Another Victory for Pattison.

Last Saturday Judge Ludlow and Finletter of the Common Pleas Court of Philadelphia, decided that Gov. Pattison in removing Recorder Lane, of Philadelphia, exercised no more than a clear constitutional right.

The People Satisfied.

From the Post Allegheny Reporter. It does not look encouraging for those papers that have been predicting the failure of Attorney General Cassidy would prove himself to be.

A Secret Ballot.

The idea of a free ballot is rendered nugatory in Pennsylvania by the fact that the ticket to be voted may be so marked that the names of the persons voted for can be known to election officers and others who are enabled to inspect the caption or the size of the ticket or the quality or color of the paper on which it is printed.

The Last of Dukos.

Dukos has done the one decent thing in his public career in declining the seat to which he was elected. He ought to have done this long ago, but such a man as he could not be expected to recognize the obligations of duty or good taste.

Light Dawning on Clouded Minds.

Governor Pattison is again vindicated by the republican courts of Philadelphia, in action that the republican senate has stoutly resisted. It was denied he had the power to fill the vacancy in the controller's office.

The People Will Fix the Responsibility.

From the Philadelphia Record. It is, however, the work of apportionment should be defeated, it is not likely that the governor will be restrained from the performance of his duty by the clamors about the expenses of an extra session, especially if the clamors come from those who may make the extra session necessary.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

has rendered several decisions of general interest in the matter of road tax. The right of farmers to work out their road tax has been generally conceded, but supervisors in a few townships insist that the tax must be paid in money.

The Star-route trial.

is dragging its slow length wearily along. Crowds attend and the court-room becomes so stifling at times that even Judge Wylie is forced to complain. During the winter many ladies attended, among them Mrs. Dorsy and a number of her friends, but they have rather thinned out of late.

The Duty of the Legislature.

From the Mercer Press. If the republicans prevent the passage of a fair apportionment bill the people of the state must sustain Governor Pattison in the calling of an extra session for the passage of such a bill.

The Last of Dukos.

Dukos has done the one decent thing in his public career in declining the seat to which he was elected. He ought to have done this long ago, but such a man as he could not be expected to recognize the obligations of duty or good taste.

The Last of Dukos.

Though the result is the same, as far as the representation of Fayette county is concerned, this declination relieves the House of a troublesome duty, and the members who have been splitting hairs about the power of the House to judge of the qualifications of its members and disturbing themselves with the idea of making a precedent are glad to have the subject taken out of their hands.

The Murderer of Oasht'r Nutt Sends in His Resignation.

HARRISBURG, March 28. The House disposed finally of the Dukos case to-day without establishing the precedent that many members had doubts about. At the meeting of the Dukos sub-committee of the general judiciary committee this morning, after Cashier Bowman had identified the letters to Captain Nutt, Speaker Faunce entered and showed the following letter, which he received late last night:
