

Democratic County Com. for 1886.

Table with columns for District, Name, and Party/Role. Lists candidates for various districts across the county.

Iowa and Minnesota had heavy snowstorms and severe cold weather again last week. Many of the railroads were compelled to suspend business for the time being.

The First National Bank, of Lebanon, is no doubt the only bank in the state, which has a lady as a director. Mrs. G. Dawson Coleman was recently elected as a member of the board of directors of said bank.

The "Committee of One Hundred," a political reform organization in Philadelphia, has dissolved. It had for its main object to reform municipal government, but since Philadelphia is and always will be republican the committee gave it up "for a bad job."

It would seem that a majority in both houses are emphatically against the suspension of silver coinage. The position of individual members indicates a tendency to cut all talk, for or against, short, as a delay of action produce an injury uncertainty in the money market. Several of the members are urging a speedy decision.

The Greek and the Turk are "spilling for a fight." Turkey is infringing upon the rights of Greece by trying to absorb Epirus and Thessaly, with about 100,000 people belonging to the Greek race and Greece is not going to stand it. Latest information says that both countries are making active preparations for war. No peace like Europe for war.

EX-SENATOR CONKLING, according to a recent issue of the New York Evening Post, in an address at a banquet called President Cleveland a second Abraham Lincoln, and predicts Cleveland's re-election in 1888 an almost unanimous vote. Cleveland's popularity with the people is growing daily and is the result of his conscientious administration and the clear fact that he faithfully endeavors to be the president of the people and not of a party.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has made several important decisions in reference to road taxes, which are of a general interest. In the first place all taxpayers must be allowed to work out their road tax if they desire to do so. Again collectors of road taxes can not claim any commission upon taxes worked out and which are consequently not cash receipts. All such claims shall be rejected, as the working out of a road tax does not cause any additional work for the collector nor for the treasurer, but only for the supervisor, who is amply repaid for his work.

WILLIAM U. HENSEL was re-elected chairman of the democratic State Committee at the meeting of said committee on last Wednesday. Senator Wallace had been spoken of for that position, but he declined the honor in a letter to the committee, saying that he was not "in politics" at all. Consequently Mr. Hensel was unanimously re-elected. The majority of Pennsylvania's democracy, we are sure, is satisfied with the election. Hensel has always been an active and wide-awake chairman. He has of course, his faults, like all other men, including the habitual growlers, who are continually harping on the lost battles in Pennsylvania, but who would probably make a much worse record, were they in Mr. Hensel's shoes.

The stale jokes about onions and the young lady's breath will now cease, for since the advent of the "Odorless" Kettle, such a thing as a bad odor is unknown.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

JANUARY 23, 1886. The President this week has closed the doors of the White House and will refrain from entertaining on account of the death of Secretary Bayard's daughter. He has signed the Presidential Succession Bill, which may properly be termed the Hoar Bill, though some severe critics assert that its being was the conception of another's brain. He seems to have no fears, regarding the circulating reports, that the Senate will antagonize some of his selections and demand of him his reasons for their appointment, for he takes the broad view that what is done is done for the best.

Society has seldom received such a terrible shock as she did last week, upon the announcement of Miss Bayard's death. The news came so suddenly, that many who had seen her the night previous in the best of health at her reception, could hardly realize the truth of the report, but upon its confirmation, their doors were immediately closed, and the wives of the Cabinet officers, who had issued cards for their reception the present week, had them recalled. She was an especial favorite in Washington Society, and since her other illness, had lifted from her shoulders the responsibilities incumbent upon a Cabinet officer's wife. Honored by all, particularly liked by the members of the Diplomatic Corps and endeared to her numerous friends and acquaintances, on account of her many womanly attributes and lovable traits of character, she has left vacant a position which few can fill.

The extreme cold wave which swept over the entire country and embraced even the sunny climes of Florida, gave to Washington a carnival of sleighing, which was unprecedented for its duration. One good week of sleighing is a novelty at the capital, and those who were blessed with runners availed themselves of the pleasure in store for them. Pennsylvania avenue was alive with sleighs from morn till night, and it was a common sight to see the President's span, drawing an elegant sleigh, in which were snugly bundled Miss Cleveland and her guests at the White House. Secretary Whitney who had been told that Washington seldom was visited by a snow storm of respectable size, was astonished at the fallacy, and immediately telegraphed to Brewster of New York for his elegant cutter. He and his wife were among the notables who glided up and down the avenue. A carnival, in which were congregated the plebeians and patricians was held, the middle of the week and the streets were packed with spectators, who looked enviously upon the favored few.

