LIVERMORE GRIGGS. The sinister manner in which a game young man was left. CHAPTER I. Nobody will be surprised to learn that a certain college boasts among its pupils a young man by the name of J. Livermore...

WERE WE A FARMER. Here are a few things we certainly would not do. Sleep on an old packed straw bed when there was clean, bright straw to be had.

A Cat's Fight With Sparrows. A stray tabby strolled into the residence of Mrs. Captain H. H. Brown a few weeks ago, and at once made arrangements to stay permanently.

Men-of-War-men's Gossip. "Speakin' of birds," said old Tom Top-sail, "I don see why people make such a fuss about English sparrows."

Used Perfumery in the Dark. "To catch up a bottle of perfume and dab the stopple at one's upper lip" said a fashionable girl to me.

Tough Snake Story. Speaking of snake stories, here's one from Douglassville, Ga., and if the author of it is not already president of the club he'll get there before long.

Africa's Age of Stone. Many travelers have failed to discover any stone implements in Africa, and in view of the comparative rarity of these finds it seems probable that the use of these manufactures was never so prevalent among the ancient inhabitants of Africa as among the prehistoric races of Europe and America.

Quite too Enthusiastic. Wife—What do you think of the new girl, John? Husband—Was that her that just let me in?

A Devoted Relative. The worthy Guibollard has just lost his mother-in-law. He had the following touching inscription engraved on her tombstone:

Secretary Whitney's New Estate. An interesting story may be told of how the Secretary managed to win over the former proprietor of the estate (Grasslands) the tenacity of the old-time Maryland or Virginia planter for his paternal estate is proverbial.
