

New Philadelphia.
THE proprietors of the high ground in the neighborhood of this city, known by the name of Springtown Manor; bounded on the west by the river Schuylkill, on the east by Fourth Street, from Schuylkill, on the north by Francis's lane, and on the south by Callowhill Street, have agreed to appropriate it for the purpose of building a new city as a summer retreat.

The plan in two sections may be seen at the Coffee House. The main street, 100 feet wide, runs nearly east and west along the top of the ridge, striking Schuylkill a little above the upper ferry, where nature has placed everlasting abutments, and stone in abundance to form a permanent bridge of one arch, that cannot be approached by ice or floods.

A street of 66 feet wide, is laid out on each side of, and parallel to the main street. These are crossed by five new streets at right angles, and by the continuation of Front, Second, Third and Fourth Streets from Schuylkill.

The situation is high, airy and healthy, and commands an extensive prospect. The water is good. The canal runs obliquely through it. It is just a sufficient distance from the Delaware for a pleasant walk, to give an appetite to dinner after the business of the day is over.

To be sold at Public Vendue,
On Saturday next the 13th inst. at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, on the premises,
One hundred and eleven of the highest and best situated Lots in the New Town.

Each containing 30 feet front and about 300 deep. The whole is situated on the west side of Fourth Street from Schuylkill, on the high ground opposite Bath Hill gardens, agreeably to a plan at the Coffee House, and at the old city Auction Store.

To accommodate purchasers, one lot will be put up at a time, and the buyer will have the right to take as many adjoining, as he may think proper, at the same rate. The terms are, one third cash, approved notes at three months for the remainder, when deeds clear of all incumbrances, will be given.

Sales at Auction.
On Saturday the 20th April, at 2 o'clock P. M. on the premises,
Sundry Building and Garden Lots,
Some of them contiguous to, and others at a small distance from the city, containing from about one quarter of an acre to about four acres each.

The small lots front on Vine and Callowhill Streets, near Schuylkill—the large lots front on the fourth side of Francis Street, on the east side of Schuylkill river, on the west side of Schuylkill, second street, and on intermediate streets—the whole containing about 140 acres, being part of the tract known by the name of Springtown Manor.

The situation of many of the lots is on high ground, commanding views of the Schuylkill, and supposed to be so much detached from the built parts of the city, as to be out of danger in case of an unhappy return of the fever.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the Subscriber, on Tuesday the second of this inst. April, living in Kent county, Maryland, near Chester Town, the following described Negroes, viz. William, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, a yellowish complexioned fellow, about thirty years of age, formerly the property of doctor William Matthews. He has been very much given to running away, and has been so often described in the public papers within this twelve months that any further description of him seems needless.

Jacob, about 6 feet high, and about 32 years of age, of a common Negro complexion, down look, his little finger of his left hand stands straight, occasioned by the cut of a sickle. Pat, the wife of said Jacob, about 27 years of age, a small light made woman of a yellowish complexion, with thick lips for an American of her stature, she is a very good needle woman, and spins on either small or great wheel, and is very handy in any common house work.

Two children of the said Jacob's and Pat's, the one a male child about four years old, the other a female child about two years old. The above described Negroes took with them, besides their own wearing apparel, three coats, two of which were lined cloth of a light grey color, both new; one of the two was a great deal too large for either of the said fellows; the other coat of brown cloth, half worn; three under jackets, one a velvet, another a drab, the other a light colored lining cloth do, one new pair of California shoes, lined with linen and bound with leather, one pair of boots remarkably large in the legs, several pairs of stockings and a silver watch, all stolen; the own wearing apparel as follows—William had on a light-brown regimental coat worked with silver twills, (which coat he had when he was brought home to me the first of February last, a round sailor jacket (blue,) thickest breeches, patched with corduroy in the frills, with other necessary clothing. Jacob, two lining cloth coats, lead colored, one new the other half worn, blue lining cloth jacket, half worn, two pairs of lining cloth trousers, of a lead colour, the one new the other half worn, tolerable good shoes and stockings. Pat has every day clothing, and her children wore home-made linen and lincsey, her other clothing not so well known; it is uncertain which course they may take, as William is such an experienced coarser.

Any person or persons apprehending said negroes or sounding them, so that their master may get them again, shall be entitled to the above reward, or in proportion for either of them, that is to say, 40 dollars for each of the fellows, and twenty dollars for the wench and children, and if brought home, all reasonable charges paid by

The Gazette.
PHILADELPHIA.
TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 9.

Mr. FENNO,
THE Captain and passengers of the Ship Thomas Wilson, having once more obtruded themselves in the patience of the public, and falsely presumed to question the veracity of the statement—(which they say, was ingeniously inserted after the attestation before the mayor) and which declared that Dr. Hall, had told me that capt Jones, was sick of the yellow fever.

I request that you will publish the subjoined affidavit, as a conclusive answer, to this second attempt at imposition, on the part of Messrs. Jones, Williams, Brown, Baily, and Gravelle.

It will be observed, that Dr. Hall, conferred with me separated from Mr. Milnor and Mr. Hopkins—and that his information was given to us, after he had visited the ship—Any difference therefore, in his report to the Health Office, or subsequent denial of his information to us, may be reconciled as he thinks proper, with the annexed attestations, which have been made with a view to give complete satisfaction, to the citizens of Philadelphia, on a subject in which they are deeply interested—not as a necessary refutation, either of Dr. Hall's denial—or of the assertions of Captain Jones, and his passengers who appear to distinguish very nicely between a declaration on oath and on honor.—An honest man believes them to be of equal obligation.

