The Adventures of Telemachus.

French and English, 2 vols. 12mo.

A MONG the books which daily fall into the hands of the youth of both fexes, none have a higher claim to their attention than Telemachus. The most interesting lessons are here conveyed in the vehicle of an interesting Pocm. replete with the finest touches of the true pathetic, and embelished with all the graces of a beautiful style. The fatal effects of indulging the passions are exemplished in the most striking manner; and the happiness attending innocence and virtue painted in the liveliest colours. Whatever can incite to virtue or deter from vice; whatever can enlighten the understanding, charm the imagination, and improve the heart, is to be found in this interesting work. heart, is to be found in this interesting work.

TOR carrying into effect the fixth article of the treaty of amity, commerce and navigation, concluded between his Britannic majefry and the United States of America, on the 19th day of November, 1794, having this day conftituted their Board, pursuant and agreeably to the faid treaty, do hereby give notice, that they are ready to proceed to business accordingly; and they defire that all claims under the faid article (which so far as the same deficites the cases thereby provided for, is hereunto annexed) may be lodged with their Secretary without delay.

out delay.

They further defire that all fuch claims may not only state in what manner the several cases come within the description of the said article, but also specially set forth the nature of the evidence by which the claimants respectively undertake to substantiate the same which the claimants respectively undertake to substantiate the same

Extract from the said article,

"Whereas it is alledged by divers British merchants, and others his majesty's subjects, that debts to a considerable amount, which were bona in side, contracted, before the peace, still remain owing to them by citizens or inhabitants of the United States; and that by the operation of various lawful impediments, since the peace, not only the full recovery of the said debts has been delayed, but allo the value and security thereof have been in several instances impaired and less that by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, the British creditors cannot now obtain and actually have and receive sull and adequate compensation for the losses and damages which they have thereby sustained: It is a greed that in all such eases where sull compensation for such losses and damages cannot for whatever reason be actually obtained, had and received by the said creditors in the ordinary course of justice, the United States will make full and complete compensation for the same to the said creditors; but it is distinctly understood, that this provision is to extend to such losses occasioned by such insolvency of the debtors or other causes, as would equally have operated to produce such loss, if the said impediments had not existed; nor to such offes or damages as have been occasioned by the manifest delay, or neglingence, or wilful omission of the claimant."

By order of the Board, CRIFFITH EVANS,

Secretary.

Philadelphia, Commissioners' Ossice,

Philadeiphia, Commissioners' Office, No. 3 fouth Sixth-street, May 29, 1797. J. 6—51m

THE SUBSCRIBER having been appointed by the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Pleni potentiary of his Britannic Majesty, General Agen for assisting British creditors, and such particular a gents as they may specially authorize, in prosecution their claims before the commissioners for carrying in gents as they may specially authorize, in prosecuting their claims before the commissioners for carrying incoeffect the fixth article of the Treaty of Amity, Commerce and Navigation between his Britannic Regesty and the United States of Amirica, hereby gives notice that he has opened his office at his house the fouth east corner of Chesuat and fifth streets, Philadelphia, where he is ready to receive all claims or instructions for claims with the vonchers and documents thereof, for the purpose of bringing forward the same agreeably so the rules and orders which the board may think proper to prescribe.

And as it will be for the instress of all concerned, that the several claims be so stated, and supported, as so prevent the delay which would arise from the necessity of obtaining surther information, or additional materials, from persons residing at a diffunce, the general agent thinks it his duty to add, so the direction chiesly of those, who, not having employed particular agents, may leave the prosecution of their claims to his charge and management) that all such claims ought in particular to set forth—

1st. The proper description and situation of the creditor or claimant, and original debtor, respectively.

2d. The date or nature of the original contract or

2d. The date or nature of the original contract or

gd. When, in what manner, and to what extent, he creditor or claimant was prevented or impeded, by the provision, operation or defect of law, the lections and practice of courts, or reftraint of execution, from recovering payment of the debt in cution, from recovering payment of the debt in queftion,

4th. The lofs and damage incurred or fuftained, in confequence of fuch impediments, whether the fame may have arisen from the infolveney, change of futation, or death of the debtor, the lofs of legal remedy from lapse of time, or othercauses impairing the value and security of the debt, which would not have so operated is such impediments had not existed. And 5th. The particular grounds and reasons on which the claimant maintains, in the terms of the treaty, that "by the ordinary course of judicial proings, the creditor cannot now obtain and actually have and receive full and adequate compensation" for the losses and damages so sufficiently further to suggest that the several claims ought to be accompanied and supported by the affidavits of the claimants duly sworn and regularly attested, both as to the existence of the debts claimed, and such other circumstances as may be within their own knowledge respectively. And wherever the claimants in stating the nature of their evidence (which must in every instance be the best of which the case is capable) have occasion to refer to the testimony of wintesses, it will be proper to apprife the general agent of the names and places of residence of such wintesses and the facts to be established by their testimony.
