FOURTH OF MARCH, the glorious day on which the republican domenion of twenty-four years' standing went out of existence and the sun of democratic administration rose was a day of jubilee for Washington as well as the country-at-large. It was a day which will ever be a bright spot in the history of great America. The great calamity of the rich growing richer and the poor growing poorer will under the new administration with strict democratic principles be removlaborer will again stand on a more equal footing with the monopolist and speculator. The new President, surrounded by an able cabinet, which naturally wants them to share the re- an ordinary public building in New is composed of the worthiest men of the party, gives fair promise to care sponsibility before the world that they would be called on to assume if not of fically connected with the government. for the welfare of all, making it a gov ernment for the people and by the peo-

Cleveland, which our readers will find on the first page, bears the real democratic stamp and embraces the following sound principles: Strict honesty, independence from all cliques, introindependence from all cliques, introduction of utmost economy in governmental affairs and proper estimation and promotion of the interests of the people. Furthermore the new president proclaims in a truly American spirit the so-called Monroe doctrine, which forbids foreign nations to meddle in the affairs of the United States and vice versa. A strict adherance to this principle alone secures for this republic peace and friendship with all nations of the world. In a nutshell -Cleveland's inaugural address is a first-class programme of his coming administration and at once imbues the American people with confidence and the highest esteem for him.

THE Grant retirement bill was signed by the President and unanimously confirmed by the Senate, in open exe cutive session, amid thunders of applause on the floor and in the galleries.

The New Cabinet.

The following are the names of the members of President Cleveland's Cabinet which were sent to the senate on March 5th, and their nominations confirmed on Friday March 6th, without any opposition

Secretary of State-Thomas Francis Bayard, of Delaware. Secretary of the Treasury-Daniel

Manning, of New York. Secretary of War-William Crownin shield Endicott, of Massachusetts.

Secretary of the Navy-William C. Whitney, of New York.

Secretary of the Interior-Lucius Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi. Postmaster General-William Freeman Vilas, of Wisconsin. Attorney General-Augustus H. Garland, of Arkansas.

A Philadelphia Times reporter in commenting on the cabinet speaks in the following complimentary terms of the different members:

AN ABLE CABINET. The new Cabinet is one of the ablest elected in modern times and there is not a shade of suspicion attaching to its integrity. Bayard is the embodi-ment of the most chivalrous honor and purity in statesmanship, and Lamar and Garland, his Southern associates, are as stainless as himself and fairly reflect the exceptional standard of public honesty that was so long a characteristic of leading Southern statesmen.

of his office, but his conservative Democracy, so scrupulously maintained in the surges of faction and expendiency in politics, will greatly assure the commercial, business and industrial interests of the country. He is not an expert politician in the present acceptation of the term, and the more vigorous and aggressive elements of the party fear that Beyard, Lamar and Garland will not put themselves in accord with the Democratic commonality. Lamar is untried in administrative position and it is not claimed that he is likely to make a vigorous secretary of the Interior by his own personal labors; but it is expected that he will organize his department wisely and practically and that he will be to the fore in all great emergencies and especially when the government is called upon to grapple with the colossal speculative combinations which have made the Interior their objective point. Garland is yery generally regarded by all parties as one of the best-equipped torney Generalship and the wisdom of the choice is admitted on every side. Both Lamar and Garland were soldiers and statesmen in the Confederacy and Lamar had been in Congress before the war; but the complete dethronement of sectionalism is exhibited in the general welcome accorded to these thoroughly representative Southern men coming into the Cabinet. True, Grant had set the example by calling the Ex-Confederate Ackerman to Garland's place a dozen years ago and Hayes had repeated the lesson by the appointment of Ex-Confederate Key to the Cabinet eight years ago; but it was not pretended that Ackerman and Key voiced the sentiment of the South in the government, while Lamar and Garland admitedly reflect the sincere convictions of the large majority of the reconstructed States in fayor of patriotic and honest administration of the government of

MANNING AND WHITNEY.

