ARTHUR IN THE LEAD.

Up until this time the republicans have successfully masked their plans for the presidential convention. The time is growing short, however, and the anxiety of the several candidates to get whatever advantage is to be obtained by an early personal effort is beginning to manifest itself. Consequently developements are noticeable which in some measure point out the convention probabilities.

The first thing entirely apparent is that Sherman is not a candidate except in his own mind. He predicated every hope and laid every prospect on fell without response on the senate Sherman now and forever. Edmonds is likewise bowled out. His bibulosity has done him up completely. Bob Lincoln was the candidate of a sentiyear which disposes of him.

The real candidates are Arthur and Logan. Arthur has just succeeded in putting his friend Johnny O'Brien at the head of the campaign committee in New York, and Barney Biglin, Steve French, Decoy Bliss and Johnny Davonport are at work with might and main in his interest. As the fruit positively that the New York delegation will go solid for the Presidential Mulhooly. Logan has equally reliable assurance of the support of Illinois, but the marshals and postmasters of the south will assure the solid support Quay has given him the promise of a solid delegation from this state.—Patriot, Feb. 12.

Recommending Harrity for Delegate-at-Large to the National Convention.

Harrity, by his high personal character and by his intelligent, zealous and self-sacrificing services to the cause of Democracy, has merrited and is accorded the entire confidence and grateful regard of the party and this association recommends his selection as one of the delegates-atlarge from this State to the next Democratic National Convention." The following named were appointed an auxilliary campiagn committee for work in the city election; William F. Harrity, chairman; George M. Dallas, Joseph J. Wainwright, Joseph P. Kennedy, Murry Rush, C. D. Clark, William M. Meigs, H. C. Olmsted, Thomas D. Pearce, H. C. Loughlin, Charles E. Ingersoll, John O. James, Willing Littell, Samuel T. Jaquett and A. #### WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb.11, 1884. The little dispute between ex-Speaker Keifer and Correspondent Boynton has not been settled yet, and the more it is stirred up the worse it gets for Keifer. Nobody here accepts his statement that Boynton made a corrupt proposal to him, as against the latter's good never been known to have any interest give full particulars next week. in jobs, and the money in this one is on the opposite side from the one he is said to have expoused. A committee of the House will endeayer to find out whether Keifer has not added a contemptible false accusation to his other meanness. Probably the most disgusted man, though, is the unfortunate McGarrahn, who owns the immortal claim which started the controversy, and who now sees it led off, sidetracked, as it were, on one of the inumerable branch issues that have marked its course through the departments, the courts and Congress for the pest iwenty years. He has no concern with the Keifer-Boynton controversy, except in so far as Mr. Boynton tried to do him a slight kindness, as almost any one would who knows his story; and its agitation will probably put him further off than ever from getting a hearing on the merits. "Mac" takes his long rambles about the streets by night and day, which seems his only method of working off surplus activity, more dejected ly than is his wont. It looks as though the rich New Idria Company would keep him out of his own for many years

The bloody shirt scheme of Senator Sherman and some of his Republican associates has fallen so flat as to be hardly worth carrying on. The committee appointed will pretend to take testimony, which will be printed and circulated for campaign purposes; but it is doubtful now whether this sort of thing will do not more harm than good are growing numerous now, new ones springing up every few days. The most astonishing thing is the apparent inroads made by Logan on the Administration strength. It looks now as Independence day would arrive he though there would be a nice fight be- would go on a spree to commemorate obably defeat them both. Senator Don Cameron writes to a friend in his bloody-shirt resolutions, and they Washington that he will not take possession of his seat in the Senate until and the country. This ends John after the question of Presidential candidacy has been settled. He says that he wants to be out of the way, because if he interested himself in behalf of any candidate the cry of bossism would be raised in the convention. It cannot be ment, and this is not a sentimental that Don is quietly working for the nomination himself. Such political modesty is unparalleled.

