Mothers and fathers who have sons and daughters growing up, do not always realize as they should the great necessity of making home not merely a place in which their children eat, sleep, and are clothed, but one in which they find positive happiness and enjoyment. In nine cases out of ten where you see a wild youth or a giddy girl, go to their homes; you will find them cheerless, unattractive, or perhaps actually disagreeable.

The nature of youth is excessively restless; it has a longing for action and excitement, ambitions more or less vain, and always the irrepressible desire to know a broader life. Repress these natural instincts, and you will be sure to throw them into any society that in a measure will gratify their longings. Your sons do not go to the public bar-rooms at first for the taste of the liquor which they have not as yet acquired; they go for the gay companions they find there. The influence for good or evil that a mother has over her sons, the control that she exercises over their destinies, is a graye responsibility. Throw open your best room to the children in the evening. Have books and a magazine or two, even if you put away less money. Stimulate their ambition, and invent occupations and amusement for your children. Give them games and endear yourself to them by sharing their joys and plays. Encourage them to be affectionate. Do not with formal coldness starve them for want of caresses .- AMERICAN AG-RICULTURIST for March.

Dr. Steiner, now of Augusta, Ga., was the army surgeon who amputated General Loring's arm, which was shattered at the battle of Chapultepec. Says the Augusta Chronicle: 'Dr. Steiner says that Loring was the most self-possessed man he ever saw. In those days anæsthesia was just becoming known, but not available in Mexico, so Loring had to submit to the knife without chloroform or ether. Smoking a cigar, elated with victory, he peyer by so much as a cry or murmer or quiver of the muscles indicated that he suffered the least pain as his limb was sliced from his body. It was a ### LITTLE WOMEN.

The seven-year-old daughter of a very busy mother who, in consequence of her husband's early death, was obliged to carry on his business, was asked one day by a friend what she was able to do in the way of help. 'I can only pray to God and then hem the dusters,' was the child's reply, in all seriousness, but it showed that she had learned to do the duty that lay nearest her, and as years went on she developed into the steady, reliable, cheerful girl to whom the whole household looked for help, and seldom, if eyer, looked in
