IT is more important at this moment, than it can possibly be at any time hence, to attach ourselves with zeal to the election of Mr. Ross.

With Empson for Governor of this Commonwealth, and Dudley for Chief Justice, (though we might indeed, breathe, for a season) the air already polluted, would soon become deleterious, and patriotism and virtue would lose the tottering state.

The life of a Democrat is one continued scene of outrage upon the decencies of life, and the principles of fellowship by which the intercourse of society is sustained.

MAJOR SERGEANT.

This Officer, having been charged with uttering some infamous expressions at a Beer House in Sixth-street, we are desired to state that he has since entirely done away those offensive words by an acknowledgment which has been accepted, wherein he declares, "that he has repeatedly reprobated the conduct of the Editor of the Aurora, in publishing falsehoods arraigning the conduct of the troops on the Northampton expedition."

COMMUNICATIONS.

The foes to our Government are active, intelligent, united, and artful. Possessed of no property, confusion is to them no calamity; of no character, infamy carries with it to them no horrors.

If a daring banditti had declared that none of their brotherhood should be punished by law and that civil process dare not touch them, what should we think of the energy of the municipality that was terrified by the threat.

MR. FENNO,

The mutual agreement between our City Corporation and the Schuylkill Bridge Company to erect the Bridge at High-street, has given universal satisfaction, and there is now no doubt of success in the undertaking.

affirming him that he should return to Macoco in the ship, where he would find vessels bound for Bengat, and referred to his friends. He is about 25 year of age, had been the fuzing or head of the gang, (a term answering to boatwain with us) and is a man of ability.

Tinian abounds with fruit, such as oranges, limes, guavas, the bread fruit, cherries, plums, beans, cocones and cabbage; cotton and indigo are also in great plenty.

P. S. It is no small compliment to the Ann and Hope, to say that she outfalls the Jenny, as the latter has been allowed to be the swiftest sailer out of America.

A coppered sloop is arrived at Newport from Manilla, after a passage of 6 1/2 months. Left there two French frigates, which did not discover any hostile intentions towards American vessels.

NORFOLK, May 14.

Citizens, Look Out!!

It appears that this place has been for some time past infested by a gang of villains who have hitherto escaped detection. A man by the name of Clark, who went from hence, was apprehended at Petersburg on Thursday last, charged with having picked the pocket of Colonel Wells, of Amelia county, of a pocket book containing 26 tobacco notes, exceeding 1400£ value at the Theatre on the preceding evening; the notes had been sold, and Clark had received a payment.

Delegates for the ensuing General Assembly, Botetourt—Col James Breckinridge, and Capt. John Miller.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Mecklenburg county, dated May 3, 1799.

The friends to government in this county have succeeded in electing, both to Congress and the state assembly, men hearty in the cause of government.

To be Rented,

OR, should an eligible offer be made, it will be sold, free of any incumbrances, and immediate possession give, a small neat three story Brick DWELLING, almost new, situated to the westward of Ninth Street, consisting of a kitchen, two parlours, the chambers, and a well plastered garret, also an excellent store room, with a leaden cistern for holding cool water, which it receives through pipes from a pump near the door, of the best water, the rooms are all completely papered and hung with bells, marble chimneys and hearth are in three of the rooms—there is likewise a piazza to the south front, which renders the back part extremely cool and agreeable in the warm season.

African forces circulated here:—100,000 infantry, and 12 regiments of cavalry, to be employed in Italy; on the Lech, 100,000 infantry and 23 regiments of cavalry; in the Tyrol 36 battalions; and on the frontiers of the Hereditary States, 24 battalions of infantry.

LONDON, March 20.

It is expected, as the French Directory has the absolute control of all the Batavian forces, that a Dutch Squadron will be sent to form a part of the expedition from Brest.

Extract of a letter from Naples, dated the 17th of December, which did not arrive till last week.

On the 14th, I stepped at Sir William Hamilton's when Lord Nelson showed us the presents the Grand Seignior had sent him—they were brought here by an Effendi or Secretary, in the Alceme frigate, which failed last from Alexandria. His lordship says, that the Effendi and his Suit (13 in number) performed their part with great gravity and dignity. They put on their noble robes in his anti chamber, and presented the aigrettes on cushions, after the oriental custom. The robe is of scarlet cloth, lined with the finest fable imaginable, and of ineffimable value. The aigrette is a kind of feather; it represents a hand with thirteen fingers, which are of diamonds, and allusive of the thirteen ships taken and destroyed at Alexandria—the size that of a child's hand about 6 years old when opened; the centre diamond and the four round it may be worth about 1000£ each, and there are about 300 others well set. With these two presents were several others of less value, and a letter full of assurances and friendship from the Grand Seignior. The Alceme's officers say, that Buonaparte is at Grand Cairo with 22 000 men; that he had sent a flag of truce to capt. Hood, offering him fresh water if he wanted it. The Turkish army 50,000 in number had arrived at Damasco, but dare not advance into Egypt until spring on account of the plague. The Arabs give no quarter, and they fight desperately on both sides. Buonaparte lives rather gaily at Cairo; and has opened the harems of his seraglio. Very few of the transports are burnt as our ships could not approach them.

March 27.

