—G. W. Long, the grammar school teacher of this place, spent the holidays with his relatives in Northumberland county.

—The fellow who picked up Squire Reifnyder's eye-glasses on Christmas eve in his office, is requested to return the same to their owner.

—A protracted prayer-meeting is being held this week, in the Evangelical church. The Lutherans are also observing a week of prayer.

—The Chinese population of Philadelphia was recently thrown into a big excitement by the arrival of the first celestial baby in that city.

—J. S. McCarger, of Clintondale, Pa., passed through town one day last week, having just returned from a two month's trip through the West.

—By all indications public sales will be plentiful this spring. Don't forget that the JOURNAL office turns out attractive sale bills at very reasonable prices.

—The town council should constantly be on the look-out for defective sidewalks. The neglect to do so might some day occasion heavy costs on the borough.

—We noticed in last week's Millheim Telegraph that Rev. Chas. Schnure, Missionary to India, arrived at his mother's home in Laurelton, on Monday, Dec. 28th.

—The risen water had washed out deep holes on the pike leading through the Gap to Brushvalley on Tuesday morning, which made the road very dangerous for travel.

—The United Brethren Sunday school treated its scholars to candy on Sunday after Christmas and the M. E. Sunday school followed suit in a similar manner last Sunday.

—J. H. B. Hartman and wife returned on Saturday from a week's visit to friends in Dauphin county. They took in several of Dauphin's nicest towns, including the capital city.

—Miss Flora D., daughter of Mr. Jonathan Kremer, a former citizen of Brushvalley, now of Valley Falls, Kansas, is at present on a visit to her uncle, Mr. Wm. Kremer, at Rebersburg.

—William Hieter, a young barber of Millheim, and a real nice young gentleman, is the new assistant of W. J. Springer.

—Mr. J. E. Fetterolf, who had resided in town for about a year, moved back to his former place of residence, at Troxelyville, Snyder Co.

—Jacob Stein, of Tyrone, Pa., donated a very fine pulpit to the new Ev. church at this place. This valuable piece of church furniture is his own handiwork, and does great credit to the maker.

—John T. Cox, who shot Milo Jump, and who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter, was sentenced to four years solitary confinement in the Northumberland county prison and $100 fine.

—We are under obligations to Hon. J. A. Woodward, our worthy representative to the legislature, for a complimentary copy of the book entitled the "Laws of Pennsylvania," passed at the session of '85.

—Haines township has a new post-office since the first of January. Its name is "Fiedler!" with F. O. Hosterman as postmaster. Fred is just the man for the place and we tip our hat to the new official.

—Prof. Bierly's class of singers at Aaronsburg was organized last Saturday evening, with a membership of 40. Hon. J. G. Meyer presided over the meeting. An increase in the number is expected at the next meeting.

—The old year was rang out and the new year rang in by the sextons of the M. E. and the Lutheran churches at twelve o'clock on New Year's night. The band followed with their customary midnight serenade.

—From the many teams in town last week and the number of bundles seen carried away from the stores we should judge our merchants have had a good holiday trade and most of the little ones, if not the big people were remembered with presents.

—Mr. J. F. Torbert and lady, for several years residents of Penn township, and who were much esteemed in this community, have left and moved to Williamsport, where Mr. Torbert's prop timber business called him. Our people regret the departure very much.

—Dr. Lee, of Madisonburg, takes occasion to inform the public that the current reports about the hopeless condition of Miss Sadie Adams, of Millheim, one of his patients, are unfounded and false. The suffering lady is doing better at present than at any time since her arrival from Lewisburg.

CARD.—The subscriber hereby returns his best thanks to his friends and the public in general for a very liberal patronage during the holiday season, and to Dr. J. F. Harter, Mr. C. W. Hartman and Mr. D. L. Zerby, for important special help.

B. O. DEININGER.

Jan. 2nd, 1886.

—The Evangelical preachers take pleasure in returning thanks to Mr. A. Harter, the grocer, for the handsome Christmas gift of flour and other useful articles, praying that God would bless him and his household in temporal and spiritual things.

BENJ. HENGST, S. M. MOUNTZ.

—Mr. S. K. Faust wishes to notify the public that he has seventeen fine sleighs on hand, ready for sale. They are splendidly finished, with the celebrated shifting box attached to them and Nickel Dash Railing. The trimmings is rich and tasty, such as Brussels Carpet, Velvet and Tapestry. Any one wishing an excellent sleigh will please call at his shop, in Spring Bank, and they will find his prices suited to the times.

—The Millheim Times, a new paper published at that place by Geo. W. Foote, has made its appearance and a copy of the same is on our table. It looks bright, clean and newsy and we hope brother Foote will be sufficiently patronized to make a fortune out of the enterprise. Its political color is democratic.

