

the height it would then arrive at, would be able to defray the expenses of any war. If therefore, feeling the dictates of necessity called for such a measure, by which we saved ourselves from many dangerous consequences—not only so, but laid the foundations of a system which had in its consequences the effect of raising this country to an exalted pitch of grandeur and opulence—he was sure that he addressed those who would not be influenced by narrow or partial considerations—he addressed men who carried their views to remote posterity—whose considerations went beyond their own immediate lives, and who were influenced by their desire to ameliorate the condition of their children.—The considerations were enough to determine them, but they would consider also, that they were not determining only for this nation—they would not forget that the deliberations of a British parliament were not only regarded with anxiety by their own countrymen, but also by the rest of Europe. The surrounding nations looked to us, either to raise their hopes or destroy their confidence.—We alone by our domestic wisdom, had secured the means and held the power of averting that torrent which had too long destroyed the peace of surrounding Nations, and in turn had threatened with subversion the liberties of each of them.

A regard to our own situation, a desire of preserving the liberties of posterity, would not suffer us to shrink from principles, which, though adopted in the time of necessity, were even now rewarded with the most beneficial effects.—The benefits indeed, resulting from them, crowded round us, and were felt by every one who had the honour to call himself a subject of Great Britain.

FROM JAMAICA PAPERS.

KINGSTON, FEB. 24.
A letter of a recent date from Barbadoes, mentions that a considerable number of troops have been sent from France to Cayenne, with some views, it is supposed, against Demerara; but in order to defeat their purpose, a detachment of 300 men has been sent from Barbadoes to reinforce that settlement. The same letter mentions that two French 44 gun ships, and 12 stout privateers, have arrived at Guadaloupe from France. On their passage they captured an English ship, which was retaken and sent to Martinique.

Since the departure of Victor Hughes for France, Admiral Harvey has sent a cartel with a number of negroes on board that had been taken from estates by him, to serve on board his privateers. The new governor of Guadaloupe has, on the receipt of them, sent them back to the proprietors they belong to, and assured Admiral Harvey, that such descriptions of people would never be employed in the like manner in future.

February 9.
Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Barbadoes, dated Dec. 10, 1798.

"I am very sorry to inform you the French have landed a considerable number of troops at Cayenne, and also at Guadaloupe; in their way they took a ship and sent her for the latter place, which vessel was taken by one of our frigates and sent into Martinique; she gave a particular account. The frigate met two French 44's and a lugger, which gave her a broadside; she immediately made the best of her way to the Admiral, and informed him thereof, and before any vessels could be sent after them they got into Guadaloupe. It is feared that those ships, and a vessel called L'Agreable, belonging to Mr Barton of this place, which they have captured and fitted out with 24 guns and 200 men, are now to the windward, and will do a deal of mischief to our trade. To-morrow go from hence 300 troops to Demerara, as it is thought the French meditate an attack on that place, and it is supposed the troops at Guadaloupe intend to make an attack on some of our islands. Several other vessels have also been captured by the enemy and sent into Oronoque."

Letters of the 18th December, found on board the Spanish Polare, which arrived last week, state that Port Mahon in the island of Minorca, capitulated to the British forces on the 16th November, and that the garrison marched out with the honors of war; also, that two Spanish frigates and a sloop of war were taken in the road. The same letters mention, that the Directory had informed the Court of Spain, that any part taken by it in the meditated coalition against France would be considered as a declaration of war against the Republic.

January 12.
Sunday about two o'clock, P. M. two very severe shocks of an earthquake were felt in this town.

Information is received by the prize that came in on Monday evening, that the sloop republicans at Port au Prince, had put about 40 persons of color to death, without assigning any reason for their conduct.

His Majesty's ship Squirrel, capt. Hampstead, arrived on Tuesday from a cruise; she has brought under her convoy several prizes two of them American ships that were bound to the Havana.

The American ships detained by the Squirrel, are the Harmony, Miller, and Thomas, Bishop, from Charleston, bound to the Havana, with cargoes of salt, brandy, gin, and dry goods.

NEW-YORK, March 19.
Captain Cheller, of the British Letter-of-marque, in 17 days from Martinique, informs that commodore Barry retook and carried into St. Piers, an English Letter-of-marque, of 20 guns and 45 men, belonging to Liverpool, that had been taken to windward of Barbadoes, by the French privateer Schooner Democrat, of 18 twelve pounders and 75 men, after a hard fought engagement, in which the Letter-of-marque had 37 men killed and the remainder wounded. The privateer escaped while the Commodore Barry was taking possession of the prize.

Captain Cheller, on the 16th inst. spoke the ship Roe Buck, of and bound to Philadelphia. Same day spoke a sloop from New-York to St. Thomas's.

An extract from a letter dated Martinique, Feb. 28, handed yesterday for publication, says, "Yesterday a British letter-of-marque, of 20 guns and 45 men, belonging to Liverpool; and the privateer Democrat of 18 twelve pounders, arrived here—both sent in by Commodore Barry."

Yesterday, we hear, by an order from the Secretary at War, a large detachment of men from Fort Jay, under the command of Captain Henry, set out for Northampton county, Pennsylvania. Other troops, we understand, from different quarters are on their way to the seat of insurrection. May it be stifled in its bud.

The bill "for the Gradual Abolition of Slavery," was taken up in the Senate of this State on Tuesday last—in committee, Mr. Hatfield in the chair—A very lengthy and animated debate ensued—in which the principle, under certain modifications, was universally conceded.—The speakers were Messrs. Jones Addison, Van Vechten, Gold, Clinton Spencer and Tillotson.—The committee rose without coming to a decision. This bill has passed the Assembly.—It enacts that all children born of female slaves, after the 4th day of July next, shall be free—males at 28 years of age, and females at 25.

