The climate of Siberia is popularly supposed to be very severe. At Philadelphia, however, the Rev. Sheldon Jackson, who lived in Siberia five years, said in a lecture: "No words can be strong enough to express the charm of this delightful land, where a climate softer than that of the north of England insures at all times of the year full enjoyment of all the loveliness around you. In forty years," he added, "the mercury has been but twice below zero."

Mr. Sheridan, a humane electrician, has invented an apparatus for executing criminals which is designed to take the place of the clumsy but somewhat efficacious gallows. It is simply a chair, properly insulated and connected with wires to a convenient dynamoelectric battery. The victim is seated in the chair, a connection is made with the spinal cord, a knob is touched, and he is knocked out gracefully as with a bolt of lightning. Mr. Sheridan has made the government a present of his invention, and he hopes by its introduction to strip public executions of their popular horror. He will find it an up-hill business to supplant the primitive gallows.

Jacob Becker, a laborer living in Cincinnati, was given a powerful emetic to ease a pain in his stomach, and began vomiting, and did not stop until a snake eighteen inches long, and one large and five small lizards, and a sack containing a number of eggs were brought up to light of day. The affair caused considerable of excitement in the neighborhood, and when Becker was questioned he said that "he had not been well" for eighteen years-in fact, since one day while wandering in the woods near Frankweiler, Germany, he took a drink of water from a wayside pool, at which time it is probable he acquired the undesired zoological collection.

Several years ago, according to the Detroit News, Miss Cynthia E. Cleveland was an efficient dress-maker at Pontiac. She got interested in the temperance cause and became one of the most efficient workers in Michigan and as such was favorably known throughout the state. Two or three years ago she went to Dakota, where she likewise became famed in the antibeer and anti-whisky cause, becoming president of the State women's Christian temperance union. Less than a year ago she was admitted to the bar. being the first lady to enjoy that high distinction in Dakota. A short time ago she had her first case in court, and, stranger than fiction, it was a woman on trial for selling liquor without a license-and she won her case.

It is estimated that the crowning of impoverished people of Russia something like $10,000,000. The country is virtually bankrupt, and a new issue of treasury bills will be necessary to meet this foolish expenditure. The Russian crown is only worth $1,500,-000, and it probably couldn't be pawned for half that sum. The big Brooklyn bridge only cost $9,000,000, and it will be a standing monument to the genius and enterprise of man when the descendants of the Romanoffs are wandering beggars. It would have been better if the czar had contracted to have his coronation job performed by professional crowners for something like $10,000, and spent the remainder of the $10,000,000 for a new bridge or a railway.

