

or better... Monday, July 18, 1884. SOMEBODY'S DARLING. Into a room of the whitewashed halls...

God knows best! He has somebody's love; Somebody's heart enshrined him there...

DIFFERENT MODES OF BURYING THE DEAD.

American and European Cemeteries. Much might be said of our own cemeteries, several of which are truly very beautiful...

It is worthy to remark that our cemeteries are modeled on those of England, but those of the Continent are more strikingly remarkable...

That the ministers of the most wealthy churches in Philadelphia are so much more interested in the graves of the rich than in those of the poor...

As for burning, it is not a religious doctrine, but a matter of convenience. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

cheese, and powdered ginger and cinnamon... The French truly know what it is when they stimulate their appetites...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

HENRY APPLE, GAUGER AND COOPER, No. 308 S. WATER STREET. Below Walnut street.

PHILADELPHIA. Induction of Gold and Silver Coins, and all kinds of work made of Gold and Silver always on hand...

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

DENN STRAM ENGINE AND BOILER WORKS. No. 112 WALNUT STREET. Below Market street.

BRIDGEBURG MACHINE WORKS, OFFICE, No. 65 N. FRONT STREET, PHILADELPHIA. We are prepared to do any kind of work...

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

PHILADELPHIA, WILMINGTON AND BALTIMORE RAILROAD. CHAIRS OF HOBS. On and after Monday, June 10, 1884.

THE CHILDREN OF ARNOLD, THE TRAITOR.

Mr. Arnold, wife of Benedict Arnold, died in London in 1804, in her 74th year. Her children, Mr. Sabine, in his new edition of the American Loyalist...

As for the question of the most proper mode of burial, it is a question which is not a question to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...

It is to be regretted that the most beautiful of our cemeteries are not better cared for than they are. It is a subject which is not a subject to be treated with the same indifference...