

Foreign Intelligence.

ZURICH, October 16. The reserve of the French army has made a movement. General Massena, apprehensive that Prince Charles, who advanced with his army into the Brigaw, would attempt to turn us at Basle, has just sent the reserve to protect the Rhine on that point.

On the night of the 14th, General Massena arrived here, and had a conference with the French Ministers. Several circumstances inclining us to believe that the object of the conference was to impose a contribution on all Helvetia. Perrelet, the Minister, is not probably so much attached to that measure as Massena, or the Adjutant General, Delavoy, set out immediately for Paris.

SCHWATZINGEN, Oct. 29. Lecourbe arrived here to-day, and has published an energetic proclamation to the army. Phillipsburg is again besieged by the republicans, who have carried the entrenchments which flanked the right of that place.

PARIS, October 30. The Chouans are still marching their columns from commune to commune, but are very careful of stopping at those where they are well received.

FALMOUTH, October 28. Arrived this morning from off Brest, the Lurher cutter, J. Betts master, being attached to a squadron of frigates under the command of Captain Cunningham in the Clyde.

PLYMOUTH, October 31. The dollars taken aboard the San Brigada and El Thetis, Spanish frigates, have been landed and lodged in the citadel at this place under an escort of the military.

PHILADELPHIA, MONDAY EVENING, JANUARY 27.

PITTSBURG ADDRESS.

To Thomas M'Keen, Governor elect of Pennsylvania.

SIR, FROM the verge and green end of the State we salute you. In your elevation, we see age honoured, services rewarded, talents employed, integrity trusted, and worth estimated.

Your gradual and mature advance to the highest place of dignity has given you experience, fits your own mind for the duty, and 'tis agreeable to the natural order of things. The services of half a century, at the bar, in the field, in the senate, in the cabinet, and on the bench, in public charities, in private goodby counsel or by purse, has received acknowledgment by the vote of the people. Powers of mind naturally strong and highly cultivated, are preserved in vigor by a change of duty, refreshed by a difference of office and selected by a great state to execute her laws. Since ity in words and actions; honor and probity in private dealings; unimpeached and an unimpeachable degree of public trust, is chosen to secure confidence.

General worth of character justifies the promotion and is a lesson to youth, and an example to manhood, that, to the temple of honor amongst us, as amongst the Romans we go through that of virtue.

In your elevation we see a choice uninfluenced by expectants of office, holders of stock in the funds, great wealth; but carried against all these; a proof that Public Spirit like a giants has arisen from her numbers; that the quicksands of speculation are past; that the mass of the people govern; that equable industry and successful services will alone lead to estate and preferment; and that the day is not far distant when the letter of Marcei will be inscribed on a monument as a testimony of a wife man against degenerate times.

What is more in your elevation, we see a revival of the whig spirit peculiarly necessary at this period, when the dangers of '76, and from the same foe, seem imminent, and our independence is again menaced by the Queen of Isles and the Leviathan of the Ocean.

Taking our leave of you, we wish you health, and we pray God to preserve you during the period for which you are elected, and give you life for that which you are eligible—the father of your family and of the state, a terror to evil doers, and praise to them that do well.

This address is made to you on behalf of a number at this place as their committee.

Samuel Ewalt, H. H. Brackenridge, Nathaniel Irish, Andrew Richardson, Addison Tannehill, George Robinson, Ephraim Jones. Pittsburg, November 22, 1799.

To messrs. Ewalt, Brackenridge, Irish, Richardson, Tannehill, Robinson and Jones, a committee on behalf of a number of citizens of Pittsburg.

Gentlemen, THE cordial salutation which you have presented on behalf of my friends in Pittsburg upon the event of the late election has peculiar claims to attention and respect.—The distance of the scene; the little intercourse that I have enjoyed with its inhabitants; and the fair advantage possessed by my competitor from personal and local considerations must enhance the merit of your attachment and eliven the sense of my obligation.

It is true that I have lived long and endeavoured to Live Well; but I am conscious that much still remains to be done to entitle me to the encomium which you have eloquently pronounced. On the principles however that have hitherto actuated my public conduct, I promise to persevere in the service of my country—manifesting my gratitude for the station which she has conferred upon me in the Temple of Honor by my veneration and solicitude for her Peace, Liberty and Independence.

