Gone where the woodbine twined and the whang doodle muorneth,—the news boy

Mr. Fry, a salesman from Philadelphia was here on a visit to Maj. Fisher.

J. W. Bartges returned home from his Clearfield trip all safe and sound.

It becomes our sad duty to record the death of our aged friend and Father Mr. John Hains, who departed this life on Monday the 11th after a short illness.

Mr. Hains attained a good old age. He was a kind father and well beloved citizen. Peace to his ashes. JACK PLANE.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

The following are the recommendations made by the Grand Jury at the late court:

We, the grand jurors of January term, 1884, of the Court of Quarter sessions of Centre county, Pa., on examination of the public buildings, do offer the following recommendations to the commissioners of Centre county, to wit:

That the prisoner's cells be lined with boiler iron on the back of the cells, whitewash the cells and corridor every three months.

Also improve the ventilation; kitchen range in poor condition; repair steps to boiler room.

Found leakage over commissary rooms which needs improving. Cement coping of yard wall and plaster wall inside below coping.

Also, on examination in Register's office, we recommend that the following articles be supplied: One desk, set of window blinds, two chairs. All of which is respectfully submitted. A WALTER, Foreman.

A Blizzard in the West.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18.—A blizzard is raging in the vicinity of St. Vincent.

The thermometer is falling rapidly and fears are entertained of a snow blockade.

The two-year old boy of a Johnstown brewer named Lawrence Kost, wandered into his father's brewery the other day while the family were at dinner and no one present, and fell into a tub containing about seven and a half barrels of boiling hot liquid.

He was not discovered by his father for fully fifteen minutes after the occurrence and it was with the greatest difficulty that the body was removed without the flesh dropping from the bones so thoroughly cooked was it.

Deputy Collector Campbell was notified of the occurrence and the contents of the tub were drained off by him.

The Ohio River Floods still Raging.

FEB 15th.—The towns and cities on the Ohio river have been visited by the greatest flood of the century. So great and appalling is the disaster that pen fails to adequately describe the misery and destitution prevailing.

A special from Gallipolis, Ohio, says: The relief steamers Nora Belle and Jim Montgomery returned from a trip down the river last night. They report that the village of Athalia, Ohio, is almost entirely swept away.

THE OHIO RIVER FLOODS still Raging.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 15th.—The town Maysville had not been heard from until to-day, when a committee composed of Captain Kirker, Judge Collins and a Presbyterian minister, of that place, on their way to Cincinnati in a skiff, hailed the Kate Waters and were taken on board.

They report that the town is almost ruined. Brick buildings are crumbling to pieces and frame houses are washing away.

The militia company as patrolling the streets in boats distributing food but the supply is about exhausted.

All along the river the story comes of most generous aid rendered by farmers and others far into the interior who have sent food in wagons, without which much suffering would have resulted.

Aberdeen, opposite Maysville, was badly wrecked by the late storm. The town is entirely destitute of coal oil and is practically in darkness.

Some help has been sent there from Maysville. Ripley has fully fifteen thousand persons dependent and has been receiving help from the interior as far back as Hillsboro, thirty-five miles.

The village of Rural with two hundred and fifty inhabitants, has one hundred destitute. Eight families are sheltered in a church and thirty-five persons are in a small school house.

A Railroad Track Ruined.

WHEELING, Feb. 15.—The greatest financial loss is that of the Ohio River railroad. For a hundred miles the track and road bed has almost entirely disappeared and the bridges have all been swept away.

At Moundsville about twenty families have been rendered homeless and entirely destitute, but the wealthy people of the town have refused to accept aid and are doing everything possible to alleviate the suffering.

At Bernwood, 250 persons, three fourths of the entire population, are in absolute want.

DELUGE MOVING WEST.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ind., Feb. 17.—A heavy rain fell all night and during the early hours of the morning, and the indications are that there will be still more rain.

The latest news from the Wabash is that the river is still rising and that the Tennessee is pouring a great flood into the Ohio, causing much suffering among the refugees on the hills.

Their provisions are giving out, and food has been scarce from the start, and many additional cases are reported. But bad as the situation now is it will become worse.

The situation in Uniontown is growing more serious. The entire town is several feet under water and the river is still rising steadily.

There was a rise during the night of five inches. Between Shawneetown and Uniontown the country on both sides of the river as far as the eye can reach is one vast sheet of water, trees alone making the dividing line between the river and the shores.

Several houses have been washed away.

The situation at Paducah is worse than has been generally supposed.

Last night one-third of the place was under water, and a rise of two feet more would cover the entire town.

The last train on the Ohio and Chesapeake road arrived last night. The water covered the track to the depth of two feet putting out the fires of the engine.

