

sum of money, which he had distributed to his troops and the Egyptians.

Captain Calloway writes from Otrante, to a member of the legislature, under date of the 8th November as follows:

From Corfu our papers of the 2d instant contain the following: Our islands is in the best state of defence. The country of Sulli, which is a part of Turkey, has risen against the pacha of Janina. The inhabitants have mounted the French cockade and established a national guard. The government of Corfu has sent them arms, powder, cannon, and two casks of pistols. Mustafa pacha has effected this, who got to be a French general. The country of Butrinto has acted a similar part. From all these quarters Corfu can be furnished with provisions, with which it is already supplied for several years. All the superfluous cannon an Ancona have been sent to the heretofore Venetian islands. In Greece, 400 mules have been put in requisition to transport ordnance to the highest mountains. Our island alone furnishes 30,000 volunteers.

The council of ancients have agreed to the resolution of the council of five hundred, for laying a tax on doors and windows.

The debts of that part of Germany ceded to France, amount to 196,000,000 of livres.

PORTSMOUTH, January 29.

On Thursday morning, at sun rise, capt. McNeill, commanding the United States ship of war Portsmouth, made the signal for unmooring, and at 10 A. M. he stood down the river under easy sail. The Portsmouth saluted the town by a federal discharge of cannon, which was instantly returned by Major Wm. Boyd's private armed ship, and by a private armed brig belonging to Mr. Wm. Seavey, merchant. The usual compliment from the shrouds, was acknowledged by three hearty cheers, and a farewell huza from the gallant ship's company and hundreds of assembled spectators. The Portsmouth sets remarkably well upon the water, and bids fair to fall incomparably fast. Capt. McNeill awaits orders in the lower harbor and proceeds at a moment to join his brave companions in defensive naval arms. Most of the officers and many of the men, were of late our respected fellow citizens; they are followed by the best wishes of the community.

The fame day, John Adams, Esq. in the new Revenue Cutter Scammel, proceeded for the outer harbor. It is supposed that both vessels will go out in company; and no doubt but their respective commanders will distinguish themselves as brave sea officers. The thirty-six gun ship, named the Congress building at this port, progresses with great rapidity. At present, there are from 70 to 80 hands employed daily. They begin work at early light and work until dark, with only half an hour intermission for meals and ten minutes for grog. The pay is from 3/6 to 5/6 per diem; and although this ship is finishing in the shortest days of the year, yet we are persuaded that she will be the cheapest 36 that has been built.

NEW-YORK, February 3.

GENTLEMAN THIEF.

To the Editor of the New-York Gazette.

SIR,
On Friday evening as I was returning from the house of a friend in the suburbs, about 11 o'clock, a well dressed man crossed the street near the Hospital, who held in his hand a cocked pistol, and addressed me nearly in these words: "Sir, you cannot mistake my meaning—I have been reduced from your walks in life—I cannot beg—this is my alternative—and without any danger to yourself, you will act well to give me what money you have." I gave him four dollars and some small silver, which was all I had, he thanked me, and bid me proceed. It is proper to communicate this to the public by way of caution to others. Yours,
Saturday morning.

CHARLESTON, January 12.

TOBACCO.

From the beginning to the end of the year 1798, there has been more Tobacco inspected at the Charleston warehouse, than there was in the two preceding. If the other six or eight inspectors in this State have, collectively, inspected as much, (and it is believed they have inspected considerably more) averaging the hogheads at 1200 lbs. nett each, this article alone, at 7 dollars per cwt. (the cash price last month and rising) will amount to more than a million of dollars.

It is also said, that there is not received near half the present crop. The citizens of this State may therefore congratulate themselves on the rising importance of their back settlements, in industry, popularity, &c. The nearest of our Tobacco planters is little short of 200 miles from Charleston, and the farthest about 300 miles.

Inspected at the Charleston Warehouse.
In 1796 2362 hogheads
In 1797 3882
In 1798 6500

FREDERICKSBURG, Jan. 29.

