THE St. Paul Pioneer Press, a paper of influence and ability recognized as authority in the West regards the business prospect much brighter now than it was toward the end of 1883. Among the Western papers which pay special attention to this matter there is none, perhaps, better informed than the St. Paul Pioneer Press, and it prophecies is the rapidity with which the commercial community has received and assimilated the great fundamental law of trade, that activity and depression are bound to succeed each other in every recurring cycles; that business men more than a year ago accepted the warning that they had been going too fast; that for this they prepared themselves, and that such preparation saved a crash." After a careful review of all the conditions it concluded that, while we may not be on the eve of a general and speedy revival of business activity, it seems certain "that there is nothing unhealthy even in the experience of fluenza. On Monday morning he went last year's failure and that the present out-look has far more of promise than of threatening." In the East, too, the same opinion is expressed, for the Boston Globe remarks that "careful, conservative and experienced business men all admire the outlook as much brighter than it was a few weeks ago, and that there is a growing feeling that the worst is over."

His death occured just two weeks after taking his seat as Controller, he having assumed the duties of that office says, in a late number, that "The on Monday, January 7, between the 67 men had gone to work. The cause of his fatal illness was a severe cold, contracted in the latter part of his first week in the Controller's office. A great many friends had been calling to congratulate him and he had ordered the double doors leading into the main corridor to be opened for their better accommodation. Whenever the doors were opened a draft blew through Mr. Jeffrie's private office, and it was while standing at the door one day, talking to a departing friend, that he caught the severe cold that subsequently developed into his death siekness. He remained at his office for several days, attending to his duties, though suffering from what he thought was an attack of in. to his office, but felt so badly that he returned home. FIFTY-SEVEN MEN KILLED APPALLING DISASTER IN COL ORADO. GUNNISON, Col., Jan. 24.

At eight o'clock this morning a terrible explosion occurred at Crested Butte, in this county, in the coal mine of the Colorado Coal and Iron Company There were sixty-seven men in the mine at the time of the explosion. Of these eleven, who were just entering, were thrown back by the force of the explosion and rescued. Of this num ber one has since died and all the others are badly injured. There are fiftysix men yet in the mine and as the entrance to the mine is blocked up they cannot be reached. They are all supposed to be dead. The explosion was of such force as to wreck the engine house, which stood fully one hundred feet from the entrance to the mine.

The explosion was one of the most appalling in its consequences that ever occurred in a coal mine in this country. Crested Butte, near which the mine is located, is a coal town about thirty miles north of Gunnison, on the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. The cause of the explosion is not known, but is supposed to have been from fire-damp. It occurred in either chamber 1 or 2 just half an hour after the day force of $10,000 IN A BURNING LOG. - James 201. Giffen, a young farmer of York township, near Bellaire, Ohio, invited his neighbors to a butchering. After the party gathered a fire was started with logs from an old cabin that had been torn down last spring, and the logs piled up for future use. After the fire had been burning for some time a young man noticed that one of the logs was hollow, and taking a poker he gave it a panch. To the surprise and astonisbment of all present some $20 gold pieces rolled out into the fire. The logs were rapidly pulled off the fire, and a general search was made. Gold pieces of all denominations were found ranging from $1 to $20, and the total sum was something over $10,000. Who owned it nobody knows.

Democratic Warning from Nebraska.

I am glad to see signs of moderation and caution in the position of Mr. Carlisle against the possibility either of alarming or injuring great interests. No other course, in my opinion, can save our party from defeat in 1884. But with the Ohio declaration of the sound principle at bottom and ofits prudent and gradual incorporation into our tariff taxes, we can win the next contest aud a grand the resolution and to report the bills victory for the people, and also for the manufacturing industry itself. Nebraska should speak on that subject this winter with a voice of wisdom and prudence through the ten delegates which it will be her duty to send to the next National Democratic | to see what the fate of the land grants Convention to assist other States in upholding the principle of taxing for revenue through the tariff, and also in reassuring the country that no revolutionary or violeut assault is to be made upon any industrial interest. In no other way can the Democrats expect to carry the great manufacturing State of New York, which is to be again pivotal in the impending struggle of '84 .- From Omaha Herald.

dition as serious, entertaining little hope for his recovery.

The House of Representatives at Washington has inaugurated a policy on the land grant question which deserves to be commended. It adopted on Monday a series of resolutions declaring that unearned land grants heretofore given to railways should be forfeited at once and the land opened to actual settlers under the homestead law. The resolutions further declare that all laws which facilitate the acquiring of lands in large bodies by preemption or otherwise should be repealed. In order to make sure that the resolutions are not mere sentences, meaning nothing, the committee on public lands is instructed to prepare bills carrying into effect the views expressed in so prepared at any time, subject only to revenue and appropriation bills. This virtually gives the land legislation the right of way in the House and prevents it being buried under a mass of other business. As the resolutions passed by a vote of 258 yeas to 18 nays it is easy will be when the bills are reported. The recklessness of past Congresses in the matter of giving away the public domain to importunate railway corporations is simply amazing. A recent statement of the land grant business now before the committee on public lands shows the various forfeitable grants to amount to 100,000,000 acres, an area great enough to make three states as large as Pennsylvania and a fourth larger than Massachusetts. 1t is entirely superfluous to say that no such grants should ever be made in the first place. Having been made, however, they should be restored to their original status at the first possible opportnnity. The land should be reserv- feet deep. He was employed as a la-J. C. Bichtly as Secretary. The at- ed for actual settlers who desire to borer and, while emptying a bucket of

FIFTY-SEVEN MEN DEAD.

Fifty-seven men were at work in chambers 1 and 2. These are all thought to have perished. The explosion was of such force as to completely barracade the main entrance and the appliancees for supplying air located near were badly wrecked and the roof of the tramway was blown off. The men at work on the anthracite mesa, the night force of the Colorado Coal and Iron Company's mine and the citizens generally have been working hard all day to rescue the men, although it is thought that none of them can possi bly escape alive. The Town Hall has been prepared for the reception of the dead. As soon as possible the fan was repaired and put to work pumping air into the mine, and men were set to work to remove the olstructions, so as to reach the chambers and get the bodies out to-night if possible.

A HEARTRENDING SCENE. Many of these are married men and eave families. A number of the families reside in Denver. At present everything is in such confusion that it is impossible to give details. A special train left here at 2 o'clock this afternoon with surgeons and a number of citizens to render all the aid possible. The town of Crested Butte is in mourning. Crowds of women cluster about the entrance to the mine, wringing their hands and crying piteously, pressenting a most heartrending scene. It is said that at the time of the explosion there were 10 kegs of black powder iu chambers 1 and 2, where the men were working and where the explosion is supposed to have taken place. The mine has three miles of drifting, consequently it is impossible to definitely locate the accident, at least until rescuing parties can gain admittance. Suffering from Hunger in Ontario.

KINGSTON, January 25. - The settlers in the rear townships of Frontenac and Addington are in danger of starving. They are unable to obtain provisions in consequence of the stoppage of trains, the snow having closed the northern portion of the line. In this city no business is being done, farmers cannot get in from the country and merchants are complaining bitterly. An extensive lumber dealer has telegraphed to the city that unless he can get provisions he will be obliged to close down his shanties. Such a state of affairs has never existed in this locality before.
