Treatment of Ringbone.

Ringbone is only curable in its first stages. As soon as the horse appears lame and the foot is found to be hot and tender about the coronet and pastern, cold water should be applied and wet bandages used. As soon as the heat is removed, blistering ointment should be used. Rest is indispensable. Two months may be required for successful treatment. When a ringbone is once formed it is past cure, as the bony deposit made around the joint cannot be removed. Lameness may be removed, but the enlargement can-

How to Make Cows Give Milk.

A writer in the Southern Farmer says that his cow gives all the milk that is wanted in a family of eight, and that from it, after taking all that is required for other purposes, 260 pounds of butter were made this year. This is in part his treatment of the cow. If you desire to get a large yield of rich milk give your cows every day water slightly warmed and slightly salted, in which bran has been stirred at the rate of one quart to two gallons of water. You will find, if you have not tried this daily practice, that your cow will give twenty-five per cent. more milk immediately under the effects of it, and she will become so attached to the diet as to refuse to drink clear water unless very thirsty. But this mess she will drink almost any time and ask for more. The amount of this drink necessary is an ordinary water pail at a time, morning, noon and night.

Give Chickens Range.

Young chicks will do much better with liberty than without it. Sitting hens are very liable to be more or less infested with lice. These, of course, will cover the chickens almost as soon as hatched, unless great care is taken to clear them out. Given a large brood, with hens confined in a small coop, and the chances are greatly against the chickens.

Moving the coop daily helps the matter greatly, as when the coop remains long on the same ground the vermin will infest that also, and swarm over the chicks at night,

If possible, give the hen a free run about the grounds; but if your inclosure is limited, give her as much as possible. The feed you give young chicks is all needed by them for their rapid growth, but if they are obliged to sustain vermin in addition, the growth will be slow and liability to disease augmented.

If your garden plot is inclosed, put your coops up near the fence, so that the young chicks will naturally run through the small openings, and they will wage a busy warfare on the insects which would do great damage if left to themselves in that garden. The old hen getting worried about their absence, or hearing the commotion as they run down some nimble-winged butterfly or cabbage miller, will call them to her coop often enough to keep quite large chicks from doing any real damage to the vegetables. Keep the hens confined and let the chicks roam, for remember it is "the old scratch' that does the mischief. Fowls are active and willing workers but you must place them in the position where they can be most serviceable in destroying insects and larvæ. Misdirected energy is productive of quite as much evil as lack of force.-Poultry World.

Receipts.

Tomato Sauce .- A quart of tomatoes, a slice of onion and half a dozen cloves. Cook ten minutes. Put into a frying pan two spoonfuls of butter heat and stir in two spoonfuls of flour. Stir until smooth and brown. Add the tomato, cook two minutes longer, season with salt and pepper and pass through a fine strainer. Excellent with roast or broiled meat.

Suet Pudding .- Chop fine one cup of raisins and one-half cup of suet (one cup, if wanted very rich), add two cups of sweet milk, one cup of sugar, four cups of flour, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, two teaspoonfuls of soda, and a little salt. Cover tightly and steam or boil two hours. Leave room to swell. Pork chopped very fine, or a little less in measure of pork fat, may be used. Eat with liquid sauce.

Stewed Veal.—Stewed veal need not be the tasteless dish it often is, says the New York Post. Cook it in as little water as will possibly answer, and with it stew a few thin slices of ham or bacon. Nicely-cured bacon is one of the luxuries of modern civilization, Science has conferred a lasting benefit upon the world by teaching the farmer to feed his pigs in such a way that the result may be traced in slices of finegrained fat with little strips of lean. This is the kind of bacon one should look for when marketing.

On some statues of the fifteenth century buttons appear enriched with pearls and precious stones, which corroborates several entries in inventories of regal expenses about that date-as, for example, one in the royal accounts drawn up in 1349 of King Edward III: "For a gold case of twenty-five buttons, each button consisting of four pearls, with a diamond in the center, bought from Symon de Dampmart."

A School on the Pacific Slope. The school was in a rough boarded room which had been originally built for a store. The hats, bonnets, books and slates were piled on the shelves and the thirty children sat on high benches, their feet swinging clear of the floor. There was not a robust or healthy-faced child in the room, and their thin, pale cheeks were a sad commentary on the condition of their lives. Later in the day, as I walked from home to home, and saw everywhere slow, trickling streams of filthy water, blue, iridescent and foul-odored, I wondered not that the children were pale, but that they were alive. The history class were reciting a memorized list of "epochs" when I went in. They had them at their tongues' ends. I suggested to the teacher to ask them what the word epoch meant. Blank dismay spread over their faces. One girl alone made answer. She was an Indian, or perhaps half-breed, fourteen years of age; the healthiest child and best scholar in the school, the teacher said. "The time between" was her prompt definition of the word epoch given with a twinkle in her eye of evident amusement that the rest did not know what it meant. The first class in reading then read from the Fourth Independent Reader, in stentorian voices, Trowbridge's poem of "The Wonderful Sack." The effect of slight changes of a single letter here and there was most ludicrously illustrated by one sturdy little chap's delivery of

His limbs were strong, His beard was 1 ng..

