Market-Street,

An Essay on Slavery,

Designed to exhibit in a new point of view its effects on morals, industry, and the peace of society. Some facts and calculations are offered to prove the labor of freemen to be much more productive than that of slaves; that countries are rich, powerful and happy, in proportion as the laboring people enjoy the fruits of their own labor; and hence the necessary conclusion, that slavery is impolitic as well as unjust.

IT is with pleasure that the publisher has to inform his subscribers and the public in general, that the plate is now under the hands of the engraver, and in greater forwardness than was at first contemplated. At the same time he begs leave to remind them, that subscription papers are still open at most of the noted book-shops in the city; and that he hopes from the whole of them to be enabled to form such a respectable catalogue of names, as will do a credit to the work, as well as afford a reasonable encouragement to the undertaker.

JOHN ORMROD,

At Franklin's Head, No. 41, Second

AN ESSAY ON THE

Natural Equality of Men,

On the Rights that result from it, and on the Duties which it imposes.

To which a MEDAL was adjudged, by the Teylerian Society at Haarlem.

Corrected and Enlarged.

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE BROWN,
D. D.

Professor of Moral Philosophy, and the Law of Nature, and of Ecclesiastical History; and Minister of the English Church at Utrecht.

Aliquid semper ad communem utilitatem af-ferendum. CICERO.

The First American Edition.

THE grand principle of Equality, if rightly understood, is the only basis on which universal justice, sacred order, and perfect freedom, can be firmly built, and permanently secured. The view of it exhibited in this essay, at the same time that it represses the insolence of office, the tyranny of pride, and the outrages of oppression; confirms, in the most forcible manner, the necessity of subordination, and the just demands of lawful authority. So far indeed, from loosening the bands of society, that it maintains inviolate, every natural and every civil distinction, draws more closely every social tie, unites in one harmonious and justly proportioned system, and brings men together on the even ground of the inherent rights of human nature, of reciprocal obligation, and of a common relation to the community.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

LONDON, Feb. 21.

The fleet assembled at Spithead, under Lord Howe, amounted to upwards of 100 sail. Sixty of which, were ships of the line. Some French frigates had been cruizing in the Channel, and taken a number of vessels. Nine French East-Indiman, under convoy of two frigates, were arrived at L' Orient.

By the last accounts from Paris, we learn, that the Convention has decreed, "that slavery shall be abolished in all the French islands." This, they say, will be a death blow to Pitt.

On the 4th inst. the National Convention decreed, that the colony of St. Domingo should be represented in the assembly. On that day three deputies came to take their seats, viz. a negro, a mulatto, and a white.
They were greatly applauded and received the fraternal embrace of Vadier the President.
This scene was accompanied by the reiterated cries vive l'egalite! The negroes of St.
Domingo have sworn to extirpate the English from that Island. On the 8th several people of colour acknowledged their gratitude to the Convention for having given liberty to their brethren.

March 4.

In the opinion of a certain learned writer, the present French government is likely to end in a military Republic, of which Paris is to be the center, with the other departments of the kingdom as its circumference, and under its controul.— In that case, adds he, let Europe tremble; depopulation and diminution of internal resource will then rather stimulate than impede conquest, as they did in ancient Rome, which conquered the world during the most rapid decline of the population and of the resources of Italy.

March 8.

It has been said, that the state of France is industriously misrepresented on this side the water, to answer a purpose, & that only in Paris a temporary inconvenience prevails, on account of butcher's meat, while the departments labor under no such inconvenience; now on the authority of the Paris Papers, it is said that the distress appears to be every where much the same. We should but tire the patience of our readers, in translating the numerous complaints on this head, which pour out into the capital daily.

In every part of the country, the Clubs are engaged solely in devising means to remedy the evil.

HOUSE OF LORDS.

February 14.

Lord Moira's Expedition.

The Earl of Moira, rose to take notice of some observations that had been thrown out by an honorable gentleman, Major Maitland, in another house, on the expedition which he had the honor to command. His Lordship explained at some length, the general outlines of the expedition, the views of his Majesty's Ministers, and the communications which had taken place with the Royalists on the subject.
He had been sent for, he said by his Majesty's Ministers, on the 17th of October, and informed by them, of the success with which it was intended the Roy-alists should be furnished. He did not hesitate to undertake the expedition proposed, nor that responsibility which he confidered as attached to it. The Royalists had demanded a certain force, to co-operate with them, and his Majesty's Ministers had appointed a much greater force than they had requested; It only remained that a junction should be fixed: and before that could be effected, some signals were agreed upon, and some frigates sent to repeat those signals; but they were not answered by the Royalists. On the 10th of November, some persons were sent to concert measures with them, and a different spot for landing was fixed upon.
The Royalists had required artillery men, as they had scarce any one who understood the use of cannon. His Lordship had represented to his Majesty's Min-