Extract of a letter from the Rev. Mr. Nelson, father to the Baron of the Nile, to the Rev. Mr. Bryan Allot, (who is living in the neighbourhood of Burnham) in answer to a congratulatory Epistle on the late Victory, dated October, 1798.

My great and good Son went into the world without fortune, but with a heart replete with every moral and religious virtue, these have been his compass to steer by; and it has pleased god to be his shield in the days of battle, and to give success to his wishes, to be of service to his country.

This country seems sensible of his services—but should he ever meet with ingratitude, his fears will cry out and plead his cause—for at the siege of Bastia he lost an eye, at Teneriffe an arm, on the memorable 15th of Feb. he received a severe blow on his body, which he still feels, and now a wound on his head. After all this, you will believe his bloom of countenance must be faded, but the spirit beareth up yet as vigorous as ever.

On the 29th of last month (Sept.) he completed his fortieth year, cheerful generous and good, fearing no evil because he has done none, an honor to my grey hairs which with every mark of old age, creep fast upon me.

By this Day's Mail.

PROVIDENCE May 15.

Extract of a letter from the Surgeon of the ship Ann and Hope, of this port, dated Whampoa (China) Dec. 17, 1798.

I wrote you (via London) from Port-Jackson, in New-Holland, and gave a circumstantial account of the voyage, till our arrival there. I will add, that after beating several days off Port-Jackson, and finding it in vain to contend with adverse winds and a strong current, we fell to leeward, and ran into Botany-Bay, that southern realm, and land of roguery, where we anchored October 21. Next day Messrs. Snow, Thompson, Page, jun, and myself, went to Sydney, a British settlement about 9 miles distant, where we waited on governor Hunter, and were politely received. After tarrying two days, we returned to the ship, accompanied by some of the first characters at Sydney, who dined on board. On the 25th, after having completed our wooding and watering, we again put to sea.

On the 9th of November, off New-Georgia, spoke the ship Jenny, Capt. R. Brown from Boston, formerly of New-York, bound for Canton. He informed us, that, agreeably to this orders, he had touched at the island of New-Amsterdam, and taken off a number of the crew of a Boston sloop, that had been wrecked there; the rest of the crew preferred remaining on the island. On the 30th of November, at half past 4, P. M. we made the island of Tinian, 7 leagues distant. Next day came to anchor in the road, and the Captain, with 25 men, went ashore. As we lay at anchor, we discovered by means of a glass two flags flying on Lord Anson's beach, and a man walking backward and forward seemingly in great agitation. When the pinnace drew near the shore, he hailed her, and enquired what countrymen we were. Being told, he was questioned in turn. He replied, that he was an unfortunate Lascar, cast away there about 18 months since, in the brig Bramin, from Macaco, Captain Swain, formerly of Providence (R. I.) When the Captain went ashore, he prostrated himself at his feet, in the oriental manner. He informed us that he was the only human being on the island, and begged to be taken on board, and delivered from death. The breeze was affecting. Capt. Page consoled him by sity of flying to the country for health if we should ever be so unfortunate as to be visited again by contagion or by excessive fall fevers, the natural consequence of vapour from the marshes below. CIVIS.

The British March Packet has arrived at Halifax.

A vessel has arrived at Boston, which failed from Liverpool the 30th March in company with other American armed ships for different parts of the United States.—The convoy was not expected to fail before the 25th of April.

This vessel brings a report of an action between the French and Austrians armies, in which the former is said to have been worsted.

Departed this life on Thursday last, the 16th inst, in the 30th year of her age, Mrs. MARY MAULL, the amiable consort of Mr. Robert Maull of this City, and daughter of Mr. Joseph Engle of the Northern Liberties.

If personal worth, domestic and uniform virtue, agreeable manners, relative affections, and a steady, conscientious regard for religious worship, could have rescued any one from the grave; then had this Lady been still spared to administer happiness to a bereaved husband, an afflicted father, numerous connections, and a select circle of sympathizing friends.—But HEAVEN ordained otherwise, and unexpectedly removed her from every earthly scene, to a participation of joys more substantial!

Her remains were conveyed the day following to the Baptist burial-ground, and interred in the presence of a respectable number of connections, neighbours, and citizens; the obsequies being performed by the Rev. Dr. Rogers.

DEATHS THAT'S FATAL: Here falls the gentle wife, And there the lovely child. The cup once reined: And so he artful as to put it by.

Extract from a letter from the Log-Book of the brig Susannah, Alexander Combs, master.

April 18th, at 7 A. M. got under weigh at Sandy-hook and Road out to sea, at half after seven, observed a British armed brig of 12 guns, called the Earl of Moira, commanded by Jones Fawson, getting also under weigh and standing out after us. At 8, the Susannah hauled up for the island of St. Thomas, where she was bound; and the Earl of Moira, instead of proceeding on her voyage to Halifax, to which place she was bound, hauled up and gave chase to the said brig Susannah. At 1, P. M. the Earl of Moira came up and boarded us, and captain Fawson, after having taken out Mr. Story, mate, and all the foremast men, and taken possession of all our papers, put a prize master and crew of his own men on board, ordered her to proceed to Halifax, where she arrived on the 24th.

At the time she was captured, the highlands of Neverlink bore N. w. by w. distance three leagues.

Capt. Jones Fawson, after having taken possession of the Susannah, declared that "he had waited for her in New-York, and was resolved to pursue, take, and make prize of her whenever she failed."
