PHILADELPHIA,

SATURDAY EVENING, MARCH 30.

STATE-ISLAND,

26th March, 1799.

THE captain and paffengers of the ship Thomas Wilson, think themselves under in finite obligations to Major Jackson, for hi kind visit and affiduous report of several o the crew dying on the passage, and the rest in a very fickly state: which we declare to be false; and to fatisfy the minds of the inhabitants of Philadelphia, do certify, that the entire cargo now on board has been landed, and lay four months in a magazine at Kingston since the last man died on board; and during the prefeut voyage there has not been a fick man on board, except the captain, whose illness the physicians declare to be a relapse from cold, and is now perfectly recovered.

Thomas A. Jones, Thomas Williams, W. Brown, J. H. Bailey, R. J. Gruvelle.

MR. BROWN. In refutation of the preceding false and indecent statement, by the captain and paf-fengers of the ship Thomas Wilson, which appeared in your paper of last evening, you are defired to publish the following facts. W. JACKSON. Philadelphia, March 29, 1799.

On the afternoon of Friday last, major Jackson, surveyor of the port, in company with captains Roach and Ashmead, two of the inspectors, went on board the ship Thomas Wilson, then at anchor in the river Delaware, about three miles above Chefter.

Immediately on entering the veffel they were all affected by a very offenfive fmell which appeared to proceed from between Enquiring after the health of the people on board, John Hoover and Philip Tear, two of the barge's crew, were informed by the pilot and the people of the ship, that several persons who belonged to her when she sailed from Philadelphia had died—and the pilot told John Hoover, that all the crew had died excepting the man who stood in the waift of the ship.

When major Jackson and captains Roach and Ashmead entered the round house they found the captain fick, with his head bound up; on being asked what ailed him, the cap-tain answered that he had been ill of a bad fever in Jamaica, and had a relapse on the Alarmed at fuch evidence of fome malignant diforder being on board, the survey-or and inspectors left the ship.—The pilot declaring to captain Roach that he would not bring her up until she had, been visited by the physician.

As the custom-house barge did not reach the city until 11 o'clock at night, the furveyor could not report the ship at the health office until Saturday morning, when, to his assonishment, he perceived her anchored abreast of the city, she having come up with-out being visited—and the captain and paflengers were on shore.

Information being given at the health office, the refident physician, Dr. Hall, went on board in the custom-house boat, and, on bis report, and the opinions of Dr. Dussield, confulting physician, and Mr. Allen, the health-officer, who also went on board, the ship was ordered to be immediately taken down the river to perform quarantine—and the captain and paffengers, as appears from the date of their publication, have been fent day of March, 1799. ROBERT WHARTON, mayor.

Sworn and fubscribed before me, this 29th

I do further declare, that when Doctor Hall returned from vifiting the hip, he stated expressly to me, "that it was very improper she should have come up"—and he afterwards told me, that the Captain informed him that his feel extent. ed him that his first attack of the sever had been while he was at Petit Guave, that he had been again attacked in Jamaica-and that he had relapfed at fea. Dr. Hall added to me, that is was the yellow fever of which the Captain was fick. And yet these gentry have offered their certificate, "to satisfy the minds of the inhabitants of Philadelphia!" a certificate, which, as far as it was intended to imply any mifrepresentation on my part I again state to be scandalously false and in-decent. W. JACKSON.

It is due to Messrs. Reed and Ford, the owners of the ship Thomas Wilson, to say, that they have disavowed any knowledge of the publication by the captain and passengers.

We regret that the affault which was made on the Editor of this paper yesterday, by one of the United Irishmen, prevented us from annexing the remarks, which we in-tended, to the publication, figured by the cap-tain and four passengers of the ship Thomas Wilson, which, as we then conceived, very illiberally research on Major, Jechton, for illiberally reflected on Major Jackson, for his official visit on board of that ship, and, as we are fince affured, was as untrue as it was indecent. We are too well affured of that gentleman's adherance to truth, to believe him capable of any mistatement; but the fact is, that the veffel was ordered to perform quarantine, after an inspection by the physician of the port. Major Jackson's information only went to state what the master of the vessel had himself declared, that he had been attacked by a bad fever in Juna'. he had been attacked by a bad lever in Juna.

ca, of which he had had a relapse at ier.

The information respecting the deaths on board was given to the people of the Custom house boat, and was reported by them.

We confess our obligations, in common with our fellow-citizens, to Major Jackson, for whatever influence his opinions had, in procuring the ship Thomas Wilson, together with her captain and paffengers, (who, contrary to law, had landed without being vilited by the Port Physician) to be remanded to perform quarantine.

P. G.

Our Tars Rewarded!!! The Editors of the United Irish Sazette, are daily charging the gallant Truxton, and his brave officers and crew, with premeditated murder, in return for their noble conduct in the capture of a piratical cruizer, which had committed innumerable hostilities on our commerce.—In what other country would fuch conduct be suffered?

ANECDOTE. On the 10th of August 1778, Count D'Estaing, with his fleet passed before the British batteries at Newport, and there was a brisk cannon on both sides. Many of the fliot struck in the town and the inhabitants were in great consternation. A shot entered the door of the house of Mrs. Maion, a widow lady, a little above the floor. As the family were passing from room to room, not knowing where the next shot might strike, young Mr. Mason paffing through the entry, found a negro fitting with his back against the shot-ho in the door; on being asked why he sat there, he answered, "Master, you never know two shot to go in the same place." Under this idea he was tranquil.

The surgeon sued him in a Court Baron, and the attorney, against whom this application was made, was employed by the grocer to defend the action. She told him she would swear she heard the desendant promise to pay the furheard the defendant promise to pay the sur-geon. They asked her if she did not recollect that the defendant only said HE WOULD SEE HIM FAID, but that would not do, and after several unfuccessful attempts to make this woman commit perjury, they at length prevailed on her not to attend the trial.—
The attorney gave her a guinea, and his characteristics. ent half a guinea. The Steward, in confequence of her absence, postponed the trial of the cause, on the plaintiff's paying the costs the day, and this attorney, w ed this woman to keep out of the way, had the audacity to oppose putting off the trial to a future day.
