PROPOSALS,

Insurance Company of North America.
For Insurance against Fire, on Dwelling-Houses, Ware-Houses, and other Buildings (and on Goods contained in such Buildings) distant from Philadelphia, in the United States.

Philadelphia, in the United States.

I. Common Infurances, on hazards of the first clais, will be undertaken at a premium of ahout halt per cent. per annum. For extra hazardous risques a larger premium will be required, which will vary according to circumstances, scidom exceeding one per cent. per annum; but in some instances, where the property insured is not only in itself extra hazardous, but rendered still more so by the vicinity of extra hazardous buildings and occupations, the premium demanded will be raised according to circumstances.

Houses and Ware-Houses, the walls and purtitions of which are wholly of stone or brick, well constructed, so as to be guarded as well as may be against fires from within, and free from extra hazardous buildings and occupations in their neighborhood, will be deemed hazardous of the first class, and may be insured to their full value.

Also Goods and Merchandize, not of an extra hazardous kind, in cases, bales, or packages, deposited in such buildings, to an amount not exceeding 4000 dollars; but if more than this sum is required to be insured in one tenement, an additional premium will be required, in proportion to circumstances.

II. Insurances will also be made on buildings and goods extra hazardous at mremiums proportioned tional premium will be required, in proportion to circumstances.

II. Infurances will also be made on buildings and goods extra hazardous, at premiums proportioned to the risque. But it is not easy to arrange these under particular heads or classes, so as to describe each with the necessary accuracy. Each case must therefore be decided upon according to the circumstances attending it; and these circumstances will, in general, appear from the description accompanying the application.

Buildings partly constructed of brick or stone, are preserable to those wholly wooder. And in both cases, the fille of building, how they are occupied, how they are situated, the neighboring buildings, and how occupied, are considerations to be taken into view. And with respect to goods, their tendency, whether from their nature, or from the manner in which they are exposed, either to commence or to increase an accidental fire, and their liability in such state to receive damage by wet, or by sudden and hasty removal, or to be sholen in time of consusion and hurry, are all circumstances of weight; and the premiums must be proportioned accordingly.

III. The following conditions are to be understood by the parties.

Iff. The Insurance is not binding till the stipulated premium be vaid; but it shall be deemed effectual from the time of such payment and acceptance thereof, whether the policy be immediately stance thereof.

funed or not,

ad. Infurances may be renewed at the expiration of the term of the policy, without further expenfes than the payment of the premium of the renewed term, the circumftances continuing the fame as they were understood by the Infurers at the time the former infurance was made; but the payment of the premium is effential to such renewal; and if the party insured suffers any time to elapse after the expiration of the former insurance, before he pays a premium for the renewal, he is not insured during such times, was can the insurance he renewal pays a premium for the renewal, he is not infured during fuch time; sor can the infurance be renew-ed on the former policy but by computing the commencement of the renewal from the expiration of the former infurance. The subject of infur-ance may nevertheless be open to treaty for a new application, otherwise the policy made on such application will be void.

4th Goods held in trust, or on configument, may be insured as such in a separate policy; but they are not to be confidered as insured otherwise.

5th. This company will not be liable or accountable for any loss or damage occasioned by any forcign invasion, or by any military or usured force-or by reason of any civil commotion; or occasion, ed by gunpowder, aquasortis or other thing of the like kind kept in the building, or amongst the property insured.

6th. Bills of Exchange, Bonds and other Secuty-five dollarseach, to be confidered as infured une lefs particularly mentioned and by special agreericht.

7th. No infurance will be made for a florter term than one year, nor for a longer term than feven years. Perfons choosing to infare for seven years shall be callowed one year's premium by way of discount: One third of a years premium shall be abated in like manner on an infurance for three years.

three years.

8th. Losses sustained by fire on proverty insured, shall be paid in thirty days after due proof and liquidation thereof, without deduction.

A description of the property to be insured will be expected with each application, to be made by a master carpenter and figned by him, as well as by the owner of the building or applicant for infurance, and attested before a Notary or principal Magistrate, who will certify his knowledge of the parties and their credibility.

With respect to Houses and other Buildings.

1st. The site and position; describing the first or road on or near which the building stands; its contiguity to water, and other circular.

rit. The fite and position; describing the street or road on or near which the building stands; its contiguity to water, and other circumstances relative to the extinguishment of fire in case of accident; and particularly whether any and what fire companies are established, and engines provided, in the place or neighboushood.

2d. The materials of which it is built, whether of brick, stone or wood, and what part of each, as well as to the outside walls as inside or partition walls, and thoir respective height and thickness; the style of the roof and of what materials; how secured by battlements or party walls; what kind of access to the top of the house and to the chimnies; whether any and what electric rods; the number and kind of sire places; and the kind of deposit for ashes.

3d. The dimensions of the building and how divided, and the style in which it is finished so as to enable indifferent persons to judge in what manner it is to be repaired or rebuilt in case of injury; the age and condition of the building, and how occupied, whether merely as a dwelling house, or for any other, and for what purpose; also an estimate of the value of the house or building independent of the ground.

4th. The situation with respect to other buildings or back buildings, whether adjoining or not, comprehending at least one hundred feet each way: what kind of buildings are within that distance, how built, of what materials, and how occupied or improved, whether as dwellings for private families or otherwise: whether any and what trade or manusactory is carried on, and particularly whether there be any extra hazardons articles used, or usually deposited in the house, or within the distance aforefaid, and of what kind.

Respecting goods in Houses, Warehouses, &c.

1. A general description of the building in

Respecting goods in Houses, Warehouses, &c. 1. A general description of the building in which they are kept will be expected, similar in all respects, as to the danger from fire, with that required for Insurance on the buildings themselves.

themselves.

2. A description of the kinds and nature of the goods, whether in casks or other packages, or opened; and whether displayed in whole pieces or in the usual form for retailing. And if the goods vary materially is kind, ageneral effimate of the value of each kind proposed to be insured; but in the last particular minuteness of description is not expected.

3. Articles of the following kinds are deemed extra-hazardous, though in various degrees, in whatever building they may be placed, viz. pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, wax, tallow, oil, inflammable spirits, sulphur, hemp, flax, cotton, dry goods of an inflammable kind, opened.—Glas, china ware or procelain, especially inpacked; Looking glasses, jewelery; and all other articles more than commonly inflammable, or more than commonly liable to injury by sudden removal or by mossitures, or particularly obnoxious to thest on an alarm of sire.

Letters post paid, directed to the Secretary of the Board of Directors, will be duly attended to. An order for Insurance accompanied by the means of paying the premium, will be immediately executed on the premium being paid. If the application contain an enquiry only, it will be answered.

By order of the Board,