Of the Northern members of the new Cabinet Manning is the broadest and most practical. His great resources are his general intelligence, his unfailing common sense and his cool, clear judgement, that always asserts itself under the most trying circumstances. He is a trained business man, a practical banker, and he has no crank notions of patent inventions about finance. He understands that the laws of finance and trade are old as the world and irresistible, requiring only sensible adaptation to present necessities, and he will keep a steady eye and a strong hand on the business tranquility of the country. He will attempt nothing brilliant and he will therefore be safe. Whitney, his colleague from New York, is one of the able men of his State, but like Manning untried in the broad field of national statesmanship. He is more mercurial than Manning, but is a shrewd and resolute leader, and will stake a reputation that he highly values upon a thoroughly prudent and progressive administration of the Navy. that he must learn from others, and he

THE WESTERN MEMBER.

Colonel Vilas is the youngest member of the Cabinet, being only forty-five and one year the junior of Whitney. He was a gallant soldier and is regarded as THE inaugral address of President leveland, which our readers will find in the first page, bears the real demoratic stamp and embraces the followwas made permanent president, and his ability and admirable bearing in that body gave him national tame. He is an accomplished and goahead Western man and it is not doubted that he will make a most creditable Postmaster

General and a terror to the whole pestiferous brood of Star route thieves. Judge Endicott is the embodiment of the best element of New England Democracy. His selection will not be welcomed by the debauched Butler fragments that hang around the edges of the party in Massachusetts, but it will emphasize the purpose of the amin istration to have honest government and honest politics in every part of the country. He is a practical Democrat in faith, but his appointment is specially acceptable to the Republican Independents who supported Cleveland's e-

Such are the chief qualities which distinguish the new ministry, and its undisputed integrity and ability will be gratefully appreciated by the whole country, regardless of dividing party

ANOTHER PROTEST .- Last week's communication of "John Plowman" of Miles township, on the "New Court House Question" is followed up this week by the decisive preamble and resolution of the Progress Grange of Centre Hall, published below, showing that Potter township joins in the opposition to such an untimely and expensive undertaking:

At a meeting of Progress Grange, Centre Hall, Pa.; Feb. 25th, 1885, the following preample and resolution was passed by an unanimous vote:

WHEREAS, at the last session of Court of Common Pleas of Centre county, the Court declared in favor of the erection of a new Court House, and

WHEREAS, it is comparitively only a few years since it was rebuilt and remodeled and is still in good condition and ample for all the necessities of the Court, therefore be it Resolved, by the members of Progress Grange and citizens of Potter township, that we enter our protest against the assumption of so unwarrantable an action on the part of the Court at a time when every department of trade and in-dustry is prostrated and under the circumstances, an outrage upon the labor and industries of the county which we call upon all good citizens of the county to protest against. JAMES B. NEFF. CARRIE E. OSMAN, Secretary.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9,1885. The inaugural ceremonies upon Mr. Cleveland's accession on the 4th, were attended with greater enthusiasm and more elaboration of display, both military and civil, than have been witnessed in any of the score of inaugurations that have preceded it. There was neither halt nor hitch from beginning to end, and although participated in by more than a quarter of a million of people, there was no fighting, no drunkenness and no disorder whatever. The ovation extended by the people to Mr. Cleveland was quite as freely given to Mr. Hendricks whose well known countenance was readily recognized by the immense crowd that lined Pennsylvamen in the whole country for the At- nia Avenue from one end to the other. A teature of the ceremonial which was peculiarly gratifying was the reading of the inaugural address by the President-elect, whose voice was heard and whose utterances were distinctly conveyed to the ears of more than fifteen thousand people. The President's delivery was not only earnest and forcible but at times was very eloquent, eliciting thundering bursts of applause. Of course by the time this reaches you the address will have been sent to you by telegraph, so that you can then judge of its merits. I can only say that here it has won the admiration of everybody. friend and foe alike, because it gave no uncertain sound of what might be expected of a Democratic administration that has the task of correcting the numberless abuses that a twenty years of Republican rule has inaugurated, tolerated and encouraged.

In the admirable closing address of Speaker Carlisle, he paid his particular respects to the modern Congressman who deems it his peculiar mission to draft bills and introduce them. The Speaker said that from the organization of the government to the close of the Twenty-Fifth Congress, a period of fifty years, there have been but eight thousand seven hundred and seventyseven bills introduced, while in the present Congress alone there have been eight thousand six hundred and thirty! If this.practice does not require some constitutional or other treatment, I does. Hardly a single appropriation bill in the general class nowadays, is not a draft upon the Treasury for more money than the appropriations of ten