A gentleman who arrived in town last evening from Haverley's, where a meeting of a number of the dissatisfied persons from the counties of Bucks, Northampton, and Montgomery, was held on Monday, informs us, that at that meeting (which consisted of about two hundred persons) a disposition of unconditional submission to the laws of the United States was uniformly manifested; and that, so far from resistance, the parties who were arrested by the marshal, and afterwards released, are some of them now on their way to this city. By the report of a committee from the several counties, a resolution corresponding with the above was entered into.

Our informant adds, that he had conversed with Eric, who was one of the principals of these misguided people, and that he declared his determination to submit to the proper authorities. He also believes the same determination was prevalent among all who were at the meeting; some of whom were from that part of Northampton where the greatest violence prevailed.

He also says, that Messrs. Kern, Hartzell, and Coobach are expected in town this day, when we may expect to be more particularly informed of the proceedings of the meeting. [Am. Daily Adv.]

The accounts from Northampton, agreeably to the best information we have been able to obtain, are extremely contradictory. Letters from that county, state, that Hartzell, one of the persons abovementioned, having called a meeting of the rebels at Quakey Town, on which occasion he exhorted them to submit to the laws, so far from having any influence over them, was violently insulted.

Blair MacClenahan, ci-devant member of Congress, has given notice to his creditors that he intends to take the benefit of the act made for the relief of insolvent debtors.

In Vermont, things are differently managed. If the publication in a newspaper of a notice to his creditors would cancel all his debts, Matthew Lyon, it is said, would return to his constituents. As affairs are at present, however, he prefers journeying in Virginia, to being hemmed up in a Vergennes' prison, with no more of the light of heaven than what is admitted by a half-moon cut in the door, and no society but Volney's Ruins.

If the insurrection in Northampton is in reality subsiding, and its agents retiring to their shells, what is to follow? Are the perpetrators of so daring an outrage on the laws honor, and dignity of the government to escape with impunity? Is the mere profession of a disposition to submit to the laws in future, an atonement for their late violent infractions?

FARES, the present hero of revolt in Northampton county, it is said, was formerly a vendue-crier in this city.

It is a fact, that not one of those individuals who are so outrageous in their opposition to the house and land tax, in Northampton, have property taxable by that law!

The captain of the Democrat, taken by Commodore Barry, is one Williams, a notorious pirate, who formerly commanded the privateer Amor de la Patria, and is an Irishman.

From the Vergennes Gazette.

WASHINGTON'S NATAL DAY

Was celebrated by a number of respectable inhabitants of this town, and its vicinity, in a manner evincive of the firmest attachment to that venerable hero, whom the voice of UNITED MILLIONS will ever proclaim the SAVIOUR OF HIS COUNTRY. Northwardly the inclement wintry sky, and the hoarse howlings of the mountain storm, a company of artillery, under the command of captain Samuel Walker, handsomely equipped and completely uniformed, gladdened the eye of the true American, by their martial appearance, and military manoeuvres. After proclaiming, by the cannon's mouth, the unrivalled merits of "Columbia's favorite Son," a "band of brothers," at the inn of Mr. Oliver C. Wyman, partook of the feast of Federalism. Here were joined veteran officers, and soldiers, who fought the battles of American independence, officers, civil and military, and a bright concourse of citizens, rejoicing in their Adams, their Washington and their country. Succeeding a choice collation of the best viands the season affords, while every eye beamed rapture, and the peal of hilarity, and burst of applause responded every sentiment. The following patriotic Toasts were drank.

1. George Washington. May the arm of our Washington be terrible to traitors, as were the thunders of OMNIPOTENCE to the arch Democrat in heaven. [14 cheers and Washington's March.]
2. John Adams. May that "Rock on which the storm may beat," long continue the chief corner stone of the Federal Building. 14 cheers and President's March.
3. Lyon. The spring halt to the dog trotter. 3 groans and the rogue's march from drum and fife.
4. Hemp and United Irishmen. May the former conduct the latter. 3 cheers.
5. Gallatin. May the hand of the hangman imprint Finis to the works of the seditious Genevan, before he can publish a new edition of the whilky insurrection. 6 cheers.
6. Tar and feathers to the French Tories. 3 cheers and Yankee Doodle.
7. The nerve that feels for its country, and the honest hand, with the naked sword. 6 cheers.
8. May bullet holes admit light, were federalism cannot shine. 3 cheers.
9. The sword, the keel and the ploughshare—May each support the other. 3 cheers.
10. Clark the thief, Lyon the wooden sword bearer, Hefwell the postaster, the illuminated Jefferson and the murderer Merlin. May they form a French directory in pandemonium the feat of democracy. 3 cheers and ca-ira.
11. The honest, but deluded, among our antifeederal countrymen. May the mantle of charity cover the faults of those democrats, whose erring heads are unconnected with depraved hearts. 3 cheers.
12. May the Dagon of Faction fall prostrate before the ark of Federalism. 3 cheers.
13. May Virginian slave drivers cease to theorize the "Rights of Man," till they cease to tyrannize over their sable brethren.— 9 cheers.
14. The American Fair. May they never lavish one smile on the enemies of our country. 9 cheers.

The proceedings of the day were concluded by the festive American songs of "Hail Columbia," "Adams and Liberty," and the "Rutland Patriotic Ode," performed and encored with the plaudits of a large concourse of federal auditors. No accident intervened to mar the transports of the admirers of Washington; but all was worthy the day which ushered into existence the Guardian Angel of America.

N. B. Majorities in the Legislatures of two of our sister States, having shewn a disposition to recede from the Federal Union, it was thought improper to compliment them on this occasion. Fourteen toasts only, were accordingly drank.
