INFERNAL OUTRAGE.

A gang of United Irifhmen, yesterday hefet the house of Mr. Brown, Editor of the Philadelphia Gazette; at feveral different times during the day, but not finding him at home or finding him armed, were repeatedly toiled in their defign to murder him. At about 2 o'clock, however, leveral of them carried their defign partly into execu-tion, by affaulting and abuling Mr. Brown in the most cruel and barbarous manner. The following publication was declared by the affattins to be the ground of their outra-

"The French Republic-Irifhmen cannot be ungrateful." Nine cheers, and the Marfeilles Hymn."

What has France done to deferve the gratitude of Ireland? Under deception af-ter deception, under promifes of affiftance and protection, which France did not and could not afford, Ireland became plunged into a scene of universal uproar and oarnage, and is gashed with many a deep wound, which years will not heal. Who should curfe France more loudly than Reynolds and his affociate in rebellion? Did not this perfidy of France, this promised aid which never arrived, drive him and his affociates into extremities, not at first contemplated; and which have ended in the banishment of Reynolds and many hundred of his brethren-in the hanging of fuch as were not fortunate enough to escape, and the entire difcomfiture of the whole fystem of infurrection-It is evident too that France en-deavored to separate Ireland from Great Britain, to take poffeffion of herfelf, and that the Irifh directory began to difcover

As profecutions for pretended libels have become more common (and ten times more oppreflive in the mode of their conduct) that the Lettres de Cachet of Louis Quatonze, I venture to suppole that no one will be abfurd enough to prefume that I mean to convey any allufion to Dallas, Secretary of State, and of the Democratic Society.

COMMUNIGATED.

Yesterday morning, a dark-vifaged United Irifhman, who appeared, by his looks and manners, to have recently escaped to this country, called on Mr. Brown, the Editor of the Philadelphia Gazette, and began in an abulive manner to queftion him refpecting a publication in which one Reynolds, the chief of the gang, had been properly treated for his impudence in toalting the French Re-public at a recent fealt on St. Patrick's day; Mr. Brown, in a fpirited manner, drove the fellow from his door, but without that chaf-tifement which he fo richly deferved. About 2 o'clock, two more of this gang of ruffians, ushed in upon Mr. Brown while he was dining alone, and one of them attacked him with a bludgoon, while another, of fuperior fize and ftrength, held a young mau who would otherwife have handed Mr. Brown a weapon for his defence-fter dunning Mr. On Monday the 18th inft. a number of United Irifhmen affembled to get drunk to-gether at a private bouse, having neither by the approach of the neighbours, both the villains made off; foon after the principal of ous gang must it have been when he was the the gang (Reynolds) had the impudence to chief! The toalts and music used on the oc- shew himself, and was foon followed by two cafion, have in them a degree of hardinefs others, and feveral more were feen lurking and contempt for the public feeling of this country, that could fearcely have been look-ed for even from the defperate band that were known except Reynolds, who, by keepwere known except Reynolds, who, by keeping himfelf apparently detached; feemed to hope that he might efcape being implicated in this deteftable plot; but it is hoped that the unerring hand of juffice may foon over-take the whole of these horrid confpirators, who having already forfeited their lives by treafons in their own country, are ftill anxious to meet their deferts in this.

To MR. FENNO.

SIR,

I FIND myfelf under the difagreeable neceffity of appealing to the public, in contradiction of a malicious and unfounded falsehood, which appeared in your paper of the 27th inft. under the New-York head, which ftates that I had compelled a French privateer to ftrike, and then had not courage to take poffeifion of her.

Every man who is acquainted with the duty of a commander of a veffel of war, will admit, that if the privateer had struck, it was not my duty to take poffession of her, but to have fent an officer.

The report may have arisen from my chaling a French privateer into the island of

The feller accordingly fent the watches in a trunic, and the purchaster drew a check on one of the banks for the amount, which, on being prefented, was refufed, as no fuch perfon had accounts with the bank. The bearer of the check returned to the place where he had left the watches, but Harrifon and abfconded with them, and could not be found. A reward of 500 dollars was taid to have been offered for his apprehention. Search was made, and, on Tuciday, about funfet, he was taken on board of a Hoebuck trunk. The watches, except a few, were found in it-7 were in his pockets, and he had fold 6. He was lodged in the watchhad fold b. The was folged in the watch-houfe, and yefterday morning carried before the police. On being queftioned why he drew a check on the bank, knowing he had no money there, he replied, that he expected by that time, there was a deposit of eash from New-Orleans to meet the draft !

amen ! " The Martyrs of Irifh Liberty ; who have taught us how to live and die—Tone, Fitzgerald, &c. &c."

That is, how to live in infamy and die on the gallows-a United Irishman does not "Alexander James Dallas; the indepen-dence of the Bar."

That thefe fellows fhould toast their Attorney is no way remarkable; as Irifhmen cannot be ungrateful, it was certainly indif-penfable; but that the fhould talk of the independence of the Bar, is most aftenish-ingly impudent.—It is not afcertained beyond all controverfy, that every juror, witnefs, jultice or lawyer, concerned in the appre-hension or conviction of any United Irifhman, was exposed almost to certain affassination, from that defperate banditti in Ireland, among whom Reynolds, was a leading character.--It was even a folemn refolution, that if a United Irifhman, confented to a verdict against a United Irifhmen, "he ought to lose his existence." Here, is the independence of justice then finely disposed of : And yet these fellows have the efficiency to come here and prate about the independence of the Bar.

Many observations might be made on this private entertainment; but as it may have been the principal object of these poor wret-ches " to push about the jorum," and get mellow without expense, it is a pity to mterfere with the only pleafure they can enjoy.

Although the murderous deeds of this the most detestible banditti, that ever infested a civilized community cry aloud for the aveng-ing arm of juffice; and although the violat-ed ties of nature, the offended charities of focial intercourfe, and the common civilities of life, ought to have enfured the apprehen-fion of the affaffins, yet the mob who gathered round them was fo hafe as to let them off.

Thus the immediate Agents have elcaped : our attention turns, therefore, to the villains who fuborned them. A fellow, once acquitted for an intent to murder, ve-ty naturally tries his hand at it again.
