LONDON, May 1. Yefterday Lieutenant Duval, who was difbatched bp Lord Nelfon over land to India with the news of his memorable victory, arived express from Bombay and brought alfo advices from Constantinople. We under-fland that every thing is favourable in the East Indies, and, there is nothing new from Conflantiuople. He came from Hamburgh in the Bufy floop of war. This day arrived the Mail from Ham-burgh which becare due laft Sunday. The contents, however, have been in a great mea-fure anticipated by the London Gazette of 120 milit cont laft night, capt. Ommanney, who accompa-nied lieut, Daval from Vienna, having brought difpatches to Minifiers from Sin Morton Eden. The further accounts which eneral Kray gives of this important battle f the 5th inst. and the confequences which ollowed it, are most auspicious to the tate of Italy. It is impefible for any thing to be more complete than the victory of the At-firians. The French are not only driven ino their fortreffes, where it is a question whether they have magazines and flores, or can depend on the difposition of the natives to befriend them; but he is reduced to fuch a flate of diforder and mutiny that the Gazette tells us the foldiery even plundered their own generals. In little more than a fortnight he army of Italy has been thus broken in pieces, and now Moreau is called upon to collect the fragments, and reftore them to order and ftrength. His military talents are indifputable ; but we fusped it will be beyond his fkill to rally them, or to preferve his footing against the augmented force which the junction of the Ruffians, with the victorious Austrians, now embodied against him ; if the wo latter be not visited with the curse of jeaoufy-the bane of united armies of different countries, languages, and manners.

The French papers prepared us for the ac-count of the capture of Schaffhaufen, which he Gazette alfo announces. The campaign in this quarter will now be brought into the ountry of Switzerland, and every friend to the liberties of mankind must rejoice to think that brave and afflicted people have now a chance to regain their independence.

Admiralty office, April, 29, 1799. Melampus, at Sea, April 19.

I have the honour to inform you, that yefterday morning in lat. 50 23, long. 15 20, we chafed a fhip, which on our firing at her, hoifted French colours. The wind blowing exceedingly hard at N W. with a very heavy fea, the got before the wind when within half gun-fhot of her, and fetting all poffible fail, obfinately perfifted in attempting to ef-cape ; after carrying away our Audden fail booms, we continued firing our chafe guns, when the fuddently gave a broad yaw to wind-ward, inftantly overfet, and in the fpace of two minutes, the went down, and not an atom of the wreck could be feen. The greatest exercions and the utmoflexpedition was used in bringing the Melampus to the wind as near the fpot as possible, with the view of faving thefe unfortunate people, but nothing remained on the furface.

I find by the information of the captain nd officers of Le Papillon, which Nantes, about the fame time with this fhip, and who knew her both from appearance and the fignals fhe made to us, that the was Le Nantois, of 14 twelve and fix pounders, and 150 men; and I am very forry to add, that from other circumstances there is no room for doubt, that the mafter and part of the crew of the Echo, of Pool, which the had taken, were amongst the faffers on this meancholy occasion.

fares to thwart their execution. It is not ikely that the Republican government of France thould be able to carry on its projects of ambition with more concealment than the ncient monarchy.

One thing is certain : ministry were fo well informed of their intention to fail (indeed we announced the preparations of the enemy for this event fome time ago) that provisional orders had been fent to the proper ports for the direction of our comman-ders, in cafe of fuch an event taking place. Our letters received this morning from Plymouth inform us that all is buffle on Board the men of war in that harbor, and that every ship that could possibly put to fea would fail yesterday. Four ships of the line and three frigates were already unmoored. When we flated the preparations of the French, we also mentioned the exertions making in the ports of Holland to fecond their views. This intelligence is fully confirmed by some Dutch gaz ties which reached us yefterday evening. A decree has been pai-fed in the first and fecoud Chambers in confequence of a meffage from the Directory, that all merchant veffels shall be put is a ftate of requisition. An order which was issued in consequence of this decree, for making out lifts to enable the Directory to afcertain what of these can be best ip red from the commerce of the country, ought to be confidered as intendent merely for a blind, for the purpose of impressing an idea that the period of the failing of their fleet is yet at fome diftance. The decree, however, gives tham the power to act when they will. [See our article of Hague April 20.] We know nothing fo defirable as that the battle should be fought by fea, if we are again to fight for the possession of Ireland. The iffue may be confidently trufted to the valour, skill and discipline of our tars; but it is not certain that Ireland is the point of attack

VERONA, April 6.

