VIENNA, Jan. 8.

JEW'S turning CHRISTIANS.
It is certain that all the Jews established in the States of the Emperor, have agreed to celebrate their Sabbath in future on Sunday.

BOSTON, April 9.

FROM LISBON.
Capt. Lafayette and Ruffell, arrived at Marblehead on Friday from Lisbon, in 40 days. The verbal intelligence by them is, that the Spanish fleet, of 27 fail of the line, under Don Maffera, had sailed from Cadix, were out three days, and had returned into port. That Lord St. Vincent, with 11 fail of the line, and Sir John Orde, with 6 fail, were at sea, but had not effected a junction; or fallen in with the Spanish armada.

That the report at Lisbon, was that the American Extra Envoys, at Paris, were to leave France, the latter end of February; and that twenty French privateers had been brought into Lisbon, by English and Portuguese vessels, during the time they were at that port.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,
MONDAY EVENING, April 16.

The merchants, underwriters and traders of this city, will meet at the Coffee-house to-morrow, at 12 o'clock, for the purpose of presenting their Address to the President of the United States.

The reports in circulation this day, respecting the receipt of dispatches at the Secretary of State's office, from our Envoys in France, are void of foundation,—no dispatches having been received.

A new edition of Jacobin lies is now running through the Aurora.

Publicity is all the cry with the anti-American-gallic faction; when they suppose or know that disclosure involves a dereliction of all principle—but, publicity which exposes the conduct of their employers in its true colors, is an abomination that their foul breath.

The anti-american-gallic faction have long pursued the same course that the Tories did at the commencement of the American revolution. The Tories represented this country as divided, to do the gallic faction. The Tories had the people considered the interest of Great Britain and that of America, as the same; the gallic faction have gone further, and told the French that the people of the United States would sacrifice their own interest to that of France.

The parallel might be pursued to a great length; but the above are sufficient. Their fate will doubtless be the same with that of their predecessors the Tories.

It is not known that the United States have a press in France devoted to the cause of this country, but that France has presses in the United States devoted to her interest is well known. This is not fair play; the French papers in this country ought to be silent, till we get one at least established in France.

The public are congratulated on the firmness and consistency of the Aurora man. It was feared by some, from the allusions to a Providence in a late number of the Aurora that like his countrymen the French he would assume for a time at least, an appearance of candor and friendship to the United States, in order to wheedle and deceive. From this apprehension we are however fully relieved by his Neslor and Stdney, publications which contain a repetition of the vile falsehoods that have so long abused the public.

M. LYON.

Extract of a letter from Connecticut, dated April 9.

"He wrote to Capt. Chittendon, his uncle by marriage, covering some of BACHE'S PAPERS. The first letter the old gentleman deified and destroyed. Yesterday he received another with its appendances. He immediately enclosed it in a wrapper, with the seals unbroken; and, in the good old fashion of New-England, quoting a very pertinent text of scripture, directed it to 'M. Lyon,' and lodged it in the post-office for Philadelphia. You see how Jacobinism flourishes in Connecticut!"

Extract of a letter from Massachusetts.

"Every man of principle here that used to think of the anti-faction in Congress with some charity now gives them up as scoundrels. It has been pretty generally said, the party wars are not to be much regarded, for if danger should arise, they will unite, and the anti will prove as forward and zealous to support the government and to stand up boldly for the honor of the country as the Federalists. It has ever been so, they have added in England. If Mr. Jefferson were President and his friends in office, they would not dissolve the braces and ties of government, for they love power more ardently, and are higher toned and more used and inclined to dominate than the federal party. But the late most extraordinary conduct of the French faction has blasted them as men and as patriots; and every reflecting man, every man that loves his country and its liberty thinks of them with dread and abhorrence. Their attempt to repeal the stamp act is well understood; and considering the time and the circumstances of the measure, it looks exceedingly as if the party wished to see few whilky poles erected against the laws. The eternal boast of the Virginians that they obey the laws agrees very ill with the obvious tendency and design of that repeal. And now in the name of our dear country, let the Virginians ask themselves, and may kind heaven put it into the hearts of their constituents to ask, why do you oppose government at this time, when firm united counsels are so necessary? Is it vain to say, government is wrong, yet to destroy it and the country by division and untimely opposition is not the duty of any honest man who thinks wrong measures have been pursued.

