg yesterday, at 12 o'clock A. M. just a few hours before the JOURNAL goes to press, so that we can not give our readers the result of its deliberations. However it will be wired over the entire state and country before this reaches the eyes of our patrons who the standard bearers are that will lead the party to almost certain victory. As to Governor, all is speculation since Trunkey has positively declined. The nomination may strike Pattison, Hopkins, Cox, Monaghan, H. Hall, Wolvorton, or a remote possibility, some dark horse hardly yet mentioned. For Supreme Judge Ludlow seems to be the strongest man, while J. Simpson Africa has but little opposition for Secretary of Internal Affairs. Who the other candidates may be can now only be guessed at. However it is much more important what they are than who they are.
If the convention but nominates good, able and practical men who are abreast with the spirit and questions of the present—victory is sure.
The make-up of the convention justifies such expectations. The outlook is decidedly auspicious.

The Stewart rump convention which met at Harrisburg last Thursday was a rather tame affair. The convention was largely composed of substitutes, many of the regular delegates refusing to attend. There was no enthusiasm, hardly a hopefulness of success apparent. A feeble effort was made, led by Gen. Jussup, to do something to unite the distracted and shattered party, but it came to nothing tangible.
Marriott Brosius, a lawyer of some local note at Lancaster, was nominated for Congressman-at-Large, John Wamaker and Galustia A. Grow, having declined the doubtful honor.
A resolution was adopted empowering the State Committee to fill any vacancy that may occur on the ticket.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26th, '82. Congress seems to have great difficulty in agreeing upon a mode of counting the electoral votes for President and Vice President. Those who have thought of the matter realize the importance of such a measure, as since the repeal of the 22nd joint rule there is at any time danger of serious disagreement and results under the existing provisions. To most people a satisfactory plan would seem easy of attainment, but somehow it does not present itself to the minds of Congressmen and Senators. Political checker-playing is, however, the real difficulty. If an honest purpose existed to devise a plan independent of any party considerations or advantages it would be simple enough. The bill proposed by Mr. Updegraff of the select special committee on that subject was very properly defeated this week, and is the last of the numerous schemes in that line to go the way of all the earth. The part of this bill which aroused the strongest opposition was the provision that the defeated candidate might proceed by quo warranto and go into the courts to determine the question of title after the votes had been counted and the results declared. This contemplates the possible ousting of a president once seated, and Mr. Hammond, of Georgia, aptly remarked that it ought to be entitled, "a bill to raise hell in the United States." Mr. Hewitt opposed it and said he was satisfied that no man installed in the office of President could be ousted inside of his four years by any method short of revolution. The simplest and only practical plan is to have all questions pertaining to the choice of electors settled by the State courts and make the decision final and binding upon Congress.

Mr. George William Curtis, President of the New York Civil Service Reform Association, has sent a circular to all the Government employes here, warning them not to respond to the forced levy of the Republican Campaign Committee, under pain of being proceeded against according to the Revised Statutes prohibiting such contributions. It is understood that Mr. Curtis has or will send a copy of this circular to custom house officers and Government employes generally throughout the country. There is no question that a large majority of them would be very glad to get off paying the assessment if their tenure of office is not thereby impaired. They are placed in somewhat of a dilemma. A female clerk in one of the departments "insisted a day or two since on making a comparatively large contribution to the campaign committee. She placed her own action on the score of patriotism, but some of her associate clerks said she did it with the hope of making herself "solid" in her office.

News Miscellany.