On the 4th inft. advice was received here, that the enemy, not yet difficartened by the infuccefsful attacks of the 26th and 30th of March, had collected his whole force between be Adige and the Tartaro, & was feven divifions firing. General Kray determined not to wait for his attack, but to be beforehand with the enemy. With this view he drew together the greater part of his army, in the night between the 4th and 5th, in the vicinity of Verona, and at the break of day marched against the enemy in three columns. He found him, in an advantageous polition between fome marfhy rich fields towards. Rombo-in order to diflodge hun from which, he made a feigned retreat about ten in the morning, which perfectly fucceeded, the enemy eagerly purfuing. An obflinate and bloody action now enfued, which lasted till night, and ended in the entire defeat of the enemy, who loft to pieces of cannon, 11 fian-dards, 30 ammunition waggons, and five thousand five hundred men made prisoners, among whom were 160 officers. They left bove 4000 killed and wounded on the field. of battle, and retreated in the night over the Minico behind Mantua. The lofs of the Auftrians is about 2000 killed and wounded. The light horfe of Lewenohr behaved with extraordinary bravery ; and the greateft emulation prevaled through the whole army. The inhabitants of the country diffinguithed themfelves on this occasion by their patriotilm, the nobility and citizens came with coaches and waggons, to bring the army winc, bread, and other provisions. The greater part of the priloners taken in the battle yesterday, are Cifalpines and Piednontese. We have a report here, though it is not yet confirmed, that early this morning a coumn of the Auffrian army paffed the Mini-co, and after a short relistance took 2000 French prifoners, among whom were 87 offi-cers. The fiege of Pefchiera, in which there s a garrifon of 5000 French, will now be mmediately begun. The Auftrians have. already thrown a great many bombs and grenades into the town.

Yesterday we stopped the press to an-ounce that intelligence had been received at the admiralty of the Breft fleet having put to fea. The account comes from Lord Bridport and was brought to Plymouth by the Do ly cutter of 8 guns. His Lordfhip's dispatches state, that on Friday last it was discovered by his cruifers that the French fleet had come out of Breft harbour, and had fleered to the fonthward. They had taken advantage of a leading eaft wind to come out and a thick fog prevented the Englifh frigates appointed to watch their mo-tions from afcertaing precifely their force, 25 or 26 thips were clearly numbered, but it were not certain whether more than 16 or 17 were thips of the line; 18 thips of the line had been observed in the outer road of Breft harbour feveral days before, but it was not poffible to obferve the exact number that put to fea. Lord Bridport alfo writes that, as the enemy had fleered to the fouthward, he had difpatched a fwift failing veffel to apprize admiral earl St. Vincent of the fact; he had directed feveral frigates to purfue the course they had taken, appointing a rendezous to which they flould repair, or to which they flould fend information, and he himfelf had fet fail to the coaft of Ireland. He was between ten and twelve hours after the French fleet, but equipped as he is with 16 fhips of the line, five of which are three deckers, fully manned, and with a body of officers, fuch as the enemy cannot equal, it is to be hoped that he will intercept them before they can effect a landing on any part of Ireland, if that kingdom be he point of their deffination.

Some fuppole that they may be bound to Cediz, to force out the Spanish fleet; or perhaps to make their threat ned defcent upin Portugal ; or they may be defined to the Mediterranean. It is even fupposed that their object may be to convoy a body of troops to a certain latitude, which are ap-pointed to attempt the reduction of Brazils. But Ireland is most probably the object they have in view. At any rate we may trust that minifters have certain knowledge of their defigns, and that they have taken mea-