Assure our fellow citizens, gentlemen, that it will be a favourite object of my administration to promote the prosperity of this state, (the great mart of our western commerce.) And accept of my best thanks for your personal kindnads.

I am, Gentlemen, Your obliged friend and humble servant, THOMAS M'KEAN, Lancaster, December 8, 1799.

On Friday the 3d instant, the joint committee of the Senate and House of Representatives of this state, appointed to visit the Pennsylvania Hospital, made the following report.

The committee appointed to join a committee of the Senate, and visit the Pennsylvania Hospital, made report, which was read as follows, viz.

That they have performed that service December 24th last, and found the apartments very clean and in good order.

The committee had the satisfaction to observe from the annual accounts, that the capital stock at interest has increased this year four hundred and twenty seven pounds one shilling and eight pence, and that it now amounts to twenty thousand eight hundred and five pounds thirteen shillings and ten pence.

The legacies and contributions of the last year, are four hundred and ninety one pounds sixteen shillings.

The museum is just improved by several valuable anatomical preparations, and a remittance of two hundred pounds sterling, is on its way to London to enrich the Library, the funds for which are raised by young students who pay for the privilege of attending the practice of the house and for the use of the books.

There have been received into the Hospital in the course of the year, one hundred and ninety five patients, viz. eighty seven poor and one hundred and eight pay, of whom sixteen were lunatic. Of these 63 were cured, 9 relieved, 32 died, 6 were taken by their friends, 6 eloped, 1 sent to the City Hospital with the yellow fever, 73 remain, of whom 54 are lunatics.

In addition to these, it appears that three hundred and two poor out-patients have been attended at their private dwellings with medicine and advice. 224 of them have been cured, 13 relieved, 17 died, 4 removed to the City Hospital with the yellow fever, 2 taken by their friends, 4 returned to other physicians, 1 delivered in child bed, 37 remain under care.

At the time the committee visited the Hospital, there were seventy one patients in it, viz. thirty poor and forty one pay.

Of whom— 2 were from England, 1 France, 6 Scotland, 6 Germany, 16 Ireland, 1 Virginia, 5 Jersey, 16 Philadelphia, 2 County of Philadelphia, 16 other counties of this commonwealth.

All of these are comfortably provided for and well taken care of.

Boederer assures us, that the Son of LA Fayette fought in the advanced guard in Batavia under General Brune, against the Anglo-Russians. Paris Paper.

Married, on Thursday evening last, Capt. William Ross to Mrs. Rachel Hazelwood, both of this city.

NEW-YORK, January 25.

Yesterday morning arrived here, the United States ship of war Portsmouth, Capt. M'Neil, mounting 24 guns, from a 12 months cruise; during which time she has lost only two men, the surgeon, of a consumption, and a marine officer, of a fever. The Portsmouth, perhaps, has been one of the most useful vessels on the West-India station, having conveyed three different fleets of valuable American vessels from Surinam besides picking up a number of marauding boats which proved very destructive to our commerce. There is hardly a navigable place amongst the islands where the Portsmouth has not been.—She left Porto Rico the 5th inst.—is to pay off her crew in this port, and prepare for another cruise. On her anchoring she saluted the town.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, January 24.

Report of the committee on the message of the President, together with the letter of Mr. Randolph.

Mr. Smith moved the recommitment of the report to a committee, on account of some improper reflections and censure on the stile and application of Mr. Randolph.

The second, third and fourth paragraphs of the report we think proper to reinsert because of the references made to them in the debate.

On the stile of the letter to the President, referred to the consideration of the committee, they formed any other remark, than to express their regret that a member of the house, has conceived himself justified in deviating from the forms of decorum customary in official communications to the chief magistrate of the United States, justly due to his office and character, and essential to that harmony between the different branches of the government which should be circumspectly cherished by their respective members.

In Mr. Randolph's letter, he states that for words of a general nature, uttered in debate, in the House of Representatives, a proposition for reducing the army, he had been publicly and grossly insulted, by several persons, officers of the army or navy, and demands of the executive authority, redress for an attack on his independence and rights as a legislator.

Your committee being of opinion that the matter of complaint respects the privileges of the House, inherent in its own body; and there exclusively cognizable, cannot but consider the appeal in this instance to the executive authority, however otherwise intended, as derogatory from those rights of the House, with which are intimately connected, both its honor and independence, and the inalienability of its members.

Mr. Rutledge did not know whether the gentleman from Maryland meant to refer it