Of the assertions which have been made by these men, and of their respectability, a correct opinion may be formed, by considering that in all of them, which related to myself, they have been pointedly contradicted on the oaths or affirmations of several honest men. And yet such are the means, which minister to defamation, that the most contemptible may find circulation of their calumny, though composed of the grossest falsehood, and that falsehood evidently subversive of the precautions taken to guard the public health.

WILLIAM JACKSON.
The subscriber declares that after Doctor Hall had visited the ship Thomas Wilson on the morning of the 23d of March, he asked the Doctor what ailed the captain, and was answered that he had the Yellow Fever.

Sworn and subscribed before me, April 6, 1799.
ROBERT WHARTON, Mayor.

In the course of conversation between Mr. Hopkins, Dr. Hall, and myself, on the subject of the ship Thomas Wilson, after the Doctor had visited and ordered her down the river, the doctor's opinion respecting her situation was asked, he replied that the captain had had a bad fever at Petit Guave, that he had a relapse at Jamaica, had caught cold on the passage and again relapsed—that it was highly improper he should come up before he was visited; he stated that soon after he had come on shore he met one of the members of the Assembly, that he mentioned to him that he had just been visiting a ship, the captain of which had the Yellow Fever, that the member of Assembly was off from him like a shot—from the whole of Dr. Hall's conversation I had no doubt that his opinion was, that the fever the captain had was a relapse of the yellow fever.

ISAAC MILNOR.
Affirmed and subscribed before me, April 6th, 1799.
ROBERT WHARTON, Mayor.

In addition to the foregoing statement to which I affirm and subscribe, I do also affirm that Dr. Hall told me expressly he had no doubt that the captain had the yellow fever.
ROBERT HOPKINS.
Affirmed and subscribed before me, April 6th, 1799.

MAYOR'S COURT.

April Sessions.

Commonwealth, vs. Assault on—HILLIARD.
John M'Gurk,
Mr. Hilliard sworn.

About the last of February or beginning of March, I was in Mr. Fenno's office, between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening, writing at the desk, when I was alarmed by the furious entrance of two persons, one armed with a club, the other, M'Gurk, armed with a drawn sword—the one with a club, brandished it over my head, and asked me if my name was Fenno; I assured him it was not; he continued to shake his club over my head, and then asked me where that damned rascal and poltroon was—M'Gurk said, Fenno should or would (I am not certain which) suffer, if he did not desert from his abusive publications against his (M'Gurk's) country; he did not me threaten, but frequently threatened Mr. Fenno.

Quest. Had M'Gurk a scabbard with him?
A. No Sir, his sword was drawn, and he had no scabbard with him.

Q. Was the door open, and did they knock previous to their entrance?
A. The front door was open, the office door was shut, they did not knock, but rushed in, in a furious manner, and before I had time to speak, one of them brandished his club.

Before the mayor next morning, M'Gurk, I conceive supposing I could not know him, asked me, if I had ever seen him before: I told him I had—he then said, sooner than disclose the name of his companion, he would bear all the consequences himself.

Q. Which entered the office first?
A. They appeared to rush in together, the one did not appear to me to advance farther than the other, I cannot say which, if either, entered first.

M'G. Did I, Mr. H. in any way offend you?
A. Most certainly your manner did offend me.

M'G. Was the sword offensively in my hand?
A. It was—as they went out they muttered something, which I believe was, that they would call again.

M'G. Did you believe I came with an offensive intent?
A. Most certainly I do.

M'Gurk then observed, that he had left his sword at Mr. Morrow's to have it cleaned, that he had that evening called for it and received it, that he was returning home, met his friend at the corner, and they went into Mr. Fenno's together, but that he (M'G.) behaved there in a peaceable manner. To prove that he had received his sword at Mr. Morrow's, he produced Mr. Thomas Lator as a witness.

Thomas Lator Sworn.
A Mr. Hullon left a sword at Morrow's to be cleaned, and then to be delivered when called for to Mr. M'Gurk—Mr. M'Gurk called for it, and I delivered it to him.

Q. What day was it you delivered the sword to Mr. M'Gurk?
A. I don't know.

Q. What time in the day?
A. It was in the afternoon.

Q. Had the sword a scabbard with it?
A. It had a scabbard with it.

Mr. Porter on the part of the Commonwealth then made some observations to the Jury on the frequency of those attacks on gentlemen in their houses with views best known, he said, to those who make such attacks, but he thought that such outrages on the peace of society had now become so common, it was high time a stop should be put to them, and that their authors should not escape with impunity.

He made a number of observations on the testimony, and stated in a clear manner that the evidence of Mr. Lator did not go in the least to exculpate the defendant, that Mr. Lator delivered him a sword he did not doubt—but the sword was delivered to M'Gurk on the day when he entered Mr. Fenno's office was not proved by the witness, on the contrary, the witness swore that he delivered the sword in the afternoon and with a scabbard—and it was proved by Mr. H. that the assault was committed in the evening, and that M'Gurk had no scabbard with the sword—he observed that from the evidence before them, he did not doubt but that the jury would be of opinion with him, that M'Gurk was equally guilty with his friend.

THE RECORDER addressed the jury and delivered a clear, handsome & correct charge—he observed that it seems to have been the intent of the person entering Mr. Fenno's office in the manner they did, to have committed an act perhaps of a very different nature from that with which the defendant is charged—that had Mr. Fenno happened to have been in his office on that evening, he did not know what event might have taken place—His Honor then re-capitulated the testimony, after which he gave it as his opinion that M'Gurk was in the eye of the law equally guilty with his companion, and indeed that he was the most alarming character of the two, having a drawn sword in his hand—and that if the jury saw the testimony in this point of view, they would say that M'Gurk is guilty of the assault with which he is charged—Verdict GUILTY.