The Editor is authorized to inform the Freeholders of Culpeper, Fauquier, and Stafford Counties, that Col. MERCER has declined offering for Congress; and that Mr. JOHN NICHOLAS, their present representative, at the earnest solicitation of his friends, will with pleasure serve his constituents again, should they think proper to honor him with their suffrages at the approaching election.

Mr. Nicholas will himself offer an address to his constituents upon this occasion.

Authentic Information from the Isle of France.

Extract of a letter dated August 1, 1798.

"My letter of the 15th April informed you no privateers were then fitting out of this island, since which an arrival of a French armed ship brought in with her a Danish company ship from Bengal, under a decree recently made in France, that all neutral ships found with British manufactured goods on board, shall be condemned as good prize. In consequence of which two privateers have been again fitted out, and several more nearly ready; however, the decree not arriving officially, is not yet adopted in this colony."

Extract of another letter dated Sept. 27, 1798.

"I have to inform of the arrestation of the American ship Orion of Boston, owned by Mr. James Tiddale, here.

This ship arrived here from Batavia, bound to Hamburg with a cargo on board, freighted by the Dutch East-India company; as such came recommended to the governor general of this colony, by the governor general at Batavia—Notwithstanding she has been arrested under the pretext of not being in rule, agreeable to the French construction, and already condemned in the Tribunal of Commerce, and I must observe, I have no hopes in the Court of Appeals.

Since the arrival of the decree from France, to capture all vessels with English merchandize, or of the manufacture of their colonies, many privateers have been fitted out from this island, and I am fearful with such instructions, as will be injurious to the American commerce."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Trenton (New-Jersey) to his friend in this city, dated 2d February, 1799.

"A few days since, the resolutions of the Legislature of Massachusetts, recommending the adoption of certain measures to exclude foreign influence from the Councils of the United States, were passed by the House of Assembly, 26 to 10; and this day they were negatived in Council, 10 votes to 2. This I know you will consider a very extraordinary procedure, and it is therefore proper I should state, and that the public should understand, that in the arguments before the Council, the merits of the proposed amendments did not come into view. The particular ground on which they were opposed, was the mode of application; viz. by way of instructions to our Senators and Representatives, and not an address to Congress as a body, which was conceived not to be warranted, either by the Constitution of this State, or that of the United States, and that therefore a legislative expression on this subject would be premature and wholly informal. This is the true ground of the decision—although it is probable the Demo's will endeavor to arrogate much praise and triumph on the occasion, and give the decision a conspicuous place in Pennington's and Bache's vehicle of abuse, scandal and misrepresentation."

MR. FENNO,

The excellent address of the minority of the Legislature of Virginia, published yesterday, contains the sentiments of all the independent people of that State.

It is a well known fact that the enemies to the federal government and its laws are only to be found among the bankrupts in fame or in fortune; and as the latter class have been the most numerous, it is with pleasure I inform you that the recent high prices for Tobacco, of which we had a very plentiful crop the last season, having enabled the bulk of our planters to pay their debts and to pocket a handsome surplus; they are now about to subscribe to the new loan, and are by a large majority determined on a thorough change in our representatives, all which a little time will evince.

Yours, &c.

A Virginian.

From New-Port, (R. I.) January 22.

L LAUNCH.

Yesterday morning at sun-rise, the United States frigate General Greene, was launched at Warren. The business was accomplished with ease and expedition, and without an accident of any kind. This frigate was expected to arrive in our harbour this day—most of the great and gallant General whose name she bears, is dear to the citizens of this State, and renders interesting to us every thing which tends the recollection of Rhode Island's avo rite son.

Resolutions on the subject of the Kentucky Resolutions.

Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware, That the Resolutions from the State of Kentucky are a very unjustifiable interference with the General Government and constituted authorities of the United States, and of dangerous tendency, and therefore not a fit subject for the further consideration of this General Assembly.

Resolved, That the above Resolution be signed by the Speaker of the Senate, and by the Speaker of the House of Representatives; and that the Governor of this State be requested to forward the same to the Governor of the State of Kentucky.

Signed, by order of the Senate, ISAAC DAVIS, Speaker.
Signed, by order of the House of Representatives, STEPHEN LEWIS, Speaker.
