An Unsuccessful Small Force, Baltimore, July 1.—A small force of the enemy appeared on Wednesday near Harper's Ferry, but was promptly captured by General Sigel, with every prospect of capture.

No trains or property of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad have been touched, and there is no enemy now upon or near the line.

The passenger and freight trains are running with safety and regularity. The military guard upon the road is very large and reliable.

The Stock Market opened very weak this morning, with sales of leading stocks a decline of 2 per cent. from yesterday's prices.

The resignation of Secretary Chase is still agitating the minds of financiers, opinions as to its effect upon the Stock Market being as varied as the characters of the men who utter them.

The Wheat Market is unsettled, and we have no sales of 200 bushels of Pennsylvania red at 82¢, and 200 bushels of prime Kentucky white at 81¢.

"MONTREY, June 8, 1864.—Editor of the Era.—Thinking you wish to know what is passing in this part of the country, I am sending you some news.

Several officers were taken prisoners and shot. Among them was an American by the name of Rodgers.

The French commander, Colonel Lamar, said that the Yankees have no right to meddle in the Mexican question.

General Doblado arrived here safe on the 3d, and had a long private interview with Colonel de Borden.

THE UNION TROOPS HOLD THE WELDON RAILROAD.

DISASTER AND BRAVADO OF HUNTER—WHAT HE AND HIS OFFICERS SAID.

General Hunter, Cook, Averill, and Sullivan put up with Major Hunter, about four miles from town, where they were surrounded by rebel forces.

Major Hunter, being in command, was well acquainted with Hunter, and talked freely to him respecting his expedition.

When Major Hunter informed him that it would be no easy task to take our people, in the last resort, would return to the Heights and fire upon them.

On Saturday night they took their meal at the same board in perfect silence.

General Hunter, after supper, very moody and remarking to Miss Hutter that the battle of Lynchburg would be one of the bloodiest records of this war for the time it lasted.

After the melancholy supper referred to, Hunter and Major Hunter, who they wanted to hold a council.

Some of the Yankee soldiers repaid the hospitality of Major Hunter by plundering Miss Hunter's chamber, searching trunks and drawers, and carrying away various ornaments and valuables.

Some ninety odd wounded Yankees were left in Major Hunter's hospital.

THE VIRGINIA AND TENNESSEE ROAD. The damage done by the Yankees to the Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, while not fully ascertained, is reported to be very heavy.

THE SCENE OF DESOLATION AND RUIN IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF THIS CITY, where the Yankees, rather than their line of battle, is positively appalling.

THE ENEMY WERE OUT OF RATIONS, and the chief commissary told us on Saturday morning that they were out of rations.

THE ENEMY WERE STRIPPED OF EVERYTHING, including their horses, mules, and pack animals.

THE DISCHARGE OF MUSKETRY were plainly heard by persons residing in the suburbs in that portion of the city.

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

RESIGNATION OF MR. CHASE.

SEMI-OFFICIAL VIEWS.

REORGANIZATION OF THE CABINET.

OPINIONS OF THE PUBLIC PRESS.

INKLINGS OF THE CAUSE.

Special to the Evening Telegraph. WASHINGTON, July 1.—In my last dispatch I stated that Governor Tod's name was withdrawn.

It is said upon pretty good authority that Senator Sherman would decline the position were it offered him.

A name will probably be sent to the Senate at noon to-day, as the President is aware of the importance of prompt action.

The Clerical, in a leading editorial, noticing the resignation of Mr. Chase, concludes as follows: "We know that Secretary Chase enjoys the confidence of the people to an unusual degree."

"That there should be a reorganization of the Cabinet the National Convention has virtually decided, and almost the unanimous sentiment of the country avouches."

The National Intelligencer, generally supposed to speak the views of Secretary Seward, says, in a leading editorial: "The announcement we are sure will be received by the country with equal surprise and regret."

"It is known, that yesterday was the termination of the fiscal year for 1863 and 1864, and Mr. Chase has, therefore, been able to close the administration of his office with the close of the year."

"But we believe we run no risk of misstatement when we say that this determination was brought about by a difference of opinion between the President and Secretary with regard to the appointment of certain officers connected with the Treasury Department."

"Yet these overgrowing and never-relaxing demands have been met with a firmness of resolve which is sorely taxing his ingenuity."

"It is not considered by any one here that the changes that are now being made in the Cabinet will in any manner affect our present military plans."

"The Secretary has been able to make a good face against the ever-accumulating mass of responsibilities entailed by the assumption of which, to the substantial loss of his colleagues in the Government or the Executive, but for the payment of which he was expected to provide."