It is estimated that there are $30,000,000 invested in the Pennsylvania railroad shops in Altoona. When in full operation they employ 3200 men, and the pay-roll reaches $170,000 per month.
A number of cases of a disease which is pronounced pink-eye by physicians, have appeared in several families in different portions of Harrisburg. The symptoms are an inflammation of the inside of the eyelids, and appearance of hard lumps on the outside, accompanied by severe pains in the temples. The disease is said to be contagious.
Three Girls Commit Suicide Together
DANVILLE, Ills., June 22.—Allie Mills, aged four years, Mary Ogle, aged seventeen, and Mary Jones, aged twelve, committed suicide this morning by taking arsenic. Allie Mills gave as her reason that her father lived with a shameless woman. Miss Ogle's reason was that she was an orphan, and Mary Jones took the drug because the others did.
THE WESTERN CROPS.
Wheat in Kansas Promising a Large Yield of Good Quality.
ATCHISON, Kan., June 22.—Harvesters are busy all over Kansas, even in northern sections. The yield will exceed the estimate a month ago, and wheat in many sections turn out twenty-five to forty bushels to the acre and of the very best quality. Rye and oats are equally good, and both are beyond danger. Corn is now growing magnificently, the average being larger than ever. The farmers are consequently happy.
A Frog-Hunter Shoots a Woman.
READING, June 23.—John Broom, a resident of Friedensburg Lehigh county wishing to go frog shooting to-day borrowed a double-barreled shotgun from James Fisher. While passing John Evers' house Mrs. Evers appeared and accused him of shooting her pet cat and forbade him the shooting of frogs on their premises, whereupon he took aim at her and fired. Several shots lodged in her legs, but with no fatal result. The affair created quite an excitement in the village. No arrests were made.
Don't Be Taken In.
Two men are going through adjoining counties offering charms for the prevention and cure of chills and fever for sale at fifty cents apiece. The charms are a small egg shaped object, neatly covered, and the cure was to be effected by the patients wearing one of them suspended around his neck next to the body. Strange to say the vendors disposed of quite a number. One woman bought one for each of her children, and as the chills of course came on as usual, she cut one of the charms open. It proved to consist of two brass thimbles, placed mouth to mouth and containing the dead body of a spider wrapped in a bit of rag.
An Enemy to Farmers.
An exchange says that the dairymen and farmers of this and other states are agitated by the presence of a new weed, known as "Long John," believed to have been brought in by western grass seed. It grows three feet high, has the appearance of a species of mustard, and blossoms with small yellow flowers. Cattle are extremely fond of it, eating it in preference to grass. The milk from cows feeding upon it is rendered worthless, the butter therefrom being worse than rancid, and utterly valueless for anything but common grease. The managers of cheese factories are watchful lest a batch of this milk shall spoil the whole make of cheese.
A BOY'S GHASTLY DISCOVERY.
Finding His Father and Mother in a Pool of Blood.
PITTSBURG, June 20.
To-day, shortly after 12 o'clock, a German carpenter named Peter Weinkauff living on Frankstown avenue, East End, killed his wife by first striking her down with a base ball bat and then cutting her throat with an 18-inch butcher knife. After accomplishing his aim he cut his own throat, nearly severing his head from the trunk, with the same weapon used to dispatch his wife. No one was present when the double crime was committed, but shortly afterwards a fifteen year old son of Weinkauff entered the house and found the couple lying dead on the floor in a great pool of blood. He hurried down stairs, locking the door, and at once notified the police authorities. Weinkauff was a man of considerable property and the woman was his second wife. By a former wife he had five children, the eldest being twenty-three years of age. The cause of the murder is attributed to the fact that his second wife some time ago induced him to sign a deed conveying to her all of his property, part of which had been left him by his first wife in trust for the children. The couple had lived unhappily for some time and yesterday it is said, Mr. Weinkauff had stated that she intended getting a divorce.

COMMENCEMENT AT NEW BERLIN, PA.

Sabbath was a warm yet pleasant day and the church services, of preaching and S. School were attended by those who believe it a duty as a privilege, to wait on the Lord, in the congregation, on the Lord's appointed day, the day of rest from earthly toil.

The multitude gathered, on the eve of this hallowed day, in the Evangelical church to hear Rev. J. Young, of Williamsport, preached an earnest, weighty, interesting Baccalaureate sermon from the words—"Occupy until I come."
On Monday evening Rev. H. B. Hartzler, Editor of the Evangelical Messenger, of Cleveland, Ohio, delivered an excellent lecture before the literary societies of Union Seminary. The ability, manner, and oratory of the lecturer are such as to hold an audience and send truth home to the heart with telling effect, while his editorial work can be best learned of by referring to the periodical he so ably edits.

At the sounding of the bell, on Tuesday morning the board of trustees met in the chapel before whom the question "of making an addition to the Seminary building" was brought, and favorably considered. Such speaks well for the progress of the School when the cry comes for another building needed.
On Tuesday evening Judge Sessaman lectured on the subject—"Former days of Union Seminary." His was a fine historic lecture, descriptive of the rise and progress of this institution of learning up to 1863 when this with other colleges closed doors because of the Rebellion, for it is a fact that wars and schools can not prosper together. Reunion day for the permanent organization of the Alumni was fixed for Wednesday. Many of the old or former students had assembled to "greet one another again," letters of regret were read from others who could not attend while comrades, now dead, were remembered and spoken of with a tear or a sigh.

The generous-hearted, hospitable New Berliners had provided a sumptuous, free dinner for all on two long tables in the campus of which about three hundred par took, and the many fragments were sent to the board and of the community who felt thankful for the large remains.
The day was pleasantly spent in pleasant conversation, speech-making and literary exercises and closed with singing "Auld Lang Syne," then a fine military drill by the students and the band led by Cap. Mitchell.

"When shall we meet again,
Meet ne'er to sever,"
The programme for the evening consisted of Oration and Essays by some of the students of whom seven graduated from the Commercial department, and one, Miss Annie E. Shortess graduated from the Classical and Scientific department.
A large audience, estimated at 2500 people, had gathered to witness these closing exercises. The decorations by the literary societies on the west wall of the building were beautiful, and presented a brilliant appearance at night, and the stage and seats in the campus were far from enough to give places for the people.
Prof. Gobbie, whose father lives west of Millheim a few miles, once a Centre Co. youth, and a graduate of an Eastern College, is the successful and zealous principal of Union Seminary. He with his faithful assistants are doing a noble work for young men and ladies who attend this school for instruction in any of its departments.
Success and prosperity to this institution.
COSMOPOLITE.
