VIENNA, April 19. In Italy the enemy have retreated behind Chiefa, and the Austrian advance guardrextend beyond the Mincio; are before Goito, La Volta and Monzanbano. Peschierra is furrounded—a flotilla is ready to co-operate in in its reduction. Mantua is invested. The post of Lago Sacro is taken. The Auftrians, as they advance, are received by the people with shouts of joy.

THE NEWS

By the Venelia, announces that the Aufirians continue successful over the Frenchand that it is becoming more in their power to command this good fortune. We have made fome extracts from the Irish papers reseived, which we believe will inform ou readers of the most important events which have occurred.

Extract of a letter from a young gentleman in Holland, to his friend in this town, dated June 15.

"We have had the greatest freshet known here these ten years. It was nine feet above high water mark; the damage it has done up the river is inestimable; as the chief pare of the Logs, Timber, &c. hauled out last winter, together with feveral Mills, Milldams, &c. have been deftroyed.

"One Mill on faid River, is supposed to have lost two thousand Logs, together with part of the Mill and Dam.

"The whole lofs may be estimated at 300 000 dollars on the River Kennebeck."

On the 13th inft. in and near Portsmouth, much damage was done by lightning. A ship of Col. LADD's was considerably injured. At Rochester, 4 men were killed. At New-Market a barn was nearly destroyed. At Rye, a new house was struck and the peo-

PHILADELPHIA;

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 26.

the Jacobins-the well meaning people of into the United States. the United States, have only to appreciate their real strength, and to use it properly, to shipwreck the projects of France, as they respect their government and liberties. Their destinies are in their own hands. If their government is to be destroyed, it must be a terdicted the exportation of oats. It is faid felo de fe. Let them therefore banish indebecause he wants a large supply for his ca- cision, and carefully avoid the factions, vices and errors of those countries which have become an easy prey to a nation, whose ambition has no other limits, than had that of Reubel, worthy of his patriotism and piety. Alexander.

> The real republicans are quite outrageous that we should not yield to France, before we have been vanquished by her arms. They think we should not even require a single battle. What excellent patriots, statesmen and beroes, are these real republicans.

> Should France reduce the powers of Europe, and the East, to her obedience; the United States, if they should be found unprepared for a long and obstinate war, will in vain plead their neutrality and rights. What fignifies your neutrality and rights, the Directory or their general, will fay to our remonstrances, as Sylla faid to Mitbridates, " obey, without refistance, the laws which we shall think proper, to impose upon you, or render yourselves stronger than we

There are resemblances between cortain animal tribes and fome of the buman race which have afforded matter of observation for the moralist as well as naturalist. I do not know however, that those between the Vulture and Jacobin have been sufficiently delineated. Vultures are remarkable for voracity and sagacity of nostril. Jacobins predict battles, (see the Aurota passim). Jacobins also, have been known to dwell, with fuch delight on the carnage of French victories, that it was next to impossible to force, them from the repust, (fee also the Aurora). This is the case in a remarkable degree, with Vultures. It is an ancient opinion, that by a prophetic instinct, they have prefages of a battle, and will feek the fpot carrefled and tried for their conduct in of future flaughter, whole days before the event. Pennant in his view of Hindostan, tells us, that after the attack of the Nabob's camp, before the battle of Plassey, in which was made a vast slaughter of men, elephants and horses, Vultures, Jackals and Pariars, or village curs, were feen tearing the fame corpse, or carcass, and that the first (the Vultures) were often fo gorged, that they could not be forced from the spot. So far the refemblance between Vultures and Jacobins, wonderfully coincides. It remains to be afcertained, whether French flesh is equally favoury to Jacobins as German.

> The Aurora of Philadelphia, and that of Richmond in Virginia, still continue to confider French victories, in the light of blessings to mankind, and the former particu. larly, the French Directory, as immaculate patriots, and their greatest benefactors. There is a boldness of finning, however, in the editor of the Aurora, which furpasses, in bare faced devotion to the French cause, almost any thing, that has yet appeared. In the capital of one of the most important States in the union, this man has had the unparalleled effrontery to attempt to organize a company of armed men, and to prescribe insignia for them, altogether gallick. As the American foldiers wear black hat's, he directs his company to wear white bats; as a Gock is an emblem of the French, he orders them to wear cocks neck feathers; as a small eagle on a large black ground, is the American cockade, he requires a large silver eagle to be mounted on a very small black ground, to flew as much as possible, by his regulations, a contempt of the national military insignia.

The Editor of the Aurora, in order to reconcile his readers to French conquests, and a successive augmentation of their territory, and power, would infinuate that a balance of strength, between two nations, is no wife conducive to keep them within due bounds, or repress ambition. Alas! how dreadful are the examples to the contrary; and to what ambitious and horrid purpofes, has France employed the preponderancy fine has already acquired. Can we then be reconciled to a further extension of her conquests? Can we to foon overlook the fate of Genca and Venice, or the uses the invariably makes of every new conquest? > Shall we not hear the Aurora mourn for Switzerland, from whence, it is very probable, the French are, or will be, driven Lavater, the pious rector of Zurich, will not join in these lamentations. When he faw peace, bappiness and liberty torn from his defenceless countrymen, his zeal for these bleffings got the better of every other confideration, and produced a remonstrance to In this he tells the Director, that the errors in the government of Switzerland were not so great as they were faid to be, and that if they had been greater, the Siviss were an independent nation, and the French had no right to impose a constitution on them, by the force of the bayonet. It was too, he tells us, after having subdued, ravaged and plundered Berne, Fribourgh and Soleure, they required from his countrymen of Zurich, an assent to the New-Constitution, in a violent, peremtory tone, in the language of robbers, blood or money; acceptance or war; and notwithstanding their promise, that not a fous thould be demanded, " they had the impudence to exact three millions of
