WILLIAM A. STOVER, Director of Pike School. Penn township.

OBITUARY.-Last Friday morning March 27th, Maria, the wife of John ed this life. The deceased was a woman weil and favorably known in this section of Centre county. Her life was remarkable in many respects. Trials bodged in her path; patience and faith lightened the burden she bore; and cheerful resignation to the will of God led her to perform the many good deeds which made her life radiant with the beams of goodness.

Mrs. Roush was born in Bethlehem wp., Northampton Co., Nov. 8th 1808. Her parents, Daniel and Elizabeth Schneider, removed to Nittany Valley and settled in the vicinity of Snyder's church. After their death she was left to battle with the stern realities of life. On the 16th of June, 1830, she hailed from Northampton county. Conrad, of Philadelphia, will preach They lived in Nittany valley a while, then removed to Brush and finally settled in Penns valley, where Mr. Swartz died after a long period of helplessness caused by paralysis. Previous to his death, he and his wife, served as sextons in the Reformed and Lutheran churches at Aaronsburg. After his death the subject of this notice continued to serve in this capacity. In all ing last week his horse ran away and she served over a quarter of a century. Mr. Stover in trying to jump out of the What a faithful record is hers! How sleigh became entangled in the gearings often she tolled the death knell that proclaimed the transitoriness of human life! How often she rang out an inseriously. We hear that he is doing vitation to the Gospel feast! At leagth her own time came to lay down the pilgrim's staff and to enter into her rest. The tolling of the bell declared that from the church militant her soul was transferred to the temple not built with hands, eternal in the heavens. "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to awell in the tents of wickedness " Three years after the death of Mr. Swartz, she was married to Mr. John Roush, one of Brush valley's esteemed citizens. Here again her ministering hand comforted her husband, who years ago was rendered an invalid by paralysis. Her kindly presence helped him to bear the cross now laid upon him. Although weary with the infirmities of age and the burdens of life, she was contented with her lot and remained loyal to her blessed Master. At length a form of bronchitis laid such hold upon her that she gradually sank into the embrace of death and at the ripe age of 76 years, 4 months and 19 days departed this life. Were we to attempt to picture in language her firm faith in -The third Quarterly Conference of Christ, her resignation to her Heaventhe U. B. in Christ for Millheim Cir- ly Father's will and her assured confidence in the power of God to raise ther express how blessed was her communion with God.

The funeral services were held at the Madisonburg Reformed church, pastor N. J. Miller officiating. A large concourse of relatives and friends were present to attest their love and respect for the deceased. The text chosen was, "There remaineth therefor a rest for the people of God." After a long and useful life she rests in peace.
