turb their proceedings ought to be punified. This he allowed, but he would punifi them in a lefs degree. Mr. G. referred to the cafe which has already been mentioned of a challenge fent by a member of the Senate to a member of that house. That butiness he faid was referred to a committee, but the parties having written letters of apology, exactly in the tenor with that of Mr. Lyon, they were deemed fufficient, yet the letter of Mr. Lyon is spoken of as aggravating his crime. Mr. G. did not think that a vote of cenfure and a reprimand by the Speaker was a flight punifhment. It was faid no act of offeuce had ever been committed like this nor did he think any punimment had ever been inflicted by this government fo fevere as a vote of ceasure by the house. Because the member from Vermont had not received fo polite an education as other gentlemen, it was fuppofed this punishment would not greatly affect him ; but he fuppofed he was not wholly dead to every kind of feeling, and unlefs he was composed of different

He mould, therefore vote for the amendment Mr. G. added that what Mr. Lyon had faid refpecting the reprefentatives of Con-necticut was spoken of as if it made part of the charge against him ; as this was not the ease, he thought any observations on that head would be better omitted. Mr. DANA condemned the wifh that had been expressed for passing a filent vote upon this fubject, and particularly the conduct of the gentleman from Maryland (Mr. 8. Smith) for having expressed fuch a with. He faid it appeared as if gentlemen had determined to vote against the expulsion of the member from Vermont, and were afraid of hearing any thing which might convince them they had done wrong in fo determining ; or were the gendeman from Virginia, and others, who were fo ready to fpeak to the public on other occasions, afraid to do fo on this, from a conviction of the weakness of their cause? Mr. Dana took notice of the cases stated by the gentleman from Pennfylvania, to whole manners he paid a compliment at to whole manners he paid a computer the ne-the expence of his logis. and negatived, 52 to 44. Mr. Mora is was forry to detain the Committee one moment; builtron his peculiar fruation, he con-ceived it proper to expirit the motives of his conduct. As the colleague of the member from Vermont, it might be expected from the community of interests between the two diffrids they represented, that he frond different for they represented, that he hould endcavor to support that member. But, hr, I have attended with much pain and pattence to the in-vestigation this subject has undergone, and, fir, not a doubt remains on my mind that the member from could remain on my mind that the member from Vermont has been guilty of großs indecency and infuit to this houle. I have not a doubt, fir, that the pow-ers veffed in the Houle of Reprefeatatives by the Con-Riturion are amply fufficient to punifh fuch indecency and fuch infuit; and that the refolution now on the table preferibes the only punifment commenfurate with the effence.

with the effence. It becomes me, Sir, to make this public declarati-on of my tentiments, as a duty which I owe to this Houle—a du y I owe my conflictents—the conflict-ents of the effecting member and mytelf. For I am-perfuaded, fir, that the citizens of Vermont would re-feat any conduct of their Reprefentative to derogatory to the honor and dignity of Congress, and their own character.

The member from Vermont has violated the char-after and confidence veried in him by his conflituents; and the resolution ought to pafe-that they may ex-prefecther dilapprobation of his conduct, by returnng another perion to fail that icat. From these con-iderations, he fhould give the resolution his-support The queftion on the refolution was put and carried, 51 to 43, The committee then role, and reported the amondment to the refolution, together with the evidence which had been taken before them. The houfe took up the amendment (relative to the offenfive words in the defence) and agreed to it, 49 to 46. Mr. R. WILLIAMS then renewed his anendment, for confining the punifhment to eprimand.

. Mr. BROOKS hoped if the houfe did not agree to the highest punishment, they would not agree to the lowest which they could inflict. He did not fuppole the member from Vermont would look upon this as a punishment; and if no other was to be orlered, the house would get vid of his ofences.

Mr. MACON faid it was observable there were two opinions in the house ; one for expulsion, the other for a reprimand. He did not think the offence was fuch as would authorife an expulsion. He faid there had been as many illiberal expressions in the course of this dehate as he had ever heard. Gentlemen had talked of party doing this, and party doing the other, whill they them-felves are the first to mention it. He hoped they would have kept thefe things out of the fight of the world. If gentlemen of one description voted one way ; those of another, voted a contrary way. As for the punishment of being reprimanded in the face of the house, which would be entered onthe journals, hethought it a very ferious one, and he would almost as foon be hanged at once. He hoped, therefore, the punith-ment would be thought at least equal to this fulbject ; if he had wished to do to they after rules respecting motions for adjournwould not have been able to have kept him ment, provided that no motion for adjournment shall be received, except by unanimous confent, whilft any other mouion is pend-

The bill from the Senate for fale of land between the Great and Little Miami in the territory north welt of the Ohio, was also connected with the fubject, to prefent a pe-tition from a number of perfons fettled near the mouth of the Kentucky river, who wifhed to purchase the fame, which would be proper to be referred to the fame committee. He wished also to move an inftruction to the committee, to enquire what progress has been made in carrying the act into effect for the fale of land north welt of the river Ohio, and whether any amendments are neceffary in the faid act, particularly as to the price of the land. Mr. N. believed there was little probability of the land felling at the price which had been fixed, and perfons who might become purchafers, if the price was reasonable, were now moving f to the Spanish Territory. He thought It would be well to prevent this, and there-fore moved this inftraction.-It was agreed

