Tight Lacing.

The Absurdity of the Custom as well as Its Effect upon the Health of Slaves to the Fashion.

There would be no tight lacing if girls could be made to understand this simple fact :- that men dread the thought of marrying a woman who is subject to fits of irritable temper, to bad headaches, and other ailments we need not mention, all of which, everybody knows, are the direct and inevitable product of the compression of the waist; men like to see a small waist, certainly; but there is great difference between the waist that is well formed and in proportion to the rest of the fig ure, and a waist which is obviously and artificially compressed, to the destruction of that easy and graceful car-riage which is one of the chief charms of a woman's appearance. An unnaturally compressed waist is far more certain of detection than a mass of false hair or a faint dusting of powder. The ing cough, colds, and lung troubles of rawest youth that enters a ball-room any nature, and will have it. A good can pick out the women who have straightened themselves artificially.

If a young woman, to obtain the appearance of a dragon-fly, has been subjecting herself to considerable physical pain, and who has been laying up for herself a pretty store of ailments which only want time to pronounce themselvss, could only see the stare of scarcely disguised contempt and understand the scornful pity which greets the result of her labor, we should have a change of fashion. Through all changes, women remain true only to one fashion; whether her clothing is as long and lank as that of a Grecian Virgin, or wether she builds around the lower half of her figure a rotund and capacious structure of steel, she is ever faithful to the tradition of a small waist; and she will weaken her circulation, she will incur headache, she will crack her voice and she will ruin her digestion, all to produce a malformation which wise men regard with pity and fools with derision. The ladies can be fitted with a corset which will not compress the waist, but give support, health, and comfort to the body, and easy and graceful carriage to the appearance has been fully demonstrated by the celebrated philanthropist Mme, Dean, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who lately patented a corset which is a combination of shoulder-brace and spine-The latest in our little burg-an supporting corset, and while combinaristocratic family. Our town was thrown into quite an excitement on Sunday afternoon over the runaway of J. C. Condo's horse. Mr. Condo had been to the meeting at the Reformed church and when at home and in the act of unhitching the horse became unmanageable, upsetting the buggy, started down the road at a furious rate. After running about two miles the horse was stopped in his wild career. Result-a wrecked buggy, but nobody hurt.