At 8 o'clock this evening the gas works were flooded, and the people are now dependent on lamps.

New Liberty, twelve miles above here, is entirely abandoned and nothing but the roofs of the houses can be seen.

Four-fifths of Smithland, at the mouth of the Cumberland river, is under water and several other towns are submerged.

That portion of Caseyville fronting on the river is under water to a depth of ten or twelve feet.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Feb. 17.—The steamer R. L. Cobb reports that nearly all the plantations below are more or less submerged.

Only four landings could be made from the mouth of the river. The situation of the planters is critical.

At Fulton last night the Red river was still rising and the flood covered the banks on both sides for many miles.

The homes of hundreds of persons are helpless and cannot be rescued. Live stock are drowning in large numbers.

Many houses are being washed into the river and unless relief is soon obtained the loss will be heavy.

The Arkansas river at Fort Smith had fallen six feet at midnight last night and was receding slowly.

The River Receding at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—The river is receding at the rate of about one and a half inches an hour and 11 o'clock to-night stood at sixty feet. It rained hard this afternoon.

Miscellaneous.

A general reduction in fare has been made on the Reading Railroad.

There is a man in Shamokin who has lived for seven years on bread and water at an expense of 40 cents a week.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad company is building a locomotive which it is stated will be the heaviest ever built.

It will have ten driving wheels with pony-trucks before and behind.

On Sunday Feb. 10 Mrs. Fenstermacher, living on East Market street, Sunbury, discovered a bunch of full blown blossoms on an apple tree in her lot.

The tree is also full of buds nearly ready to burst. This is a remarkable circumstance considering the recent severe weather and the open, exposed position of the tree.

A Reading Lad's Singular Death.

READING, February 13.—A strange and fatal accident occurred here on the streets to-night. An alarm of fire was struck at 8.30 and a large crowd ran in response.

Harry Ganz, aged seventeen ran against a tree in the thick fog, slipped and was instantly killed. He struck the tree with his temple.

The State Agricultural Society, having bought ground for a permanent place of exhibition in Philadelphia, will erect capacious buildings during the coming summer and inaugurate its new departure next fall with a State fair at which $50,000 in premiums will be offered.

It strikes one at first as odd to hold an agricultural fair in the largest city of the State and in the extreme southeastern corner, but, after all, by the increase of railroad facilities, Philadelphia is brought near to the great agricultural regions of the State.

Lancaster, Chester, Delaware, Lebanon, Berks, Lehigh, Montgomery and Northampton counties make most of the agricultural display and the point that is most central for them will no doubt be found most advantageous for such an exhibition.

Besides in great centers of population it is most practicable to secure a large patronage of exhibitors and spectators.

Dead in a Dentist's Chair.

SCRANTON, Feb. 7.—Mrs. James Stevenson, of the Providence section of the city, died to-day in a dentist's chair at the office of W. H. Heist, after she had three doses of chloroform and ether administered during the pulling of fifteen teeth.

The anaesthetic was given by her family physician, Dr. A. Strang. After the first dose Dentist Heist pulled two teeth; then another dose was given and nine teeth were extracted; then a third dose was given, after which five teeth were taken out.

The startled dentist then realized that he was pulling the teeth of a dead woman. Mrs. Stevenson died shortly after receiving the third dose. She leaves seven children, the youngest of whom is only four months old. Coroner Dean is holding the inquest, which will continue to-morrow.

Two Bold Swindlers.

Two BOLD SWINDLERS.—The other morning at 4 o'clock, as the Philadelphia and Erie passenger train was about starting west from Harrisburg, a bold and successful swindling dodge was played upon an old gentleman, a citizen of Erie, who was on his way home.

Two men came bolting into the train and one of them called out, "Is there any one on this train going through to Erie?" The old gentleman referred to replied that he was bound for Erie, whereupon the first speaker stated that he had a car of horses on the train but that the freight agent would not allow them to go through until the remainder of the freight, which was short $40, was paid.

He referred to the man who had come with him, as the freight agent, and the latter affirmed the statement of the alleged horse dealer. He represented that he was going through with the horses, and that he had a written security which he would give any one furnishing the money asked for, the man secured the amount named from the old gentleman of Erie, and placed in the hands of the latter the document which he had previously shown.

After getting the money the horse dealer and the freight agent passed forward to the front part of the train to look after the horses. When it became light enough to examine it thoroughly the benevolent Erie man discovered that the paper given him was a sight draft on the First national bank of Texas for $20,000. Long before this time the swindlers had skipped off the train and disappeared. It need not be stated that there were no horses on the train and that both the men who worked the horse dodge were swindlers.
