

An Indignant Englishman.

Clever Tom Whiffen, than whom there are no more dignified Pooh-Bahs and few better fellows, tells me this anecdote: Before the days of rapid transit on the Atlantic, English actors were few and far between in this country. In those times an Englishman in America was more or less a curiosity—as many of them are even now. In a company which was doing Shakespeare at one of the Boston theaters was an English actor named Coleman. He was an actor of the old school, and quite as tragic off the stage as on. His fellow-players chaffed him in the dressing-rooms on account of his being an Englishman, and particularly on the difficulty he experienced in the use of the aspirate. This had been done so much that the Englishman was roused to furiousness if any one dared to imitate his cockney misuse of the eighth letter of our alphabet. One morning he came down to breakfast at the Tremont House in a not very pleasant frame of mind. He had been chaffed pretty hard the evening before, and in addition had not slept well. The waiter—a darkey of the darkest hue—laid the bill of fare before him and awaited his order.

'Ave you hany fresh heggs this morning?' asked Coleman. 'Yes, sah,' answered the darkey. 'Ow'll you 'ave 'em cooked, sah? Boiled, scrambled, fried, homelet; hany you like, sah?'

Coleman turned quickly, gave the waiter a sharp look, frowned, and then, as though making up his mind that his ears had deceived him, indicated his preference in the way of 'heggs.' 'Hany think else, sah?' asked the waiter. 'Cawn beef 'ash is very nice sah, dis mawrin'. Bit of fish, sah? 'Alibut steak, sah, finnan 'addie, fresh cod—' Coleman's face had turned purple. He jumped to his feet, caught the waiter by the collar, and held him at arm's length. 'What do you mean, sirrah?' he roared, 'by imitating a gentleman's speech, I 'ave a mind to throttle you, you impertinent scoundrel!'

'Hi begs yer pardon, sah, but hi really can't 'elp it, sah. Hi'm an Englishman myself, sah.'

'You lie, you villain!' bellowed Coleman. 'You've been paid for this!' By this time some of the other guests had intervened, and the darkey, pale with fear, was released from the actor's clutches. The head waiter youched for the fact that the darkey was an Englishman, born at Putney, and Coleman, restored to his equilibrium, settled down to his breakfast again—but with a change of waiters.

DOWN'S ELIXIR. N. H. DOWN'S VEGETABLE BALSAMIC ELIXIR. For the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that it is not a humbug, but a powerful tonic. At its commencement it has a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflammation, when the cough is rather dry, loud, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chilliness common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflammation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration. It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and sedative qualities, which are so drying a nature as to be a great danger of destroying the patient's strength by removing the fever or stopping the cough, but by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient will be well. Send for complete giving full directions, free. Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle. SOLD EVERYWHERE. HENRY, JOHNSON & LOEB, Proprs., Burlington, Vt.
