An Essay on Slavery,

Designed to exhibit in a new point of view its effects on morals, industry, and the peace of society. Some facts and calculations are offered to prove the labor of freemen to be much more productive than that of slaves; that countries are rich, powerful and happy, in proportion as the laboring people enjoy the fruits of their own labor; and hence the necessary conclusion, that slavery is impolitic as well as unjust.

Guthrie's Geography improved.

THE subscription for this work on the original terms, of twelve dollars and the binding, will be closed this day—and on Monday the subscription will open at fourteen dollars, exclusive of the price of binding.

The new maps added to this edition are twenty one; among which are those of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode-Island, Vermont, New York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, North Carolina, the emerging Government, South Carolina, and Georgia. These maps have never been given in any former system of Geography, and it is hoped, would alone be sufficient to entitle this work to a preference to any other edition of Guthrie.

N. B. The map of the United States, which is compiling by Mr. Samuel Lewis, from the respective state maps, will be far more complete than any one yet published, and be printed on two large sheets of paper, nearly the size of the late Mr. Murray's map.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Sitting of March 25.

Several of the popular Societies, committees of Surveillance, Municipalities, Departments, Districts, armed associations, &c. applauded at the bar, the high character the convention had just displayed, by crushing the most horrid of conspiracies.
These compliments were accompanied by civic gifts, as well as felicitations on the labors of the National Representatives, and invitations that they should remain at their post.

4 Germinal, March 24.

The Convention approved of the following proclamation to the people.

"AT the moment when the nation is rising by victories to its destined glory; At the moment it is preparing for new conflicts against the tyrants of Europe, their vile agents, disguised in the midst of you, were on the point of assassinating and precipitating the people into slavery.

"The plan of a bloody counter-revolution was prepared; the national representation was on the point of disappearing under the steel of assassins; the blood of patriots was to be shed by the fury of conspirators; the Republican government was to be annihilated, to substitute tyranny in its place; the armies were to be delivered up to the uncertainty of events, or to the peridy of some chiefs; and, as soon as tyranny should be established within, the foreign armies were to have consummated the enterprize.

"The horrible conspiracy, profound with regard to the means employed, and immense in its ramifications, was conceived at a foreign court, and organized within our bosom. The success of this conspiracy was confined to the common enemies of the revolution, to the criminals in our prisons, and to hypocrites, who deceived the people by pretended patriotism. In one day, in a few hours, at a signal given, all the counter-revolutionists were to be re-united, all the villains armed, all the prisons opened, all the assassins unshackled, and the Convention was to be on a sudden surrounded with ruins, with the dead bodies and blood of Patriots.

"In vain had our efforts sustained the revolutionary government. On one side, a fatal inertness was impressed on its operation; on the other, counter-revolutionary measures prevailed. For some days, the theatres, and public places had been filled with Aristocrats, and the streets with conspirators. The women insulted the public misery by a mad and foolish luxury; and the ferocity of the egotists raided a famine within, while the stipendaries prepared it without. The winds from all quarters blew the storm against the National Representation and the Patriot; while calumny and treason inundated the Departments and the armies with false news. In one, news was published that the enemy was within six leagues of Paris; in another it was asserted, that the design was formed to mount the white cockade; and, in the more distant departments, it was said, that Paris was surrounded by foreign troops. At Paris it was insinuated, that La Vendee was in full force, and the apprehensions of the people received a every instant impressions fatal to liberty.

CONGRESS.

IN SENATE,

Wednesday, March 21st, 1794.

Mr. Vining reported from the commitee on enrolled bills, that they had examined the bill, entitled, "An act prohibiting for a limited time, the exportation of arms and ammunition, and encouraging the importation of the same," and that it was duly enrolled.