Mr. Sitgreaves moved the order of the day on the report of a select committee on the memorial of the people called quakers; which motion being agreed to, the house went into a committee of the whole on the fubject, Mr. Dent in the chair. The re-port having been read,

Mr. Thatcher could not fay that he was perfectly fatisfied with the report of the committee in all its parts. He wished the business disposed of, without coming to 2ny decifive resolution upon it, fo as either to approve or difapprove of it. He was not ready to fay that the facts difclofed in that memorial were exclusively of judicial cognizance, and that the legislature of the Union was incompetent to do any thing in it. It might, however be true, but it was not clear to him. He would rather that the fubject Thould not now be acted upon ; he would, therefore, propofe an amendment to the report, which might conclude the bufinefs, without coming to any refolution upon it, which had been the courfe heretofore taken with fimilar applications. He moved, therefore, to ftrike out the refolution giving the petitioners leave to withdraw their petition; and if his motion was agreed to, he fhould wift the committee to rife, and that the house would not act further upon it at prefent.

Mr. Rutledge faid, he, as well as the gentleman from Maffachufetts, was diffatisfied with the report of the felect committee. He thought the report of the felect commuter. He thought the report ought to have fkat-ed that the peace of certain flates in the U-nion had been much diffurbed by applica-tions of this kind. He had prepared a re-folution to this effect, which he would read in his place: It was as follows: "Refolved, that part of the memorial of the people called Quakers, has a tendency to dif-turb the tranquility of fome of the flates of the Union; that this bouje is not competent to all upon, and therefore they have leave to with-draw their memorial." There could be little difference of opin ion on the affertion that the internal tranquility of feveral ftates had been diffurbed by these applications ; and he believed there would be no difficulty in obtaining a major-ity of the houfe to declare it; as if the representatives of three or four flates were to rife and declare the fact it must have fufficient weight to carry a declaration of this kind. He had, however, mentioned the matter to fome of his friends, and found it was not very agreeable to them, as they wished to get rid of the bufines without debate. But if the present motion were to obtain he should afterwards bring forward this resolution. [The Chairman declared the motion of the gentleman from Maffachufetts to be out of order.]

The committee role, the house agreed to the amendment, and the bill was ordered to be engroffed for a third reading.

On motion of Mr. Gregg, the house went into a committee of the whole on the report of the committee of claims on the fubject of making provision for the widows and orphan children of the officers of the army of the United States, who were killed in an action with the Indians, in the territory north-weft of the Ohio, on the 4th of November, 1791. The report was favorable.

Mr. Davis moved to amend the report, by adding Militia Officers. He thought it was only reasonable, that an allowance should be made to the widows and orphans of militia officers, as well as to those of the officers of the army. The Kentucky militia were out on that expedition, and feveral officers were killed.

Mr. D. Fofter proposed to make the pro-ifion general, and to go back to the 4th of March 1789.

Some objections were urged to thisamendment, as it was apprehended, from its com-prehenfivenels, it might endanger the pal-fage of the bill, as the Senate had rejected a former bill of this kind. The committee rofe, without coming to any decision, and Adjourned. had leave to fit again.

ceffity of preferving decency and dignity of manners in all public bodies. The member from Vermont, he faid, had been very free in his remarks upon Connecticut ; but to have merited the hatred of the gentleman from Vermont, was by no means difgraceful. He should wrong the state of his nativity, he fhould wrong his colleagues and himfelf, were he to undertake a formal refutation of this calumny. The citizens of Connecticut will difdain the idea of being enlightened by that member's knowledge, or of being revolutionized by his power, as they will repel with indignation any imputation against their reprefentatives in Congress-reprefen-tatives who were born and educated amongst them, and whom, in confequence of their good opinion of them, they have appoint-ed by their unfolicited fuffrages, to do their national businefs. Hadthe affertion no other currency than the member from Vermont's word, he should not have noticed it; but as it appeared upon the journals, and had gone out to the world, he thought it neceffary to fay what he had faid on this fubject. But for these calumnies, it was probable, he faid that the outrage on Mr. Grifwold would not have been committed? but what could be a more ferious charge against another, thanto be told "youhave betrayed your trust?" This was what gave all the keennels to the epithet of coward, when applied to an offi-cer. Mr. D. faid he did not mean to call any blame upon geutlemen who differed from him in opinion; nor would he envy a-ny gentlemeu the pleafure they would have in the company of the gentleman from Ver-mont; if they chufe to affociate with fuch a Kennell of Filth, let them do fo; let them orefs him to their heart, and falute him as heir brother-they may do it without envy. Let them be defignated as the companions of Mr. Lyon, by being pointed at, by "There goes the member of Congress, who voted to have Matthew Lyon as a companion!" If they felt themselves invulnerable to fuch a reproach, he acknowledged he had not attained to their degree of infenfibility. He himfelf would put him away, as citizens re-moved impurities and fills from their docks and wharves.