There are two significant signs of the growth of Washington as a winter resoit for the wealthy. One of them is the "boom" in the furniture business, which is really worth a passing word. It is now undoubtedly the largest single trade here, outside of provisions. Every dealer has enlarged his place to its utmost limits, and new establishof their joint labors it is now stated ments have been started, some of them in what have been heretofore private parlors, to satisfy the lately developed craze for "art" furnishings, in the shape of screens, potteries, dados and the like. Two of the largest halls, that of the Odd Fellows and Tallmadge Hall, are given up to the display of that section to the president, and of furniture, which, though it bears a most unrighteous percentage of profit, has the drawback of being bulky and requiring great space. A large eating house on the Avenue went into bankruptcy; its rooms were immediately seized upon by the furnit ure establishment next door. The roller-skatingrink of the city has found it more profitable to sell out to another dealer in household goods than to continue its propper function-greatly to the grief of the young folks. A former hotel at the corner of Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue has long been devoted to the sale of furniture, and some firms have lesser warehouses and "branches" scattered about the city. #### Additional Local Matter.

-Mr. Jacob Dutwiler, whose large farm is located along the turnpike about 1 mile south of Millheim, will make sale of his live stock, farming implements and household goods on Wednesday, March 19th, 1884. He'expects to move to Jewel county, Kansas, soon after the sale.

-Mr. John Kerstetter, Jr., still makes a business of doing special jobs at carpentry. John is really an expert | tor of the Warner Observatory, Rochesat the business and has large experince, both in making out plans, specifications and drawings, as well as a practical workman. People who entrust their work into his hands can safely rely on having it done in best style at the lowest prices.

Explosion of a Hot Ball,

SUNBURY, Feb. S .- At about six 'clock this eyening as Frank Kroine, puddler, employed in the mill of the Sunbury Nail Bar and Guide Iron Manufacturing Company here was conveying a ball of iron from the furnace to the "coffee mill" it dropped from the tongs on the floor which was wet from the recent rains and exploded with a terrific report, burning him seriously, if not fatally, and setting fire to the [building. The fire department was called out promptly but the employes extinguished it before much damage was done.

A Revolutionary Widow.

One of them a Resident of the Sixth Ward, this City.

The widows of soldiers of the revolutionary war are so scarce that any mention of them attracts attention. Mrs. Elizabeth Betz, who resides in Harrisburg, is probably the only person of that class in this section if not in Pennsylvania. She is eighty-three years of age. She states she was married to Peter Betz, on October 10, 1823, and lived with him until September 16,1847 when he died, his age being ninety-nine years. Mrs. Betz is in the enjoyment of good health. She states that she was twenty-five years of age when to their own cause. Presidential booms | the old soldier took a fancy to her and they were married. Their life was a happy one except on the fourth of July. Mr. Betz, she says, could not get over his patriotic enthusiasm and whenever tween Logan and Arthur, which will the occasion. For some time after his death she had a hard life to lead, but has for years past been drawing a State and United States pension. She received all back pay due her and at present is living comfortable.

New Laws.

Among the acts of assembly enacted at the last session of the legislature which are of interest to our people are the following:

The several courts are authorized with the concurrence of the grand jury, to change the limits of any incorporated borough of this commonwealth. School directors are required upon the aplication of the parents of twenty or more pupils, to open a night school. Farms divided by county lines shall hereafter be assessed in the county wherein the mansion is located.

Members of borough council shall hereafter be elected for two years, each half retiring annually.

Any policeman or constable, or any agent of the Pennsylvania society for the preventing of cruelty to animals shall, upon his own view or on the complaint of others, make arrests for the violation of the law to prevent cruelty The English sparrow may hereafter be lawfully killed at any time. The term of borough officers shall hereafter terminate on the first Monday of March each year.

Scientific Prizes.

It is a gratitying fact that more astronomical discoveries, and those of more importance, have been made by Americans during the past few years, than by all the rest in the world combined. That this has been due, largely to the impetus given by competition for the honors and prizes awarded to discoverers cannot be denied, and in order that interest may be continued and sustained, I offer the following: Prize for 1884.

Two hundred dollars for each and every discovery of a new comet during the year, subject to the following conditions: 1. It must be discovered in the United States or Canada, either by the naked eye or telescope, and it must be unexpected. 2. The discoverer must telegraph immediately to Dr. Lewis Swift, Direc-ter, N. Y., giving the exact time of discovery, the position and direction of motion, with sufficient exactness, if possible, to enable at least one other observer to find it. 3. This intelligence must not be com-

tf | municated to any other party or parties, eother by letter, telegraph, or otherwise, until such time as a telegraphic acknowledgment has been received by the discoverer from Dr. Swift. Great care should be observed regarding this condition, as it is essential to the proper transmission of the discovery, together with the name of the discoverer, Austin Krape son of J. S. Krape, to the various parts of the world, which
