A Machine Candidate on the Machine. The following is from an interview with Wm. T. Davies, Cameron candidate for lieutenant governor, in the Philadelphia Times of December 24, the day after the committee of the Continental conference issued its address.

"You desire me to talk about the object of our organization. Well, our chief complaint is this: The managers of Philadelphia political affairs as well as those of Pittsburgh have everything in their own hands, and by carrying a few counties with them they secure political control of the state. It makes no difference what the wish of the people may be their desires are set aside and practically ignored. Why, in my canvass for state treasurer I would have been elected, receiving three votes to one for my opponent, had the people been allowed to carry out their wishes. I could have had the Philadelphia delegates with me but why did not? Simply because our party has been guided by men who invariably deny that the masses of people have any right to a voice in the matter of nominations to office. The people declare that A shall be nominated, but a junto says he shall not but B shall. This is not true republicanism and we protest and shall continue to protest and we believe our protest will be heard."

THE PROHIBITION TIDE.

Politicians at a Loss to Know How to Meet It.

WASHINGTON, August 23.—The rapid spread of the prohibition movement and its aggressiveness confuse and alarm politicians here. They do not know what to make of it or how to treat it. All popular movements resting on moral and sentimental grounds are objects of annoyance to the practical politicians. The reports from the west show that the movement is assuming formidable proportions, and is infecting large districts of territory. That it will play an important part in determining the results of the campaign in the coming elections is acknowledged, and the movement is looked upon as one that will not expend its strength in the immediate future.

CAMPAIGN ASSESSMENTS.

How the Disgraceful Work goes on.

WASHINGTON, August 23.—The assessment agents of the Hubbell committee are visiting to-day the army and navy departments. All the departments are systematically worked. The modus operandi is as follows: The committee assign one or more agents to each department. They visit the chief clerks of the different bureaus and ask permission to call on the clerks. This is granted; whereupon the agents, who have complete lists of the clerks, showing their salaries, and who have and who have not subscribed, go to those who have ignored the Hubbell circular and ask them for a subscription equal to two per cent. of their salaries. The demand is generally complied with in cash or a promise to pay on the following pay day. The name is then checked off and the agent proceeds on his route.

In Philadelphia the Committee of One Hundred are determined to have a fair election as far as in them lies. They just issued a circular offering $1,000, to be distributed as rewards to persons whose testimony shall lead to the conviction of election assessors willfully falsifying or neglecting their lists or failing to sit for correction of the list at the time and places specified by law. For the first five convictions, rewards of $100 each, and for the next ten of $50 each, will be paid.

SENATOR Hear, of Massachusetts, has consumed five columns of small type to explain why he voted for the river and harbor bill and it will take at least five columns more to make his vote satisfactory to the people of his state.

CHAIRMAN Hensel has appointed P. Gray Meek secretary of the state committee. Just the very chap who can do the business right. Our wide-awake chairman could not have made a better selection.

It is estimated that the Independents will poll 500 votes in Blair county. Let them poll away.

A Significant Prophecy.

Beaver has been interviewed frequently since his nomination and always confidently predicted his election. Stewart has been interviewed once or twice and expressed faith in his success. Armstrong now comes to the front and declares that the battle is between Beaver and himself, and that he will defeat Beaver. Pattison is the only candidate who hasn't proclaimed his own election in advance. He seems to be busy controlling the public accounts of Philadelphia, but he may rise up about the morning after the election and express his confidence in his own success.—Times.

SILAS M. CLARK, Democratic nominee for Judge of the Supreme Court, is a successful farmer as well as a distinguished lawyer. His farm will yield one thousand bushels of wheat and rye this year, all which is harvested and partly threshed.

Governor Colquitt, of Georgia, is an open advocate of prohibition, and makes speeches in which he tells his hearers that Georgia will never amount to anything great until liquors of all kind are banished from her borders.

That's it Exactly.