—At the regular annual election of the Lutheran Sunday School of this place, having been held on the last Sunday in December the following were chosen as officers for the ensuing year: A. J. Harter, Supt., E. J. Brumgard, A. Supt., J. H. B. Hartman, Sec., Henry Breon, Treas., W. C. Duck and Katie Brumgard, Librarians.

—On last Saturday several of the members of the U. B. church at this place, were engaged in breaking ground for a new house on the lot south of W. J. Springer's, Penn street. That congregation contemplate finishing the dwelling until April 1st, next, and it is to be occupied by their preacher Rev. Wasson.

—Next Monday evening the musical convention in the Reformed church at Aaronsburg will begin. The ladies of the Mite Society, under whose auspices this musical feast is being held, extend a cordial invitation to all lovers of music, which we hope will be generally responded to. Remember, every singer taking an active part will be entitled to one of Prof. A. N. Johnson's latest books.

—The schoolroom of the grammar department was converted into a crowded court room on Tuesday evening, when the Excelsior Literary Society held a sham trial in court. Space does not permit to go into details. We can only say that the audience was very well pleased with the exercises of the evening. A special meeting of the society has been called for next Tuesday evening.

—Time Books, both for workmen and bosses, at the Journal store.

—The prospectus of the Philadelphia Times appears in this issue. If our readers are in want of a first-class daily paper we would recommend the Philadelphia Times. It is one of the most enterprising and best edited dailies in the United States.

—Dr. J. W. Stam purchased the town property on Penn street last week from Mr. Jordan for $2100. The big red barn was then sold to Jacob Duweiler for $225, who expects to move that building to his farm, southwest of town, between this and Spring-Good news all around.

—New Year's day was celebrated in Millheim by a fantastic street parade in the afternoon, in which about 35 disguised horsemen participated. The affair was gotten up on very short notice, and created a good deal of amusement among the crowd of eager spectators. The band followed later in the day with several pieces of their excellent music.

NOTICE.—The undersigned will take all cross ties, which are acceptable to the inspector of the road they are intended for, between this and Jan. 15th, 1886. They must be delivered to a R. R. siding and must be marked with the name of the person furnishing them and addressed to the undersigned. The price—45 cents—will be paid in February, 1886. I. J. GRENOBLE.

—Monthly report of the Coburn school, for the second month, ending December 18th—S. R. Foreman, teacher. No. of pupils enrolled 42; Male 25, female 17; Average attendance, male 23, female 15, total 38; Average progress, male 1 1/2, female 1 1/2; conduct, male 2, female 1 1/2. Right here allow me to thank the citizens of this district for their efficient work in helping to build up and maintain the reputation of the school. S. R. F.

—Those of our readers who are acquainted with Jordan Deshler, son of Dr. E. J. Deshler, of Aaronsburg, will be interested in the following article clipped from the Gladden Success, Iowa: The new board of examining surgeons for the Pension Department in the Carroll District, comprised of some six counties, are Dr. J. J. Deshler, of Gladden; Dr. Ennis, of Carroll, and Dr. Jones, of Breda.

Another item in the same paper says: Mrs. Dr. J. J. Deshler met with a serious accident Thursday evening, scalding her hand and arm nearly to the elbow by tipping over a tin full of water, which she was warming in the stove, and will be unable to use her hand for some time.

—List of parties who visited in Millheim during the holidays: Miss Marion Cantner, of Milroy, and Mrs. Krise, of Millheim, at S. D. Musser's; Mr. & Mrs. John Toner, of Blanchard, at W. L. Musser's; Mr. & Mrs. P. B. Stover, of Pleasant Valley, Kansas, at J. W. Snook's and J. W. Stover's; Mrs. Kate Eokley, from near Bellefonte, at her father's, David Ulrich's; Mrs. Strauss, of Union county, at L. J. Noll's; Mrs. Alice Gingerich, of Oak Hill, at Dr. Stam's; Mr. Moutz, of ————, at his brother's, Rev. Muntz; Elias Kremer, of Windfield, Pa.; Elmer Schoch, of Millheim; B. F. Klepper and wife, of Boonville; S. J. Hering and wife, Penn Hall; Mr. Smith, of Newport, Perry Co.; Mr. Wasson, brother of Rev. Wasson and Miss Jennie Eckenroth at Wm. Miller's.

—On Tuesday morning early while everybody was in a state of excitement over the high water, an accident happened to Rev. N. J. Miller and Daniel Brumgard, both of Rebersburg, who were on their way to Coburn, where the former expected to take the morning train for Lancaster. They were just rounding the turn near Campbell's mill on North street, when one side of the spring wagon got into a deep rut, which had been washed in by the flood, and was upset. Both gentlemen were spilled out and immersed into the torrent, all the while enveloped in deep darkness. Rev. Miller's trunk was carried off some distance but was recovered later in the day, the contents being all wet. His hat and cap had swum beyond reach. It was a very cool and unpleasant experience and the soaked travelers willingly accepted Dr. Gutelius' warm invitation to take refuge in his house and recruit.