I have noticed here the arrival of various associations whose interests represent those of the west and south-west, in relation to the improvement of the western water-ways—those of the Mississippi Valley. Water transportation is the sole check to railroad combinations, and it would be well for Congress to give this matter important consideration. These associations are represented by men of broad views and earnest convictions, and will force Congress to recognize the great benefit the public will derive from an improvement of the father of rivers and its principal affluents.

The legal circles of the city are now in a state of excitement, and considerable feeling has been manifested at the attitude of the Senate towards Judge Merrick's confirmation. Though his nomination to the District bench has been presented to the Senate and bears earlier date than that of either Commissioner Webb or Marshall Wilson, yet these two gentlemen have been confirmed in their positions by the Senate, and Judge Merrick has not. The opposition arises amongst those members of the District Bar who were and are still aspirants to the office, which he was selected to fill. It is said Senator Edmunds is the leader of the opposition in the Senate, upon the legal ground that a pre-existing unwritten law is still in force against the confirmation of appointees over sixty years of age. It bears no weight however as Judge James, who was appointed by ex-President Hayes, a member of the same court, was over sixty and the Senate confirmed the nomination. The friends of Judge Merrick called for a meeting of the Bar Association, Wednesday, and by appropriate resolutions, the Bar Association endorsed his nomination. Both houses of Congress seem to have recovered from that lethargy usually following the Holiday vacation, and the members have awoke from their profound sleep, and are actively awake to the interests of their constituents and the great questions of national import. In the Senate the silver bill has monopolized this week and has been argued pro and con. Senator Teller occupied the floor last Monday and spoke in favor of the coinage of silver. He was the first republican Senator in this Congress who has addressed the Senate on this question. Senator Morrill spoke Wednesday against the coinage of silver. Many of the representative firms of New York have dispatched to Senator Everts to exert his influence towards the suspension of an unlimited flow of silver. Both parties will remain neutral on the demeritization of silver. Tuesday was given up to the powers of eloquence, when many glowing tributes were paid to the memory of ex-President Garfield. The House has been occupied the whole week with bills of a promiscuous character.

RARE GRATEFULNESS.

Years ago a Mrs. Johnson, of Erie, befriended a poor little girl by taking her to her home. The girl grew up, married well and removed to Missouri. Subsequently Mrs. Johnson's husband died and creditors seized the property. The old lady was driven to the poor-house, and the paper containing the occurrence found its way, wrapped around an express package, to Glassgow, Mo., and fell into the hands of Mrs. W. L. Gilchrist, the woman who in early life had been so kindly treated by Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. Gilchrist started for Erie on the first train and arriving at the latter place she soon had her old friend out of her poor-house quarters, and is now being kindly cared for in Missouri.

Hard Times for Tax Collectors.

HUNTINGDON, Jan. 24.—Serious trouble is apprehended in Carbon Township, this county, in the efforts of the tax collector to secure the overdue taxes. The citizens of the township are principally miners, who have been out of employment for several months in consequence of the failure of one of the leading coal companies there. The majority of the tax-payers have refused for three successive years to pay the county judgements which are entered against the disaffected portion of the township, and last year when the collector went to make seizures the residents threatened to lynch him and made preparations to execute their threats. They caught the collector and compelled him to chew up the writs and swallow them, after which they gave him a limited time to get out of the township, or to go to this city and claim exoneration from the County Commissioners. The settlers refuse to pay the county tax on the ground that they receive no benefit from the county. The collector will apply for a posse of sufficient force to aid him in carrying out the executions on those whom the Commissioners refuse to exonerate.

—MUST GO. The horrible nauseous worm-seed compounds called vermicides and worm syrups, many of them as worthless as they are obnoxious, have had their day. It's downright cruelty to compel a child to take them, when Mc Donald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take that children will take them and never know a medicine is being administered, can be procured for the small sum of twenty-five cents. Any case of failure to cause expulsion where worms exist, the money promptly refunded.
