-Sergeant C. R. Stam, son of Dr. Stam, of this place, was here last week to visit his parents and friends Sergeant Stam has just served a five years' term in the U.S. Marine service, most of which time was spent in ernising South American waters. He left on Monday for New York.

-There is a very general desire to have a Great Big Democratic Day Mass Meeting at some central point in the valleys some time during the campaign and that Ex-Gov. Curtin be present as one of the speakers. We submit this matter to our wide-awake chairman Maj. Forster, and propose Millheim the proper place. With proper efforts we can have a regular old-fashioned demon stration that will arouse and inspire the sturdy democratic yomanry of the valleys and make a telling effect on the eection. Yes, let us have a big meet-

-Another of our old and respected citizens is taken from our midst by the dark messenger of death. Samuel Albright, who was born and lived all his life time in Millheim, is no more. He was an industrious, honest and kindhearted man as ever lived. His familiar face and voice will be much missed by his neighbors and townsmen as well as by his family. The steady, constant sound of hammer and anvil have ceased for him forever. Thus the old fathers are called away to eternity, one after another in quick succession-and we are soon to follow. Do we live in full view and appreciation of these solemu facts?

A Mammoth of the Forest.

From the Miasouri Republican. A mammoth tree, cut in Mexico, Audrain county, the other day, measured nine feet through, near the ground, was one hundred and ten feet high, the first limb growing out at a height of thirty feet from its lase and is thought to have been at least three hundred years old. The wood was made up into eight hundred rails, three hundred fence posts, besides ten cords of firewood. By its fall twelve squirrels and one raccoon were killed. This was undoubtedly the largest tree in

How a Horse-Thief Escaped.

ALLENTOWN, September 4.—Offieer Smith, of this city, had a serious encounter with a horsethief this afternoon. He had followed and overtaken the thief near Potistown and was on his return to Allentown when the latter suddenly jumped out of the carriage and picked up a heavy stone. The officer promptly jumped out, but slipped and fell, and while lying prostrate the thief struck him several blows on the head, partially stunning him. The blood streamed off over the officer's face but having no weapon with him he could not defend himself effectually. The thief would pro bably have killed the officer had not a man approached in a wagon. Fearing rearrest the thief fled and took to the woods in the Lehigh Mountains, near Emans. The team was recovered. It was stolen on Sunday morning from Ceorge Sassaman, of this city.

A Fight With a Boa Constrict-

Fargo Dispatch to the St. Louis Globe-Dem. Just after the close of a circus performance at Fargo, D T., this afternoon, a huge boa constrictor and python made their escape from their cage and, not having been fed for two or three days, seized upon a young camel and crushed it to death in an instant. One of them went for a beautiful Indian antelope and would have killed it in a moment, but a number of circus men came to the rescue with pitchforks and goads and drove the serpent into a corner. Jenny Hickey, the young girl(who acts as snake charmer and has charge of the monster, was summoned and struck the largest snake twice with her whip. He darted furiously at her, twirled himself around her and in a second or two would have crushed Manufactured by her in his coils, as he had the baby cam el, but, with great presence of mind, The town council of Osceola passed she drew the long, keen knife she always carries for such emergencies and cut the huge reptile in two. It was a narrow escape, and the girl was greeted with a round applause when she came into the ring to-night.

HYDROPEOBIA'S HORRORS

Sufferings of a Woman in Reading. Who Was Bitten by a Dog.

Special Dispatch to the Times. READING, September 7. Ten weeks ago to-day Mrs. Elizabeth Guckert, aged forty. Eve, a widow, was badly bitten by a large dog. The animal belonged to a butcher in the suburbs of this city and had been whipped by a stranger. The dog ran into Mrs. Guckert's back yard and took posession of an empty kennel. The woman went out when she heard the dog whining and when she approached the kennel the dog bo unded out and savagely attacked her. He jumped up and seized her by her right arm, below the elbow, fastening his teeth in her flesh and inflicting a large wound. The flesh was torn nearly to the bone and bled profusely. The wound was bound up and the woman taken to the office of Dr. Kuhn, who applied proper remedies and cauterized it. It was a month in healing and the doctor says be thought then she was out of danger. Nothing more was heard of the case un til yesterday. The woman visited her brother, John Martin, in this city, on Monday. She complained of great nervousites and exhaustion. On Tuesdry'she took to bed and on Wednes-Hog cholera appeared in Nittany day Dr. Kubn was sent for. He says