With loud and enthusiastic emphasis he read them:

Not a member of the class changed countenance or gave any signs of disagreeing with his interpretation of the text; and the teacher, being engaged in herculean efforts to keep the poor little primary bench still, failed to hear the lines .- Atlantic Monthly.

Organs in History.

In the Bible the organ is mentioned eighteen different times. It is, however, obvious that this instrument was very small, and capable of being carried about. Organs are also mentioned by Pindar five hundred years before the Christian era. The first mention we have of an organ, which must have been a large instrument, is one that is said to have been given to Charlemagne, and is reported to have made "a noise like thunder." The earliest organ mentioned as having existed in England was at Westminster abbey, where there was one in the tenth century. The first organ erected in Paris was at the church of St. Severin, in

Aaron Burr's Pistols.

Some weeks ago the writer ran across perhaps the most famous and fatal fire. arms on this continent-the superrb duelling pistols of Aaron Burr. They are a bone-breaking brace of the first caliber, and the property of Captain Brent Hopkins. One of these pistols fired the ball that killed Alexander Hamilton of Weehawken. It is identified by a long, deep notch indented on the handle. The pistols were made by Mortimer of London, England, and were imported by Burr at the close of the Revolutionary war. The barrels are thirteen inches long and carry an ounce ball. They are flint locks, and the pans for the priming are lined with gold, and the touchholes are brushed with the same metal. They are hair triggers, and shoot with great force and accuracy. The locks are very superior and of exquisite mechanism. The pair came into the possession of Captain Brent Hopkins, the present owner, through his uncle, Captain Sam Goode Hopkins of the forty-second regiment of United States dragoons, who purchased them from Burr in Washing. ton city in the winter of 1813 or 1814, paying $500 in gold for them. Burr remarked at the time he would not let any one else have the pistols, as he had used them with Hamilton.

The weapons have surely a bloodstained history. They have been used with falal effect in eleven duels. Among the sanguinary combats. Pettis of Virginia, killed Biddle on Bloody Island, near St. Louis; Edward Towns of Virginia, killed a Frenchman near New Orleans; Captain Sam Goode Hopkins, killed a Spanish count near Madrid, Mo. ; Hugh Brent killed a man from Georgia on Diamond Island near Henderson, Ky. They were used several times in Virginia, twice in South Carolina, and more than once in Kentucky with deadly effect. Robert Trip. lett of Owensboro shot the old lawyer, Phil Thompson, through and through with one of them, but, strange to say, Thompson recovered, and grew as fat as a bear. Henry Clay and Capt. Hopkins were fast friends, and the former was to have used the pistols in one of his duels, but they arrived a day too

Our Reporter's Vacation Notes.

Downs his rambles this season, our Mr. M. has taken upon himself the task of satisfying our numcrous readers that whatever goods are manufa our goodly city of Roger Williams, are of as high a grade and as fine in quality as can be produced in any spot on the globe. Especially is this so when the skilled Pharmacist of many years' experience resolves to extract from the finest botanical specimens of the vegetable world the most potent cure for some special disease. In proof of his assertion that Providence, R. L. affords the best, he relates an interview with an acquaintance, given him while sojourning temporarily at her residence. She says: About a year I suffered severely with Rheumatism in my limbs, and Negralgia in the head, which I endured two or three months with as much patience as possible, being under the treatment of an excellent doctor, and trying many kinds of medicine without any marked effect. At last a medical friend advised me to try Hunt's Remedy, because he attributed my severe suffering to the bad condition of uny kidneys, which were not performing their proper functions, and I commenced taking it, and in a few days the neuralgia had departed, my headache had entirely disappeared, the swelling in my limbs and joints had gone, and I have not had a touch of it since. More recently I was troubled with impurity of the blood, which showed itself in severe eruptions on my face. I again resorted to Hunt's Remedy, and after taking it a short time was completely cured of that complaint. Hunt's Remedy has proved ver berreficial to me in attacks of sick headache, which it always alleviates, and I notice the improvement as soon as I take the Remedy. This Remedy has strengthening elements, for it has made me feal much stronger, and has been very beneficial to my general health. I most heartily recommend it to all sufferers like raysolf. Mrs. L. Since I began to take Hunt's Remedy I have been free from all pain and take pleasure in saying that it is the best medicine that I ever knew for Kidney and Liver diseases."

An Open Secret.

The fact is well understood that the MEXICAN MUS-

TANG LINIMENT is by far the best external known for man or beast. The reason why becomes an "open secret" when we explain that "Mustang" penetrates skin, flesh and muscle to the very bone, removing all disease and soreness. No other liniment does this, hence none other is so largely used or does such worlds of good.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN. From theeBoston Globel

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pink ham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human being may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman." as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large corresponden which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended nd prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhoea, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Disp'acements and the conequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life." It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weak ess of the stomach. it cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backach;, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply at her home in Lynn, Mass. For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is urpassed as abunCant testimonials show. "Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills." says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipati Billiousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifler works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others. Philadelphia, Pa.