Mr. S. Smith thought, as he had determined to fay nothing upon this fubject, that he fhould not have received the cenfure of any one. He had converfed with feveral gentlemen on both fides the queltion, and he thought, in order to avoid a lengthy dif-cuffion, which could have no effect but proluce heat, it would be beft to take a filent vote on the queftion." WEDNESDAY-FEBRUARY 14.

Mr. Otis, from the committee to whom was referred that part of the speech of the Prefident of the United States, which relates to the re-imburfement of certain advances made by Confuls in foreign countries, made a report, flating that it was fuppofed 30,000 dollars would be fufficient for this object; and recommended the adoption of a refolution for effecting the measure, which was committed for Friday. Mr. Harper, from the committee of ways and means, who had been influeted to enquire whether any and what alterations are neceffary in the law refpecting the entry of Stills, was directed to make a report on the subject. The report was accompanied by a bill making an alteration in the manner of making the entry of Stills, by doing away the annual entry after the first of July next, and requiring that after a Still has been once entered, it shall be again entered only in cafe of removal. - This report and bill were comnitted for Monday.

The fame gentleman, from the fame comnittee, to whom it had been referred to enquire whether any and what alterations are neceffary in the act laying a duty on ftamped ellum, parchment and paper, was directed to make a further report, recommending that a deduction of 7½ per cent. should be allowed to all purchases of stamps (except collectors of revenue) above the value of wenty dollars, and that a certain deduction hould be retained by the collectors of the impost duty, from drawbacks on goods ex-ported, instead of the stamp duty proposed to be laid, which it was stated would fall very unequally, according to the fcale propo-fed in the law. A bill was reported at the fame time making thefe alterations in the law.—The report and bill were committed for Monday.

Referred to the committee to whom hasbeen referred a refolution on this fubleet.

Mr. D. Foster from the committee of claims to whom was re-committed the report on the petition of Henry Hill, made a long report on this fubject, which was commit-ted for Monday.

The bill making appropriations for the fupport of Government for the year 1798, and for other purpoles, was read the third time and paffed.

Mr. Harper propoled to add the follow-ing regulation to the Standing Rules and Orders of the Houle, viz.

The queftion on the refolution as report ed was put and carried, there being 74 votes in the affirmative. The committee then role, and the house concurred in the report. On motion of Mr. Gregg, the unfinish-ed bufiness of yesterday (the bill for the re-lief of O. Pollock) was postponed till Mon-

Mr. Coit called for the reading of the petition of Anna Welfh; which having been read, he proposed the following resolution for adoption :

" Refolved on the petition of AnnaWelfh that a committee be appointed to bring in a bill for allowing the legal reprefentatives of George Hurlburt, deceased, late a captain in the fervice of the United States, the commutation of half pay which was due to him."

After a few obfervations, this motion was negatived, 50 to 31, the question having been decided in an abstract manner, when the bulinefs was before the houfe fome time ago, and the period of war was at-tempted to be fixed earlier than it had been heretofore confidered to have been, in order Mr. Sitgreaves prefented the application of John Parker, for printing the Journals of the Old Congress, stating the terms up-on which he meant to undertake the work. Also that the prayer of this petition could alfo that the prayer of this petition could not be granted.

Mr. Livingston called up the report of the committee of commerce and manufac-tures on the petitions of William Dixon, John Bagley, and others, which was con-curred in, fo far as it related to William Dixon and John Bagley.

On motion of Mr. Thatcher, the house went into a committee of the whole on the bill granting the right of franking to the Attorney General.

Mr. Harper moved to amend the bill by adding "and the officer commanding the troops of the United States which was a-

* This appears to be a miflake, as upon enqui-ry is cannot be found that any of the flates did pafs fuch previous laws : It may be prefumed they did not ; to put fuch bills of credit, and upon inter-eft, into circulation, and at the faine time or preeft, into circulation, and at the fame time or pre-vioufly to pafs a law to impair the obligation to pay them, would have been viewed by all men as an aft of perfidy and fraud—Thurefore, it will not be supposed that any of the fates ever passed any such previous acts; or that if such afts had been passed, the United States would be influenced by them, or any other subterfuge, to de-viate from a national engagement. A The proposition of the Secretary was to pro-wide for the principal only.—He seems to have been drawn into this error, by the missinforma-tion respecting the states passed.

MR. FENNO,

I Some time ago observed in your Gaxette an intercepted letter from citizen Monroe at Paris, but to whom directed, I did not learn. I have fome curiofity to know who this Democrat could be that was fo kind as to offer to crofs the ocean, for the express purpose of furnishing Citizens Beck-ley and Bache with intelligence ready cooked and scafoned to their abominable palates, and fent over in fuch form as to be depended on.

From the following circumstantial evidence I conclude that it certainly must be Doctor L---- N from the name of his lady being mentioned in the letter-from the attention citizen Monroe received from him immediately on his arrival. It is well known that the Doctor bragged of the honor he had in the company of citizens Monroe, Jefferson, &c. &c. He however forgot to mention that citizen Bleunt had the bonor
