

TAKE THIS Paper with you to the Election House.

Poor men, look Here!!

The whole Locofoco artillery is at this time directed against poor men who have had the misfortune to fail in their business, great or small, and whose poverty has compelled them to seek protection against wealthy, merciless, grinding creditors, in the laws of their country. Every man who has availed himself of the Bankrupt act, whatever the causes of his failure—whether through losses by fire or otherwise—whether he be halt or maimed—and however he may be laboring night and day, and straining every nerve and muscle to pay his debts as fast as he can—is denounced by the Locofoco leaders as a scoundrel and rascal. It is but one mode for rendering poor men odious; for the Bankrupt act is merely the pretext, the prostitution of the poor man the object. The denunciation is just as great against men who have availed themselves of the State insolvent laws, for it is against all who are not able to pay "every dollar" they owe. Think of this, ye poor men, when you go to the election! The Locofoco leaders—the men who have their thousands—who own their houses, their lands, their stores, and who can wear their silk stockings and silk gloves—whether acquired honestly or dishonestly, would point the finger of scorn at you because you may have been unfortunate and are too poor to pay "every dollar" just when some unfeeling, silk-stocking wretch of a creditor may demand it of you. It is not enough that you are contending with poverty—you must be insulted for it into the bargain. These men, about election times generally make great professions of friendship for the poor, but sometimes happen to show the cloven foot, as they have in this instance; for the evidence of which we refer you to the Somerset Visitor. Procure it and read for yourselves, and then say whether you are ready and willing to support the candidates of a set of men who would proscribe every man that happens to be poor?

Charge! Charge!

"Charge!" is the battle-cry of the Locofoco leaders. It is their only weapon, and they use it freely, as all can attest. In this consists their tact in political warfare. No matter how mean, how low, how destitute of truth, still they "charge." Convict them by proof the most positive, of having uttered a falsehood, they never retract it; but "charge" anew. And as fast as you dispose of their "charges," they manufacture others. "Charge! charge!" is still their cry.

Tell them that they made false "charges" against Henry Clay, and they turn away with a grin, and the next moment "charge" upon somebody else. Tell them that they swindled Pennsylvania out of her electoral vote in 1844 by means of the Kane letter, and they answer you with a "charge" upon the Whigs. Tell them again, that their party has carried on a system of plundering on the public works for years, and their answer again is some "charge." Remind them of the highhanded measures of Polk's administration—of destroying the Tariff and involving the country in war, and you will be sure to be answered with a "charge." Such are the weapons with which they fight their battles. Destitute of principle and regardless of all truth, they seek only to gain power by "charging" upon their opponents, but never stand up to defend their own measures. What confidence can honest men place in such leaders.

Whigs, to the Polls! To the Polls!

To such of our Whig readers as receive this paper in time, we would say once more, TURN OUT TO THE ELECTION! THE PHILISTINES ARE UPON YOU! The Locofoco leaders have been engaged for weeks in drumming up their men and will be out in full force! Arouse! Arouse! This election is an all-important one. It will decide whether the people of Pennsylvania sanction Polk's mode of carrying on the war—whether they approve of having their fellow citizens killed by thousands and tens of thousands, and the nation's money spent by hundreds of millions, to gratify the ambition of James K. Polk, who commenced the war on his own hook to gain popularity, and who has sent our officers and soldiers into the heart of Mexico, to be killed off in detail until but a mere handful is left, and which if they escape captivity or death, will owe their preservation to their own skill and bravery. Remember that every man that votes for Shunk and the other Locofoco candidates, thereby sanctions Polk's miserable proceedings in the war; for Shunk and his partisans are the warm supporters of James K. Polk.

The Public Works.

We would once more remind our readers of the fact, that the reason why they are every year paying State taxes is, that the Canals and Railroads have been grossly mismanaged by Locofoco Governors and Canal Commissioners, and that those taxes will never cease until they elect another set of men. Go, therefore, to the election, and vote for IRVIN and PATTON.

FROM MEXICO.

On the 7th, Gen. Herrera, as commandant of the city of Mexico, addressed the clergy, exhorting them to exert all their influence to incite the people to arm themselves and prepare to resist the Americans.

Following up events as closely as the somewhat disconnected accounts will permit, in the order in which they occurred, we find that on the 8th Gen. Scott attacked the Mill del Rey, or King's Mill, in the immediate vicinity of Chapultepec, and, according to the Diario del Gobierno and the Boletin, published at Atlixco, our army was repulsed after a severe conflict, in which we lost about 400 in killed and from 600 to 700 in wounded, and fell back upon Tacubaya. We give below a translation of the Boletin's description of the engagement, premising that the reader will bear in mind it is, in all probability, a great exaggeration, if not an entire misrepresentation:

FROM THE BOLETIN, EXTRA, OF SEPT. 9.

At half past 5 o'clock this morning (the 8th) the fire commenced on the two flanks of Chapultepec. The left was resting on the mill of El Rey, close to the forest of Chapultepec. This point was commanded by Gen. Leon, and under his order were the battalion of Mina, whose colonel was the patriotic and gallant Balderas, and the battalions Union and La Patria, of Oajaca, in one of which were included the companies of Puebla, also a body from Queretaro and some others—all composing the National Guard. The right flank rested on the houses of Mata, at the distance of a quarter of a league from Chapultepec, and occupied by 1,500 of the regular army, commanded by Gen. Perez. The enemy in two columns, with his usual daring, attacked these posts—first with artillery, and at a quarter to 6 with a rapid fire of musketry.

