PUBLIC SALE REGISTER

March 15th, John Greninger, near Logh Mills, Susar Valley, live stock and farming implements.

March 23rd, Henry Moyer, Penn township, live stock and farming implements.

March 29th, Jonathan Kremer, live stock, wagons, buggies, and household goods.

—Money was sold at 20 per cent. premium at the meeting of the B. & L. Association on Monday night.

—A fine line of Easter cards for Sunday schools just received at the JOURNAL STORE.

—We see by the Telegraph that Wm. Dreiblebs bought the Dreiblebs mill property in Union county, at public sale the other Saturday.

—On two points people hereabouts are unanimous—namely that it was very stormy last Wednesday and stinging cold the following morning.

FOR SALE.—Rev. C. F. Deininger offers his valuable property in Millheim at private sale. For particulars inquire of H. K. Luse, on the premises.

—Last Friday night and Saturday morning a snow fell of about six inches deep. It took the starch right out of people who had thought of making garden. How many more snows do you think are back yet?

—If some of our farmer subscribers have more corn than cash, they can settle their subscriptions in corn—and it makes no difference to the printer whether it be for arrears, in advance, or for the current year.

—It always does our big Jumbo heart good to receive a visit from our friend Major Fisher. He called to see us last week on business of course, but stayed a good spell to talk of old times and scenes, not forgetting good old Berks county, where both of us were born and attended school together.

—Read the annual borough statement in another column. It is a full and detailed exhibit of the receipts and expenses of the borough and shows that our officers have managed the public business economically and well, for which they deserve due credit by our citizens.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Monday about noon a little son of Mr. Daniel Kerstetter residing at Penns Creek, met his death by being severely scalded in a tub of hot water that was standing on the porch. The boy suffered intensely, but was graciously relieved by death the same night. He was about six years old.

—J. A. Lambert is really one of the most accommodating and reliable fellows that ever drove a stage. Throughout the year he carries a very large amount of express goods all along the route, and delivers them in person.

Everything is always right and his charges are really moderate. You can safely entrust our business to him.

RENTING HOUSES.—The law of Pennsylvania defining the relation of landlords and tenants is clearly stated. When a tenant rents a house from year to year, running say from April 1, 1882, the three months' notice to quit must be given before April 1, 1883, or the tenant can occupy the premises for another year. But when the lease is for a fixed, definite period an announcement of expiration of the time is unnecessary.

A NOBLE WOMAN.—Mrs. Emmy B. Drexel, of Philadelphia, who died last week, paid the rent of more than one hundred and fifty poor families, and distributed among the poor over twenty thousand dollars a year. She employed a woman to institute inquiry into the merits of each applicant, and every week dispensed groceries, clothing and money to the poor, who gathered every Tuesday in the rear of her residence.

—Last week Rev. E. D. Keene came to visit the bid home, old friends, parents and relatives—and what was real nice of him, he brought the brand new wife along. On Sunday evening he preached a very satisfactory sermon to a well filled house, and after enjoying the kind hospitalities of the friends for a few days, left for his new field of labor at Thompsettown, Juniata county. May he be abundantly successful in his chosen calling.

—No matter what you may need in the line of house furniture, whether it be a Parlor Suit, Bed-Room Suit, Set of Chairs, Rocker, Lounge, or any single article of the more common furniture, you can do as well, both as regards quality and price, by buying from Squire Camp, at Centre Hall, as anywhere else. The people of the valleys sure ly have no good reason to go away from home for good and cheap furniture.

MUSICAL INSTRUCTION.—The undersigned will again resume his work of teaching and will give lessons on Piano or Organ at reasonable rates. The spring term will begin the first week in April. Persons residing in Aaronsburg, Millheim, Rebersburg or in the vicinity of any of these places, who are desirous of taking lessons will please write or apply in person to W. T. MEYER, Aaronsburg, Pa.

—PROFESSOR WIGGINS, the Canada storm prophet, is a failure and will be forced out of business by an indignant people. The storm he said was coming was intended to shake up old mother earth from centre to circumference, as it had never been shaken before. There were some storms of course, mingled with rain and snow such as the stormy March generally brings, but they were no more violent than usual, and confined themselves to the Ohio valley, the New England coast and vicinity of Halifax.

Now that this scare is over who will create the next? Wiggins must step down and out in disgrace, but what dance will next be allowed to frighten timid people into stopping work and business and building arks on the roofs of houses, as a fool in San Francisco did?

It would be well if this christian nation would learn to trust more in Him who holds the Universe in the hollow of His hands and pay less attention to those periodical cranks who disturb the public peace by prophesying all sorts of violent convulsions in nature. Away with Wiggins and all of his ilk.

—Those of our subscribers who expect to change their post offices will please notify us of the fact.

—Every paper is expected to give a detailed account of the hanging of Uriah Moyer. People want to read it—know all about it, and papers very generally make the most out of such revolting affairs. We would not travel a mile to see a hanging and our preference would be to state the event in the fewest possible words. But not all people have the same views on the matter, and so we have selected the plainest, most direct and shortest account of the execution accessible, which we clip from the Lewisburg Chronicle.