When the first Congress had independence to gain, such an opposition as the Virginians now make would have left that invaluable blessing. It was then won by union, and is again brought into danger by the encouragement their factious opposition has given the French to invade it.

We are told that the people of Virginia are at least as well disposed as their members, and that they have forces of men at home who will not serve in Congress as respectable as the most respectable of their delegation; a pity they will not come forward and crush the serpent of faction which has stung our peace. If truth should make its way in that state our affairs might be retrieved, our union preserved and foreign foes repelled. That state has already sent some federal and very excellent members, who love America better than France. But however our respected sister Virginia may finally act, rely upon it the northern states are firm and resolved to support the government. In the hour of real danger, our noisy Jacobins would shrink into hiding places. They are few in number, poor in spirit as well as in purse, blanded in private character and held in derision and contempt even by the common people.

The general hope and expectation is that some few anti-members may be found even yet sensible to patriotism, and though it is now the eleventh hour, it is not too late to renounce the principles of the party which they cannot pursue any further without plunging into the wide yawning pit of destruction. The citizens of Virginia too, though a sudden people and open to violent impressions yet they have a bottom of good sense and attachment to the union and constitution. They will surely change their political and their members as soon as the awful hazard to which we are at this moment exposed in consequence of the opposition of their leaders shall be duly examined and considered. If indeed the state of Virginia sighs and pants to be a French colony, if she is weary of independence, and willing to see French commissaries arrive to give the plantations and the white girls to the blacks, if Monroe's project of loans and taxes on Americans to supply the French treasury, should suit better than a stamp act to furnish our own, why then farewell, dear sister Virginia, we have mistaken your character."

HARTFORD, (Conn.) April 9.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Windham, to his friend in this city.

"Tom Paine's superior sagacity lately discovered that the Bible is full of lies—his disciple Quixote, by a like sagacity, more recently discovered that President Adams's Book is full of the principles of Monarchy and Aristocracy—What a pity 'tis our democrats do not better agree with their sweethearts in France!! When republican ideas were at their height in that regenerated country, their best men read this same Book and imbibed its principles with avidity—translated it into French—sketched its whole principles in so introductory piece, that those who frequented the whole, might yet become acquainted with the outlines of so excellent a work—and, finally, pronounced it the best treatise they had found on the subject of genuine republicanism. But as our demofollow the clue of their transatlantic brethren with the utmost fervency in every other respect, who knows but they may soon in this."

HOLT, the New-England Bee, having been hardly pressed about some of his Jacobin tricks lately, by Mr. Springer, has adopted the common way with his clan to exorcise himself, viz: by wearing. He has assumed, which means the same thing as wearing, that he has no connexion with Greenleaf, and does not give away his papers. If Jacobins can get out of scrapes by wearing, they will forever go clear. There is only one defect in that mode of doing the business—Nobody believes them.

JACOBIN MODESTY.

The Jacobins who met in Hartford a week or two since, formed a nomination, which their emulators are feasting all about. I have seen one of them in the hand writing of one of the candidates, in which the first names after Mr. Coit's, which is placed at the head, are Gideon Granger, jun. Alexander Wolcott, Ephraim Kirby, and William Judd. These good men were all in town, on the week when the club met. Perhaps they bluffed, and agreed to fet themselves up. This is as modest as opening other peoples letters.

To the Free-men of Connecticut.

You will this day, have to give in your votes for 18 persons, for a Congress's Nomination. It is a matter of great importance, that you choose such persons, as will not betray your interests. We have seven members already in Congress, men of the best characters and abilities. Great pains are taken, in the first place to make you change them for others. What is the difficulty with them? They are all native citizens, with whom we are acquainted. They are men of the first reputations. They are not demagogues, nor speculators, nor men of desperate fortunes. They are lovers of peace, and have every thing at hazard, in case of a war. Who are the men set up in opposition to them? Look over the nominations which the Jacobin Club that met at Hartford, on the 20th of March made out, and have circulating. Who are set up in them? First, a member of Congress, just to blind your eyes. But look at the next four names. Are they such men as we want? I need not answer. Every one knows them. They are all four LAND SPECULATORS, head and ears deep; and that is enough. Besides, when we reflect on their situations, will you not see, why they are pushing so hard to get into the office, which other men, at least as good as themselves, hold. Withhold your votes from men who take such measures to procure their own election. Put them down to the bottom of the hill where they belong. SOCRATES.
