English Grammar,

The fecond edition, with improvements, A DAPTED to the different classes of learners; with an appendix, containing rules and observations for affishing the thore advanced fludents o write with perspicuity and accuracy.

By LINDLEY MURRAY. "This is a publication of much merit, and fully answers the professions in the Title. The appendix contains some of the best rules for writing e egantly, and with propriety, that we recoiled to Monthly Review, July 1796.

"This Grammar is, on many accounts entitled to commendatory notice, its materials have been carefully and judiciously felected; its arrangement is distinct and well adapted to the purpose of infruction and its expression is simple, perspicuous and accurate, &c."

See the character at large in the Analytical Review, July 1796.

English Exercises,

Adapted to the Grammar lately published by Lindley Murray, confisting of exemplification of the parts of speech, instances of falso orthography, violations of the rules of syntax, defects in punctuation, and violations of the rules respecting perspicuity and accuracy, designed for the benefit of private learners, as well as for theuse of schools. "Wo have been much pleased with the perusal of these Exercises. They occupy with dishinguished excellence a most important place in the science of the English language; and as such, we can warmly recommend them to the Teachers of Schools, as well as to all those who are desirous of attaining correctness and precision in their native tongue."

ALEXANDER HAMILTON, Late SECRETARY of the TREASURY, is FULLY REFUTED.

REFUTED.

WRITTEN BY HIMSELF.

This publication prefents a concife flatement of the base means practifed by the Jacobins of the United States to asperso the characters of those persons who are considered as hostile to their disorganizing schemes. It also contains the correspondence between Mr. Hamilton and Messes. Monroe, Muhlenburgh and Venable, on the subject of the documents alorefaid, and a series of letters from James Reynolds and his wife to Mr. Hamilton, proving beyond the possibility of a doubt, that the connection between him and Reynolds was the result of a daring conspiracy on the part of the latter and his associates to extort money.

With convenient stores, wharf, &c. situate on Water-freet, between Mulberry and Sassafars freets, containing in front on Water street streets, between Mulberry and Sassafars freets, New-Theatre,

December 11, 1797.

THE MANAGERS particularly request the concurrence of the public in the abolition of a custom, which has hitherto obtained, of giving away or disposing of RETURN CHECKS at the Theatre.

They are aware that gentlemen are unconfeious of any wrong done to the interest of the infitution by this practice, from a general, though miftaken idea that Checks are the raprefentatives of a right to so many seats in the Theatre, during an Evening's Entertainment, and transferable at will; when in fact, they were never intended as more than tolens by which the Door-keepers are enabled to ascertain with the least trouble to the parties, that they themselves have been before in the Pheatre, or paid for their admission.

Independent of the injury the Managers sustain, such a practice encourages a creud of idle hoys and other disorderly persons to surround the doors of the Theatre, to the corruption of their morals and the great annoyance of the Audience.

It has also been the source of two cvils of no inconsiderable magnitude; one is, that sometimes very improper company is by these means admitted; and the other, that owing to Checks passing into dishonest hands, they have been frequently counterscited to a large amount for the purposes of Sale.

This statement will, it is respectfully hoped incoming the statement will, it is respectfully hoped.

This flatement will, it is respectfully hoped, in-duce the Public to discourage such a traffic: and the exertions of the Managers will, if thus affished, eafily prove adequate to its entire abolition.
