There is a poultry farm of 8000 Plymouth Rocks, at Lancaster, Mass. Mr. Hawkins, its owner, calculates to have about 8000 fowls every fall, and carries over 2500 laying hens through the winter. His farm contains twentp-five acres, and his poultry buildings cover an acre and a half. These comprise six or seven sheds. 200 feet in length. Each shed is divided into apartments of 12x20 feet, and about twenty-five hens are kept in each division. A yard is made in front of each apartment.

Mr Hawkins believes that if confined poultry have their wants attended to they will do as well as if allowed free range. He bases this belief on several actual tests. In hatching time he sets two hundred hens in one day, and puts five hundred eggs in an incubator, which is due to hatch on the same day, the chickens from which will be distributed among two hundred hens. His sale offowls and eggs for hatching at fancy prices are large, about ninety per cent. being profit. He also has a standing order for sixty to ninety dozen of eggs daily, for which he gets the highest market price. Mr. Hawkins began at the age of twenty-one with one hundred hens, and by careful management and economy his business has enlarged so that at the age of twenty-eight he has a very handsome income. The poultry manure is quite an item. He sold last year five hundred barrels at $1.50 per barrel .- Farm and Fire-

The Monkey Saved Him.

A nobleman had a favorite monkey,a large orangoutang, which, you know is the largest species of monkey, except the gorilla. The monkey was very much attached to his master, and to the baby boy who was the pet of the whole family.

One day a fire suddenly broke out in the house, and everybody was running here and there to put it out, while the little boy in his nursery was almost forgotten, and when they thought of him the staircase was all in flames. What could be done?

As they were looking up and wondering, a large, hairy hand and arm opened the window, and presently the monkey appeared with the baby in his arms, and carefully climbed over the porch, and brought the child safely to his nurse. Nobody else could have done it for a man cannot climb like a monkey, and is not nearly so strong.

You can imagine how the faithful creature was praised and petted after

This is a true story, and the child who was saved was the young Marquis of Kildare.

'I quite agree with you, madame! I think every man has a calling for which he is peculiarly fitted. I was unhappily cut out for a school-teacher. I say unhappily, insomuch as I can do nothing else, and there are so few places in which a woman can earn a livelihood without lowering her standard of respectability, I would rather starve than claim my birthright at her expense! So if you can give me nothing to eat you can at least tell me the number of blocks to the river and show me sufficient respect to come to-morrow morning and identify my body as it lies in a state at the morgue.'
