

M. FENNO,

A scurrilous writer in your Gazette of Tuesday evening last, under the signature of Phocion, asserts as follows.

"We are informed by the Newspapers that Randolph has been to visit Mr. Jefferson, and has announced his determination to serve if elected President; he has not yet announced his own determination to return to his former Secretaryship, if his friend should be President; but his activity in canvassing for him, leaves no room for doubt as to his wishes and expectations: it is apprehended, however, by some of the friends of both these characters, that a late legal call on one of them, for the immediate settlement of some old accounts and balances, will prove highly injurious to both."

The balance of Phocion's insinuation, Mr. Fenno, as contained in the above paragraph, will be best exposed by publishing Mr. Jefferson's settlement of his public accounts as Secretary of State, made at the Treasury of the United States, the 30th of December, 1793, being the day before he retired from the public service; for which purpose I send you an authentic copy of that settlement, certified by Mr. Moulle, Register of the Treasury, shewing that the balance of 4786 dollars, 67 cents, then stated to be due from Mr. Jefferson, was on the said 30th of December 1793, paid into the Bank of the United States by Mr. Jefferson, and passed to the credit of the Department of State with the bank.

A SUBSCRIBER.

No. 47.6.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Auditor's office, Dec. 28, 1793.

I have examined and adjusted an account between the United States and Thomas Jefferson Secretary of State, for monies placed in his hands by direction of the President of the United States in pursuance of the several acts of Congress providing the means of intercourse between the United States and foreign nations, and find that he is chargeable on said account,

To amount of sundry warrants drawn in his favor for the purposes above-mentioned, from the 14th August 1790, to the 1st August 1793, as per statement Dollars 183,000

I also find that he is entitled to the following credits, viz. By David Humphreys for this amount advanced him on his mission to Madrid, as per statement 600

By Governor Morris in part for his services, per do. statement 1,000

By John B. Cutting for this amount remitted him, for which he is accountable, per do. 332 33

By W. and J. Willink, M. and J. Van Staphorst and Hubbard, agents for the department of state at Amsterdam, for this amount remitted them as particularized in the statement 174 68 1/2

By Nathaniel Cutting advanced him on account of his mission to Algiers, per statement 1,300

By James Blake advanced him on account of his mission to Madrid, per statement 800

Leaving a balance due from the said Thomas Jefferson, Esq. and for which he is accountable, being to the credit of the department of state, in the bank of the United States, the sum of 4786 67

Dollars 183,000

As will appear from the statement and vouchers herewith transmitted for the decision of the comptroller of the treasury thereon.

R. HARRISON, Auditor.

Register of the Treasury.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Register's office, Jan. 11th, 1794.

Upon a final adjustment of the account of Thomas Jefferson, Esquire (late Secretary of State) as agent for defraying foreign expenditures, by the accounting officers of the treasury of the United States, dated the 18th December 1793, a balance of four thousand seven hundred and eighty-six dollars, sixty-seven cents was found due by him, which balance having been paid to his successor Edmund Randolph, Esquire, I do hereby certify that the said account has been finally closed on the books of the treasury of the United States.

Philadelphia, October 31.

From a London Paper of September 19.

It is rather strange that Buonaparte should not have taken the trouble to inform the Directory of so important and signal a victory as that announced in Garrau's letter; nor is it less singular, that neither the General of Division who acquainted Garrau with those brilliant exploits, nor the place should have been named, from whence he gave this momentous information.

ELECTIONEERING FALSEHOOD.

In a handbill published this morning, signed John Barker, chairman, there is this assertion, that Mr. Adams "avowed, that the government ought to have the authority of changing the constitution." This is founded on an extract said to be taken from an answer to Paine's Rights of Man, under the signature of Publicola, published two or three years ago in the newspapers. It is the truth, that Mr. Adams neither wrote nor dictated a sentence of the publication under the signature of Publicola; nor did he ever see it until it was in print.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The canals and locks on the Connecticut advance rapidly, and great quantities of produce are daily floating in them.

Blodget's canal, so called, at Amoskeag falls, in the state of New-Hampshire, opens the 18th inst. which is, as we hear, the day that Essex canal, at Patucket falls, opens. Blodget's canal was so near being completed thirty days ago, that fifty tons of timber passed through it. This great and arduous piece of work, cutting through large rocks, making dams and locks of near a mile in length, gradually sinking fifty feet, has been performed in two years and a half, under the direction and at the expense of Samuel Blodget, Esq. of Haverhill, who is the sole proprietor thereof.

The aqueduct in our vicinity is prosecuting with vigour.

BY THIS DAY'S MAIL.

NEW-YORK, October 29.

Extract of a letter from a respectable house in Amsterdam, to their correspondents in this city, dated September 19, 1796.

The news of the day is, that the KING of PRUSSIA had declared WAR against the EMPEROR of GERMANY—that his troops are marching—and that likely the ports of Hamburg and Embden will be shut against British vessels, to oblige that court to enter into terms of PEACE.—How far the news is certain, we cannot say—but we are certainly on the eve of a new scene. Peace does not take place soon, War is likely to rage with redoubled animosity.

From the Morning Chronicle.

LONDON, September 19.

A Courier from Paris has been expected since Friday last at the house of Count Wedel Yarlberg, the Danish Minister, who, as we have already stated, has sent to the executive directory for a passport for an English Envoy to go to Paris. The Courier was not returned at 10 o'clock last night, nor has any passport been received. It is necessary to give the public this information.

It is very generally believed that a treaty has been lately entered into between France and Prussia, in which the port of Hamburg is ceded to his majesty.

There is some mention made in private letters from Hamburg, of the King of Prussia and the Empress of Russia, not being on the best footing.

BOSTON, October 20.

IMPORTANT.

Extract of a letter from a respectable mercantile house in Cadiz, to a correspondent here, August 20.

"The country grain has already got up from 50 R. to 64 a 66 per faneg, and as the winter approaches must go much higher; we have not therefore a doubt, but good American wheat, particularly the white sort, will readily sell for R. 60 per faneg, or upwards, during the winter: and what contributes eventually to an advance on that article, is, the very few supplies that can be expected from Barbary, owing to the diffentions in that country, and all foreign navigation being prohibited to most of those ports. Five fanegs are equal to 8 bushels, and 20 R make one Mexican dollar of your currency. We have had lately some importations of flour from England and France, which sold at sundry prices, from 17 to 20 dollars per bbl. of Spain, on board. During the present troubles, as besides the embarrassments of the court of Barbary, already alluded to, our supplies from Sicily will be totally intercepted by the English fleet in the Mediterranean, who detain all vessels going to or failing from the ports of Italy, since they have got into the possession of the French. Some small parcels of rice, lately imported here, have sold at 3 dls. per quintal, on board; but this price we consider too high to be supported, unless we should again be unfortunately involved in a war with England, of which there are actually very strong apprehensions; such an event would at once cause an advance on all your products here, and in none more than in fish. The actual price of Raves is 140 to 1200 on board, and bees wax, at 72 per quint. beef and pork would answer here, in case of a war with England."