Uriah Moyer Executed.

MIDDLEBURG, Pa., March 7.—Uriah Moyer was hanged in the jail yard here at eight minutes past eleven this morning, for the murder of Gretchen Kintzler on December 8, 1877. He passed a quiet night, sleeping well. When led out of his cell to the scaffold he stepped up firmly and exhibited great nerve. The prisoner gazed calmly on the crowd of two hundred people and stated that the murder was committed on Friday evening by him and Emanuel Ettinger; that he and his brother Jonathan and Ettinger robbed and burned the body and the premises on Saturday evening. He said, too, that it had been said that his brother Joseph was also present, but that that was not so.

Prayer was then offered, to which the condemned made responses. After this the Sheriff pinioned his arms and ankles and the rope was adjusted, the white cap was placed over his head and the drop fell. He died without a struggle in about seven minutes.

The confession made to Rev. Mr. Spangler is very damaging to Israel Erb, whom many people thought might have been wrongfully under sentence of death. Following are the principal points in Moyer's confession:

"I never thought of murder until Israel Erb spoke to me about the killing of John Kintzler. He said that John was a man all devil; that he called him a rail thief, and that he would like to see him killed. He said further that he was no good to anybody. That he had no friends to hunt it up if he was killed, and that a person would be perfectly safe in doing it. He said, we don't need to kill the old woman. We can lay in the woods about the house, and then when old John comes up to let off the wood to run it over his hand we could shoot him and then throw his faces up so the old woman would not know us, which would save her, and she would tell us where all the money was. I told Emanuel Ettinger of the conversation that passed between me and Erb, and he agreed to go along and do his part. So Emanuel and I were there and watched in the woods at different times, but never got sight of John Kintzler."

The confession then refers to another attempt to kill the old man, when Perry Bleckhart, who has fled to the South, was to have done the shooting, and had been waiting a long time to carry out his purpose. The confession then gives an account of the double murder. He and Ettinger had gone to Kintzler to have a lard can mended.

"Ettinger was sitting on the grindstone behind us with the gun lying across his knees. He at once pulled at the hammer with his thumb, when Kintzler heard him and asked what he was doing. Ettinger said: 'I was just playing with the hammer.' Kintzler said: 'I want nobody to fool with a gun in my house; put it down.' I said, 'Yes, Emanuel, put it down.' He did so. After the can was mended, I said, 'I think it still leaks.' Kintzler said, 'No, it don't; I shut all the holes that were in it.' I then said, 'We could see if we would put water into it.' When I started toward the spring Kintzler came to the door a little to the right and stood there. I went to the spring, filled the can about half full of water, and as I was holding it up I said: 'I don't think it leaks at all.' Kintzler then came walking towards me. When he was close to me I said, 'I guess it don't leak.' Just as I turned the can to pour out the water, Ettinger fired. Kintzler turned toward the house immediately. Ettinger intercepted him, and a severe struggle ensued. I started to run up through the lot, got on the fence, and looked back just as Ettinger dispatched the old man. He then came running up the lot toward where I was. I beckoned with my hand to go back. I meant to kill the old woman, for I knew she would tell on us. He turned, ran back, and met the old lady right inside of the door. He struck her once with the gun, when she sank to the floor. Afterward she breathed heavily, and he struck her again. That finished her. The next night we went and set fire to the house."

TWO TOWNS CONTRASTED.

Yonkers and Vineland.

The Evening Post makes the following comparison between two well-known towns:

"A striking contrast, showing the effect on municipal expenditure of the sale of intoxicating liquors, is made by comparing the expenditure of two towns not far from equal in population—Vineland, in New Jersey, where the sale of liquors is actually as well as legally prohibited, and Yonkers, N. Y., which has 143 licensed drinking places, and seventy shops where liquor is sold contrary to law. Vineland has about 12,000 inhabitants, and Yonkers less than 15,000. Yonkers spends on its police 37,000 and the police duties of Vineland are performed by one constable at the annual expense of $75. Yonkers has a police judge with a salary of $4,000, and a clerk who is paid $800; Vineland has no police court, and needs none. The paupers of Yonkers cost the town $12,000; Vineland has a corresponding expense of $400 Altogether, these articles of expense cost Yonkers $53,800; in Vineland, $475. Making proportionate allowance for the difference in population, the government of Yonkers, so far as these expenses are concerned, costs more than ninety times as much as that of Vineland."

The above contrast, however, presents only the pecuniary cost of the liquor traffic. If the poverty, misery, moral degradation and suffering resulting from the traffic could be computed in money, it would increase the contrast by millions.

The Cause of the Recent Business Failures.

Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. The list of business failures during the last three months, during all the time congress was in session and engaged in wrangling over the tariff, thereby creating and maintaining a deadly agitation, has been a remarkably long one, phenomenally so, considering the general prosperity. A great and paralyzing uncertainty as to what congress would do in connection with the tariff was the result of the wrangling, which began with the session itself. Neither manufacturer, importer, nor capitalist dared to go about his business in the usual way.