All the Pennsylvania Democrats have to do to win a great victory in this fight is to attend to their own business and leave the Republican factions alone.

Meeting of the Northern Conference.

The Northern Conference of the Synod of Central Pennsylvania met at Hartleton, Union county, Tuesday evening Aug. 22nd 1882. In the absence of the President, Rev. J. A. Koser, Rev. P. A. Heilman preached the opening sermon.

Wednesday morning conference formally opened for business. Rev. W. H. Diven was elected President pro tem. The following delegates answered to their names:

CLERICAL.—Rev. J. G. Anspach, Rev. S. Henry, Millburg, Rev. S. F. Greenhoe, White Deer, Rev. P. A. Heilman, Lock Haven, Rev. W. H. Diven, Salona, Rev. C. W. Scriver, Nittany Hall, Rev. S. E. Furst, Bellefonte, Rev. W. E. Fisher, Centre Hall, Rev. John Tomlinson, Aaronsburg, Rev. A. K. Zimmermann, Rebersburg, Rev. M. L. Furst, Hartleton.

(ABSENTES.—Rev. J. A. Koser, Pine Grove Mills, Rev. J. K. Miller, Centre Hall, Rev. R. H. Fletcher, Lock Haven.)

LAY.—Charles Ruhl, Buffalo, W. H. Harter, Hartleton, W. S. Rauch, White Deer, John A. Swartz, Hubersburg, B. O. Deininger, Millheim, George Brumgard, Wolf's Store, Christian Dale, Boalsburg.

VISITING MINISTERS.—Rev. J. W. Goodlin, Secretary Board of Home Missions, York, Prof. J. M. Bickle, Pennsylvania College.

After the usual routine business was disposed of, an able and comprehensive essay on the Second Article of the Augsburg Confession was read by Rev. S. Henry, followed by a discussion on the same, until the hour of adjournment.

In the afternoon Rev. J. W. Goodlin delivered a very interesting address on the home mission work of the church. Rev. P. A. Heilman followed with a well-prepared essay on The Object of Ecclesiastical Instruction. The essay elicited some very practical and instructive remarks by Revs. Fisher, S. E. Furst, and others.

In the evening Rev. A. K. Zimmermann preached a discourse on Benevolence, to a full audience, after which a collection for home missions was taken up.

Thursday morning Prof. Bickle, in an address of half an hour, gave a very satisfactory statement of the status, work and prospects of Pennsylvania College.

The mooted question, How shall Protracted Meetings be conducted? was opened by Rev. W. E. Fisher. This subject was discussed by several ministers with much earnestness; and while it was plainly manifest that differences of opinion do exist on the vexed question, it was agreed on all hands that all religious services should be conducted "decently and in order."

In the afternoon an interesting children's meeting was held. The spacious church was well filled. Rev. J. W. Goodlin spoke to the children on Little Things, B. O. Deininger on Jewels, and Rev. W. E. Fisher on A Mess of P's.

Thursday evening Rev. S. E. Furst delivered the closing sermon to a large and attentive audience, after which conference adjourned to meet at Salona Monday evening Nov. 27th next.

The members of conference were most royally entertained by the good people of Hartleton. All the sessions were well attended and much interest was manifested in the exercises. There is reason to believe that mutual and lasting good will result from this meeting of the Northern Conference.

News Miscellany.

Yellow fever rages in Texas, and the Health Board of the State of Mississippi has quarantined many railroad stations on the borders of the state.

Dime novel reading inspired three Shamokin boys to play "go west and shoot Indians." The affair had a tragic end, one of the boys accidentally shooting himself with a revolver, the shot proving fatal.

A rattlesnake with seventeen rattles was killed in the streets of Muncy recently.

The house of a Somerset county farmer was entered by a gang of burglars who chloroformed the sleeping inmates and stole thirteen hundred dollars.

In Illinois potatoes are offered for twenty-five cents per bushel for fall delivery, with no takers.