—A large and delighted audience attended the Christmas entertainment at the Lutheran Sunday school on Christmas eve. The programme was unusually novel and attractive. Some of the leading features were the "Address of Welcome," by B. O. Deininger, the song "Bright Jewels," sung by about thirty little girls from the infant department, all dressed in white, their heads adorned with golden crowns and stars, "The Wonderful Star," represented by 16 of the smallest boys of the school, each carrying a banner with one letter on. While the banner boys filed in in regular order, a quartet of singers furnished appropriate music. Childhood, Youth, Manhood and Old Age, by Rev. Dietzler was one of the most interesting exercises of the evening. The distribution of the gifts from two stately and brilliantly illumined trees was the part most desired by the little ones. The anthems sang by the choir were very good and were ably accompanied by Miss Mable Musser, who presided at the organ and by Dr. J. F. Harter, our excellent cornetist. The entertainment was highly enjoyed by all who were present.

—A whole Army of Lancaster Almanacs at the Journal store.

—Mrs. Jonathan Harter, who had gone to Harrisburg on Christmas morning, to spend the holidays with her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Kurzenknebe, returned on Monday evening—just in time to escape the dangers of the flood. She seems pleased with her trip.

—We had hardly run out the JOURNAL containing Mr. P. B. Stover's interesting letter when he appeared in person, having suddenly concluded to visit his native valley. He and his lady gave our sanctum a pleasant call. He called our attention to a few mistakes which occurred in his letter, while in the hands of the compositor, which he requested us to correct for the satisfaction of his many friends. Instead of 100 bushels of Wheat it should be 700, and in place of 1000 bushels of Corn it is 7000 bushels from 110 acres of ground. Mr. Stover expects to spend several weeks among us.

ACCIDENT.—A son of Mr. John Emerick, of Wolf's Store, while on his way to Coburn Station on Tuesday morning of last week, met with a serious accident and almost miraculously escaped from being killed. The horse he was driving suddenly ran away, breaking the front axle of the buggy and throwing the boy out on the turnpike. He was dragged on the road by the runaway horse for a good distance on his back and received heavy and painful bruises. The horse in striking the broken axle in his mad run cut himself badly. We have not heard since how the suffering boy is getting along.

—Christmas day was quite lively in town. In the morning "Old Santa" made his appearance on the street, heavily laden with baskets containing nut and new pennies. On his way to the Journal Store, where he had special business, he was continually followed and surrounded by the curious juveniles, whom he regaled from time to time by scattering a handful of his gifts among them. He was closely accompanied by a body guard, who kept the most troublesome youngsters at bay with the point of his sword. On his arrival at No. 20 Penn street the distribution of Mr. B. O. Deininger's gifts to the school children of town was proceeded with, and the little ones departed with happy hearts. Thus Christmas day was ushered in very appropriately. About noon the town people were reminded by the Ev. church bell, that a first class meal could be had at the festival of the Ev. Ladies' Aid Society. After dinner, when town was well filled with people, a number of young gentlemen got up a parade with tin horns, we presume for the sake of a little noise. Later in the afternoon the Millheim Cornet Band gave a street concert on the Diamond. The festival was again well patronized in the evening and everybody seemed in good spirits over the pleasant Christmas day.

MR. EDITOR:—No doubt you would like to publish a brief report of the Christmas and New Year's festivals, held by the different schools of Aaronsburg. The reformer held their festival on Christmas eve. The exercises consisted of a review service by the school, seemingly of last year's lessons, interspersed by addresses and singing, after which the treat of candies, &c. to the school. There were no decorations.

The Evangelical association called their school together on Christmas morning. Singing by the school, addresses by pastor Moutz and Supt. Bower, after which the gifts were distributed to the school, and when the benediction was pronounced we considered ourselves dismissed.

On New Year's evening the Lutherans gathered their flock together. The auditorium of their church was well filled with an interesting and intelligent audience. The room was very tastefully decorated, due to the supervision of Miss Sarah Kline, assisted by some of the young ladies and gents of the school. The front part of the church represented summer in all its beauty, with little birds twittering and chatting among the evergreen. In the rear half of the church cold winter was brought out in full view, the trees and evergreen groaning under the pressure of fresh-fallen snow. The exercises were varied and interesting, the school received their presents, the benediction was pronounced, after which all went home satisfied with what they had seen and heard. ONE WHO SAW ALL.