The continued disappearance of the sardines, once so abundant on the coast of Brittany, has become a serious calamity to the people of that part, where the catching has been wont to give employment to 1500 boats and more than 9000 fishermen, while the curing and packing for home consumption and exportation have furnished a living to a very large number of male and female hands. The reason of the disappearance is believed to be the great change of temperature during the season, the weather having for the last two or three years been not only more valuable, but at times even during the summer months, comparatively speaking, cold and stormy. These changes it is believed have driven the sardines toward other coasts; and up to the present time there is no token opium smoked by a white man in America was consumed in California but there is a division of opinion as to when the vice was introduced. Dr. H. H. Kane of New York, who has given the subject careful study, says that in 1868 the practice was begun in the United States by a California "sport" named Clendnyn, but Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton says that he saw white smokers in San Francisco joints long before that time. The habit traveled rapidly Eastward, and reached New York in 1876. In Park, Mott and Pell streets among the Chin se the first joints were opened. Laredo is literally the "jumping-off place" for this part of the country, writes a correspondent from Laredo, Tex. Here it is that the Missouri Pacific system finds its most extreme southern end, while from here the Mexican National, and to-be-built International roads, take their start and shoot southward to the city of Mexico. some 800 miles distant. The place is destined, at no very distant day, to be an important stopping point, as it is directly on the route of travel between the United States and Mexico. Laredo, take it as a whole, consists of two parts, North Laredo, located in the United States, and South Laredo, which is upon the opposite shore of the Rio Grande river, in the republic of Mexico. The combined population of the two towns is about 15,000. North Laredo has a little the larger population, and is by far the more civilized and enterprising part. Most of the inhabitants of both sides are Mexicans although on the Texas side there are a larger number of white people, most of whom, if not engaged on some of the railroads, are interested in business or ments to a person who wishes to live in a decent, comfortable style. The soil on which the town is located is sandy, with some cactus, small bushes or dwarfed trees growing here and and is anything but good for clothes or the evesight. The houses and most all other buildings are low and flat and uninviting in appearance. The bank building, court house, post office and a few other buildings are, however, sub stantial appearing, good sized brick structures, which have been built of gate by the Americans. The hotels are veritable curiosities, and, although not serving as appetizing meals as one would obtain at home, get up pretty fair eatables. All milk used is obtained from goats. It is hawked about the streets by Mexicans who ride on a little donkey, which has a can of the goat's milk suspended on either side The drinking water is obtained from the Rio Grande. It has a queer, soft taste, and seems to have little substance. There are scores of Mexicans here who make their living selling this water about the streets. Go where you will down to the river bank, and you will see from five to twenty of these little water carts. They consist of a large sized barrel mounted on two wheels, and are drawn, each, by one little "burro" or Mexican donkey. I wish that I could picture to you the ludicrousness of one of these outfitsthe "burro" itself is the most comical, scraggy, tough, God-forsaken-looking little creature I ever set eyes on. It resembles, for all the world, a huge rat which has just been drowned out of its hole. The burro has a tail which looks as though it had been gnawed half off by an industrious terrier. The streets are quite narrow the Czar Alexander at Moscow cost the in places, yet again they will be found wide, well-built and substantial. Most of the persons seen on the streets are Mexicans. 'They all wear the proverbial "sombrero," wide, flowing trousers, and are frequently wrapped up in a blanket, generally of some bright color. A Mexican, when attired in his street costume, looks most like the heavy villain one sees on the stage about the time blood is to be shed. The people all seem to be excessively civil and peaceable-anxious to please you-do not stare at strangers own to attend to, and go about it content not to molest, if left undisturbed. The Mexican National railroad has its main offices at Laredo, on the Texas side. The buildings are constructed of brick, are large, substantial, and present a good appearance. I went to see "Blind Tom" the night I arrived in Laredo. This musical wonder, who has charmed and mystifled thousands all over the country for years, has drifted way down into this edge of civilization. He drew a good audience, too, and we were greatly interested, as, seated in a large and well ventilated hall, located over the principal saloon in the place, I gazed upon an audience which was truly representative of frontier life. There were a few white ladies, generally the wives of Americans employed by the railroad company; several Mexican women, in their peculiar fancy headdress, a number of small children and babies, about a dozen representatives of "Uncle Sam" from the neighboring military post, some in a half-dress uniform, and of their reappearance. others wearing simply a civilian's dress and a soldier's air. No Gongs, No Banners ... A Summer Idyl." From a Providence Merchant

MR. GEORGE H. Davis, a fruit dealer at 297 Westminster street, bears his grateful testimony to the unequaled excellence of the production of one of our most skillful Providence Pharmacists. Mr. Davis says: "Last spring I was very greatly troubled with severe inflammation of the kidneys, and it became so bad that at times I urinated blood, and my sufferings were intense. My condition was so painful that for a while I was scarcely able to attend to business, and the severe pains would come se suddenly and severely that I would be obliged to leave a customer whom I might happen to be waiting upon. During a part of the time I was unable to walk, and scarcely knew what to do or which way to look for relief. At this time a friend recommended Hunt's Remedy. I took two bottles of it. and it took right hold of my disease and cured me very speedily, and I have experienced no trouble with my kidneys since. "Furthermore, Hunt's Remedy has strengthened me very much, and since I began to use it I have been able to attend to business, and am all right now. I heaftily recommend it to all. What it has

Having suffered for about twenty years with severe disease of the kidneys (which our local physician pronounced Bright's Disease). I made a journey East to consult the eminent Dr Haven, of Hamilton, New York, of whose fame in this specialty I had heard much. Dr Haven examined me carefully and simply said: 'Go and get a bottle of Hunt's Remedy and take according to directions.' After having traveled so far for tratement, it struck me as rather funny to be directed to take a medicine which I might have bought within a stone's throw of my own door; but I was in the doctor's hands, and of course I followed his advice, and right glad was I that I did so, for before I had taken Hunt's Remedy half a dozen times I found iffimense benefit from it, and by continuing the use of it for a limited time I recovered from my trouble entirely, and am to-day, I think, one of the most rugged of rugged Michiganders. The world is indebted to you, sir, for the promulgation of such a medicine, and I hope you may not go without your reward." Haven, of Hamilton, New York, of whose fame in
