By the short and pleasant road of Buffleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springsfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populoufners of the country through which it paffer, with fundry other advantages, which render it fo far preferable to the Old Road through Briftol, Brunfwick, &c. long ago fuggefied the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough Fare from Philadelphia to New York.

During the prefert were a minute furter of its rough Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the present year, a minute survey of it has been taken, and its superiority over the Old Road, both in winter and summer, has been clearly ascertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the crossing is performed with great safety and in less than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is several miles shorter than the old road, but this is among a the least of its advantages, because daily experience proves to us, that dispatch as well as confort in travelling principally depend on the goodness of the road and the levelness of the country, and, in these respects, the New Road. sonnery, and, in these respects, the New Road s, beyond all comparsion, the best. It presents none of those rocky hills, which render the Old s, beyond all comparison, and none of thole refeks hills, which render the Old Road fo fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The foil, too, for the greater part, is the has to produce but little mud in winter, and very little wift in fummer, which circumflance, added to the beauty of the country, and a confiderable proportion of shade, must always render travelling in the latter scalon peculiarly addressed by a produce but little mud in winter, and a confiderable proportion of standard confiderable proportion of standard by a produce but little mud in winter, and a confiderable proportion of standard by a produce but little mud in winter, and a confiderable proportion of standard by a produce but little mud in winter, and weeks.