At a social gathering in Washington county a riot was inaugurated in which stones were thrown, windows demolished, doors smashed down, chairs broken, while one young man had all his teeth knocked out and another was stabbed with a butcher knife. The ringleaders in this pleasant entertainment were arrested.

A Johnstown landlord failed to put the printed notices in his hotel in accordance with the law of 1876, and when he brought action against absconding retailed by bringing suit against the landlord for not complying with the law in having notices posted, and there is a fair prospect that he will go to jail for something less than six months unless the matter is compromised. Landlords and boarding house keepers will save trouble and expense by having the law posted in office and bedrooms.

The new postal money order bill promises to be a measure of real convenience to the public. Orders for a sum less than $5 will cost 3 cents, and a service is extended so as to raise the limit of orders from $50 to $100. Further, persons will not be required to fill out a blank, as at present, for an order, but will receive an order payable to the bearer at the money-order office designated by the applicant. The new notes are to be handsomely engraved and in appearance will not be unlike bank notes.

There is excitement in sporting circles at Shamokin over the shooting match soon to take place between Karstetter and Promelter for a purse of $100.

SHORT WILL.—Thomas Kelley's will, recently probated in Philadelphia, reads as follows: "I will that Margaret Kelley, my wife, shall have this property and house while she lives and do as she wishes with it."

Ambrose Lindsey, of North Carolina can go to Europe. His potato crop is gathered and sold, and his net profit on the $80,000 he received something over $50,000.

A good farm in Indiana has been allowed to run to weeds for five years, because of a belief that it is under the curse of a former owner, whose ghost walks the field at night, and would make it unpleasant for a tenant.

The Law and Order League of Mount Joy, Lancaster county, have posted up throughout that town the following notice. The League could find lots of work in other towns than Mount Joy, throughout the state:

"The Law and Order League hereby gives notice that the laws against profanity will be strictly enforced. All citizens are requested to bring information and assist in rooting out this pernicious practice."

A NOVEL DUEL.

Deperate Battle Between a Cat and a Snake.

Pussy's Clever Stratagem.

From the New York Sun.

Garter-snakes abound in Trenton. A gentleman who recently took a house near One Hundred and Seventy-eighth street and Third avenue said yesterday to a reporter: "On Wednesday morning as I was dressing I looked out of the window and saw the cat acting oddly. She was springing from side to side and evidently trying at times to avoid something and then to seize it. I hurried into the garden and found the cat engaged in a fight with a garter-snake. The reptile was so intent on keeping its enemy before it, it's only hope for life, that it did not see me, but the cat noticed my approach, though she lost none of her vigilance in doing so. She is a small animal, a capital mouser, but certainly inexperienced as a snake-killer. She seemed at first a little frightened, but seeing me she gained courage and her attacks upon the snake became fiercer and more frequent."

"It was like a sparring match. Every effort of the cat to seize the snake was foiled by the rapid movement of the reptile, which repeatedly struck fiercely at its assailant, leaving her back, but apparently not injuring her. Finally the cat adopted curious tactics. She walked round and round the snake, forcing the latter, with its head raised high above the grass, to twist in one direction in order to face her, until its body assumed a spiral form. Of course it could not continue this movement indefinitely, and when it could go no further and the cat still moved around it, the reptile, with lightning-like rapidity, twisted the other way. For the infinitesimal part of a second its eyes were not turned towards its enemy; it was not enough. The cat had been watching for the opportunity thus offered, and, quick as it was the snake's movement, her own was quicker. Before it could face her she had seized it about four inches below the head. In vain the snake writhed and coiled around her. It could not shake off the cruel hold, which was only relinquished when the reptile's head was entirely severed from its body."

"The cat then made an attempt to feed upon her victim's flesh, but, apparently not liking the meal, turned and walked away. I examined her, but as far as I could see the snake's teeth had not penetrated her fur. The snake was a little more than three feet long."

"Don't forget that it takes money to get uniforms for our band and that you ought to help them along next Friday and Saturday."