Gen. Perez sustained the fire very well for about half an hour, when, for causes at present unknown, he retired with his forces, although he had not lost ten men. The retreat must have been fatal for Mexico, if, fortunately, Gen. Leon and his brigade had not shown prodigies of valor. Twice he repulsed the column that attacked him, and in the second he sallied from his position to recover the artillery Gen. Perez had lost; but then he received a mortal wound, and a few moments afterwards the valiant Balderas was also wounded, and died on the field. The enemy with additional forces again charged and took possession of the mill. Twice he was dislodged, but on his retaking it the third time, it was found impossible to bring our troops to the charge.

In spite of these two advantages which they had gained in their endeavors to attack Chapultepec, they could not effect a further advance, which may be owing to their being intimidated by the resistance of our forces and the considerable loss they had suffered. The result was that at 9 o'clock in the morning the fire of small arms had nearly ceased, and they were seen employed in collecting their killed and wounded. At 11 o'clock the enemy announced a retrograde movement, and by 2 in the afternoon he withdrew all his forces to Tacubaya, abandoning the two points he had occupied and blowing up the house of Mata, although some say it was set on fire by a bomb fired from Chapultepec. It is believed that Gens. Twigg and Pierce directed the attack, and that they put in motion about 8,000 men.

HARVEST WITHOUT PREVIOUS SOWING.

We find in the Schnellpost an account of a method of compelling the wheat plant to become perennial, like grass, and to perfect its grain annually, without annual sowing of seed, which has been successfully practiced at Constance in Germany. It was discovered by a steward of an estate named Kern. His method, after plowing and manuring the land and sowing it with summer or winter wheat, is to mow it in the spring, before the ear makes its appearance. This process is repeated several times in the season; and the product is used as hay. The plant is then allowed to grow and be cut in the ordinary way. The next year it ripens earlier.

SLANDER.—It is a poor soul that cannot bear slander. No decent man can get along without it—at least, none who are engaged in the business pursuits of life. Have you had a bad fellow in your employment and discharge him—he goes round and slanders you; let your conduct be such as to excite the envy of another, he goes round and slanders you. In fine, we would not give a cent for a person who is not slandered—he is either a milkop or a fool. No, no, earn a bad name by a bad fellow, (and you can easily do so by correct conduct), it is the only way to prove you entitled to a good one.

Col. Fremont has addressed a letter to the Adjutant General, reporting himself under arrest, and requesting a speedy trial. He desires that "the public mind may have something to rest upon, in answer to the accusations made against him, until the trial shall enable them to make their own decision." The charges made against him, he says:—

"Are so general and extensive as to cover the whole field of my operations in California, both civil and military, from the beginning to the end of hostilities; and as my operations, and those of which I was the subject or object, extend to almost every act and event which occurred in the country during the eventful period of those hostilities, the testimony on my trial will be the history of the conquest of California, and the exposition of the policy which has been heretofore pursued there, and the elucidation of that which should be followed hereafter. It will be the means of giving valuable information to the government, which it might not otherwise be able to obtain, and thus enlighten it both with respect to the past and the future. Being a military subordinate, I can make no report, not even of my own operations; but my trial may become a report, and bring to the knowledge of the government what it ought to know, not only with respect to the conduct of its officers, but also in regard to the policy observed, or necessary to be observed, with regard to the three-fold population (Spanish Americans, Anglo Americans, and aboriginal Americans) which that remote province contains. Viewed under these aspects of public interest, my own personal concern in the trial—already sufficiently grave—acquires an additional and public importance; and for these high objects, as well as to vindicate my own character from accusations both capital and infamous, it is my intention to require and to promote the most searching examination into every thing that has been done in that quarter."

"Few know the treasures in their own bosom—very few the elasticity and capacity of a well-regulated mind for enjoyment. The whole world of philosophers, and historians and poets, seem, to the secluded student, but to have labored for his pleasure; and as he comes to one new truth and beautiful thought after another, there answers a chord of joy, richer than music, in his heart—which spoils him for the coarser pleasures of the world.—The mind is like the appetite—when healthy and well-toned, receiving pleasure from the commonest food; but becoming diseased, when pampered and neglected. Give it time to turn upon itself, satisfy its restless thirst for knowledge, and it will give birth to health, to animal spirits, to every thing which invigorates the body, while it is advancing by every step the capacities of the soul. Oh! if the runners after pleasure would stoop down by the wayside, they might drink waters even better than those which they see only in their dreams. They will not be told that they have in their possession the golden key which they covet; they will not know that the music they seek to enchant them, is sleeping in their untouched instruments; that the lamp which they ask from the enchanter, is burning within their own bosoms!"—WILLIS.

A STRANGE CASE.—The Boston Traveller says:—A young girl has lately been brought to this city for the purpose of eminent medical treatment, who has been suffering for several years with a strange infirmity. It is a noise in the throat, loud and distinct, and sounds like the striking of two metals together, or castnets used by boys in the street. The noise is without intermission, save perhaps a few minutes occasionally. As yet the cause of the noise has not been ascertained, or any means found to abate the disorder, which so far has been on a gradual increase. It is totally distinct from the motion of the lungs, while breathing, and altogether is one of those cases which are beyond the ken of human wisdom.
