The Model Candidate.

Pattison was not present in Harrisburg at the convention which nominanated him; he never left his office in Philadelphia, nor was he for a moment upset or distracted by his nomination. Such self possession in a young man not yet thirty-two years of age, and nominated for the highest office in the gift of the people of a great state, is so far as it relates the squandering of extract gives the general tennor and spirit of the message, but it had not the slightest weight with our present corrupt congress and the disgraceful measure was passed over the President's veto by a twothirds vote:

My principal objection to the bill is that it contains appropriations for purposes not for the common defense or general welfare and which do not promote commerce among the states. tirely for the benefit of the particular make improvements. I regard such appropriation of the public money as be- permit. yond the power given by the constitution to Congress and the President. I feel more cound to withhold my signature from the bill because of the pecudiar evils which manifestly result from this infraction of the constitution. Appropriations of this nature to be devot ed purely to local objects tend to an increase in number and in amount. As the citizens of one State find that money, to raize which they, in common with the whole country, are taxed, is to be expended for local improvements in another State, they demand similar benefits for themselves. It is not unnatural that they should seek to indemnify themselves for such use of public funds by securing appropriations for similar improvements in their own neighborhood.

Thus, as the bill becomes more objectionable, it secures more support. This result invariably and unnecessarily follows a neglect to observe the constitutional limitations imposed upon the law making power.

Give Pattison a Chance.

Yes give Pattison a chance! He is a platform within bimself. Like the Roman matron, who pointed to her children as her jewels, the Democrats point to his magnificent record while Comptroller of Philadelphia as their political jewel. He does not come to taxpayers with honeyed words of promised reform when he gets into office. He lays which tell of millions saved to the debt-ridden taxpayers. He makes no promises; he does better; he shows what he has actually done, and lays this before the voters as an carnest of what he will do for the State if he has the opportunity: He has been tried and not failed wherein most men fail. He has actually managed the people's affairs with the same care as his own. He has saved money to the taxpayers, and is not afraid to be honest.

We say again, give Pattison a chance. We want such a man at Harrisburg. We want him there, that when the thief and the plunderer come up with their fraudulent claims, he can say to them, "I forbid." Added to his incorruptible record, he has youth; is ambitious to make a great name; is full of ardor; and is free from political complications that would compel him to administer the State - Government in the interest of any man or ring. It would be administered for the people and only in their interest. We want a new leaf turned over. New political methods are required to place the State back in the old rut of economy and honesty. If the peo- William H. Weaver. No. 2. ple of Pennsylvania give Robert E. Voters should attend to these important | Pattison a chance, they will never have cause to regret it. Congressional Humor.

It is very amusing-yery. It makes the politicians laugh, even if the judicious grieve. When Butterworth made some remarks on the floor of Congress so indecent that they would not be permitted to appear in the Congressional Record, and ladies were warned from the galleries, his colleagues laughed heartily. Mr. Butterworth was so pert and pleasing and blackguardish that they were compelled to hold their sides, they laughed so much. When the Vice President-elect of the United States, now its President, described at a Delmonico dinner, in honor of Star Route Dorsey, by what persuasive arts of corruption that sweet gentleman had for settlement.
G. M. HARTER, sayed Indiana, the table was set in a roar. It was so highly diverting. When Senator Ingalls described the river and harbor bill, by which it is proposed to certainly remarkable, and his letter take twenty millions of dol'ars from marks an epoch in the history of polit- the treasury to aid in the re-election of ics in Pennsylvania. Another Ticket in Prospect,

There is some talk of making the political situation in Pennsylvania still more interesting by the organization of a third Republican party for the fall campaign. This body is to be a kind of compromise between the Regular, Republicans and the Independents, or rather a refuge into which any Republican who is dissatisfied with the Cam-Those provisions in controversy are en- eron domination, and not entirely pleased with the Independent position localities in which it is proposed to can place himself, and be as happy as the somewhat involved situation will

> THE Republicans of the eighth Ohio congressional district have made the disgraceful conduct and arbitrary rulings of speaker Kiefer their own by a unanimous re-nomination of that petty little man, at Springfield on the 2nd instant.

> BLAIR county has two colored aspirants for legislative honors-George J. Irons, a colored musician, who announces himself as an independent republican candidate, and Mr. Nesbit, a prominent colored politician and a stalwart republican.

The Case Clearly Stated.

The New York Tribune thus tersely and correctly sums up the Republican situation in Pennsylvania:

It is absurd to say that General Beaver has any chance of being elected. He could not be if the In dependent ticket were out of the field-He simply blocks the way. The Independents say he represents Bossism, against which they are fighting, and that so long as he stays in the field they will stay. Upon him and not upon them rests their esponsibility of the threatened disaster. Senator Cam eron put him in the field in the face of the Inde pendent protest because he did not believe the Independents would dar to continue their opposition. He has found out now that he misca lculated, but rather than retreat he will def eat the party. Let the responsibility be put where it belongs, upon the Boss system. We have been hoping that the Repub licans of the State would rise in their might and save the party from defeat by dispairing the Boss before election day. Perhaps they will yet, but the prospect is not encourageing.

The responsibility is just "where it belongs, upon the Boss system," and no ingenuity of machine leaders or of weak-kneed, half-shell Independents open his record; he shows the figure can delude any intelligent voter on the

> The open boast by Cooper and Beayer that large numbers of Democratic votes are to be secured for Beaver, will make the delivery of the promised Democratic votes impossible, and must drive thousands of honest Republicans from the Boss lines.

> By-and by Cameron, Cooper and Beaver will learn that there is now a popular flood against Bosses and spoilsmen; and as fast as they stop one overflow, two will break out to give vent to the irresistible tide that can take no pause until the Boss machine is destroyed .-Philada. Times.
