POPULAR RISING IN BELGIUM

The following is an extrad of a letter from Bruffels, dated Odober 22.
"The political situation of ci-devant Belgium becomes every day more alarming, or account of the execution of the law for rail fing, by confeription, two hundred thousans men. A very lively agitation now manifell itself in all Campine, as far as Louvain where libels are circulated, ending with the conference of the co these words, "Long live the emperor and his allies," and exhorting the people to revolt. Authorities are neither hold enough or willing to proclaim the law, or put it is execution. A great number of them have refigned, to avoid the fate of the agents of the Canton, some of whom had been killed and others wounded. Of the Nationa Guards, too, feveral have loft their lives.
"Whilft things are in this state her they have assumed a much more said complexion in another part of our dements: an infurrection has broken out great violence in the county of Waas, an has extended itself as far as Antwerp. toefin has been founded for three days fue cessively, in the numerous villages scattered over that fertile courtry, and hear 4000 men have affembled in arms, with for pieces of artillety, and commanded they fay, by experienced chiefs. Several sharp encounters have taken place between them and the French troops from the neighboring garrifons, the event of which is not yet fagarritons, the event of which is not yet fa-tisfactorily known. The following is the account given by general Beguinot to the central admini ration of our department, in a d spatch yesterday published at the Deca-dary Temple: "I haiten to annotince to you the entire defeat of the rebels in the department of the Scheldt. Their number, ahough very confiderable could not with-ftand the republicans who marched against them, although not more than one tenth.

In the different encounters they had about 300 killed; and fearch is now making for those who escaped.

This insurrection, for which the conscrip-

This infurrection, for which the conferip-tion has been the pretext, is part of a very widely extended plot. For fome time inflam-matory placards have been differentiated eve-ry where. The attack of an important post on the Scheldt, is a proof of its existence. It has been ascertained, that the English thought to prosit by these revolts on the coasts, to effect a descent, but all attempts have proved abortive, and will be always have proved abortive, and will be always guarded against. We have had some brave defenders wounded, but none killed." We do not yet know the important post on the Scheldt alluded to; but it seems the fogitives have thrown themselves into the woods and that a great many manufacturers from Antwerp are gone to increase their number. We have remarked also, of lare, that several light English vessels, and the detached from the divifight English vehels, detached from the divi-fion cruifing at the entrance of the Scheldt have entered that river, which may have fupplied the infurgence with arms. We ex-pact here a detachment of troops from the anks of the Rhine." Gen. Beginnot iffued at Mecklin the fol-lowing proclamation: "Citizens, the facred tree of liberty has been cut down, the trico ored standard has been torn, the prife have been opened, the afylugaf the law has been violated, and the public acts and registers have been burned; Republicans have been murdered, and the dreadful scenes have heen acted under your eyes. Yet they who have thus trampled under foot the laws of the French Republic, are inhabitants of Belguim. Whatever may be their ill ju ed project, and whoever may be their atful agents, I hereby declare the city of Malines in a state of siege, in order to prevent the progress of this horrid insurrection, and to protect the peaceable inhabitants against violence and appression.

Also invite all good citizens to remain in their houses after the tattoo has been beaten, at least not to go without a lanthron.'