THE FLOOD.—Millheim's tranquility was quite shaken by the peals of alarm which the town bell sent out at about half past two o'clock on Tuesday morning. In a short time dozens of men, equipped with lanterns, joined those already on the streets and the sound of wild and rushing waters soon told them what was wrong. Elk Creek had by the recent heavy rains swollen to a mighty stream and had broken over its banks at different places along its course. Peters' dam, east of North street, had broken and a drift dam had formed near the foundry, which caused a large stream to flow down over Gehart's field and the alleys, and cover the eastern part of Main street, from D. A. Musser's residence east of the bridge up to A. Harter's grocery with about six inches of water. The cellars in that section of town were consequently filled up and many of the residents there lost some of their provisions. The foundry was one of the principal victims of the mad current, some of its sidebuildings having been carried away together with a lot of lumber and flasks, and the loss of Messrs. Knarr & Lose is estimated over $100. Elias Lose & Son's planning mill was also entirely surrounded by water, but no damage resulted there. Farther down, Water street and all the yards of the premises on that street were submerged by the swollen stream and the foundations of some of the buildings suffered considerable damage. Most of South street, to within a few rods of the writer's residence, corner of Penn and South was converted into a sheet of water, barring the way to reach the house on the island, south of the bridge. The occupants, Josiah Long and family, were imprisoned on the upper story until day light and some of his live stock in the stable stood knee-deep in water for several hours. The wooden bridge near A. R. Alexander's farm was much weakened by the flood and rendered unsafe for conveyances to cross. As far as we could learn there was no loss of live stock, but many portable articles along the banks floated down the creek. When broad daylight revealed the scene the people realized how their premises were endangered during the night by the watery element. The older residents of town say that Millheim was not visited by such a flood since 1865.

Rain, rain, Mud, mud.

W. C. Duck and sister were to Nittany Valley over the holidays. On Monday they started to attend school at Millheim.

Mr. Krumrine sold his steam threshing to a Woodward party.

Harry Wert and family, of Brushvalley, were in our midst over Sunday.

Harry Keller, of Penn Fall, received $50 reward for taking the horse that was stolen at Lewistown, back to its owner.

Philip Stover and wife, of Pleasant Valley, Kansas, were the guests of H. E. Duck over Sunday. JUMBO.

AARONSBURG.

As S. H. Diehl has returned from Colorado we can now get facts of one's life beyond the Rockies.

Christmas day of 1885 was made unusually pleasant for the little folks of our town. All were invited by Dr. P. T. Musser to come to his office and receive a present, which consisted of a 5 ct. piece and 2 sticks of candy. No less than 150 presented themselves for their gifts.

Is there not sufficient reason for people to form new resolutions on a day like last New Year's day? Think of the beautiful weather. It was actually so spring-like that even the trees came very near turning over new leaves.

Overseers of the poor of Haines twp. have hit upon a very wise plan. They intend to enlarge and generally fix up the old academy building on the hill north of town for the occupancy of several of the township's pauper families. To save rent is the idea.

We were surprised in the afternoon of New Year's day, to see a pack of Indians enter our town from the west. Some were very savage looking. They had their war dance on Aaron's square, after which they went in the direction of Woodward, no doubt to get some of Noah's best.

I wish I had three more names, then I would have the required number to make up the singing class for Prof. Bierly, Come Ladies and Gents, this will be my last attempt to raise a class. So says A. L. Stover.

Youth, as well as childhood, middle age and old age were very creditably exemplified by pastor Diezler the same being a part of the programme of the Luth. festival on New Year's evening.

All the near relatives and a few friends of Mr. & Mrs. L. E. Stover, were invited to their place for dinner on the last day of the year. "Somehow my vest don't fit right," an expression made by J. C. M.—Esq., after dinner.

A home of my own, you bet, says Henry H. Weaver since he bought the Michael Harper property immediately west of the new Reformed Church. Henceforth no more moving for Henry.

Happy were all the little boys and girls of our town during the past holiday season. Santa Claus was especially kind to them, inasmuch that each one was the recipient of some present.

New Year resolutions such as "I have quit smoking, drinking, swearing, etc., are apt to be fit for aught else than paying stones. ANOTHER.

WOODWARD.

Willie Fisher and Carl Motz, students at the Williamsport Seminary, were home spending their holiday vacation.

Miss Sadie and Jennie Walter also enjoyed the holidays visiting their mother at this place.

J. C. Motz, Esq., met with a slight accident while assisting in planing some boards at his mill.

Our esteemed Divines seem to ignore Woodward altogether. Thrice in succession no services. Our Sunday school likewise has suspended. If things continue so we shall ere long look for an invitation to a Sunday afternoon picnic or fishing party.

Christmas passed quietly, with the exception of a little misunderstanding on Main street. The contestants soon betook themselves to the ice and at nightfall were engaged in a more harmonizing occupation on the frozen surface of raging Pine Creek. ARGENTI.
