THE SABBATH QUESTION.

The Sabbath a Moral Law.

To the Editor of the Evening Telegraph:-The next historical notice of the law is in Exodus. xvi, 1;- 'The children of Israel came unto the wilderness of sin, which is between Klim and Sinat." This was before the giving of the law at Sina; for we learn in Numbers axxiii, that there were four removals of the camp, viz., Dophkah, Alush, Bephidim, and Suni, before they came to the Mount-It was here in the wilderness of Sin, they murmured for bread and the manna was given. Just one month passed from their departure from Rameses (see Numbers xxxii), 8), on the 15th day of the first month, and on the 15th day of the second month they came into the wilderness of sin (Exodus xvi, 1). And, "In the third month, when the children of Target had gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day they came unto the wilderness of Sinai.' Exodus xix, 1. The same day, that is, the fifteenth day. At the very least, therefore, the rain of manna took place a month before the thunders of Sinni were heard. Of this bread from heaven the people gathered an homer for each person each day, except on the sixth day they gath red two homers for each person. The rulers reported this matter to Moses, 'And he said unto them, this is that which the Lord hath said, to-morrow is the rest of the Holy Sabbath unto the Lord; bake that which ye will bake to-day. and seethe that ye will seethe." Exodus xvi, 23, 25, "And Moses said, Eat that to-day, for to-day is a Sabbath unto the Lord; to-day ye shall not find it in the field. Six days ye shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is the Sabbath, in it there shall be none." On this remark-

1. In their bondage condition for two hundred and ten years, it is not conceivable that the people could enjoy their Sablath rest and keep up the regular system of worship and instruction which belongs properly to "the Sabbath which was made for man;" those sweet rests and loyous sones of praise, and heavenly instructions by their Elders (for they had Elders even in Egypt, Exodus iii, 16, "Go and gather the Eiders of Israel together;" and xii, 21; and xvii, 5, etc). The oppression which doomed a l their male children to death, likewise the oppression which dooms a man to work in a printing office or on a railroad car seventeen hours per day for seven days in the week, must have well nigh crushed out all knowledge of the holy day, as it cut off the poor people from all opportunity to worship their God and to receive instruction from their Eiders.

2. This miracle of the manna is mannestly de signed, as it is admirably adapted, to teach the people the blessedness or the Sabbath day. It teaches (1), That they have a right, a franchise from the God of heaven, to cease from labor one day in seven. No Egyptian taskmaster (no printer or railroad company) may stand over them to enforce labor on the Sabbath. No dire necessity any longer to toil all day at the brick-kiln, the printing-office, or the cars. Total abstinence from toil is required. "Bake that which ye will bake to-day." Evidently the Hebrew in the wilderness was a freer man than the bakers are to-day in Philadelphia. Freedom from labor, and liberty to worship God unmolested, have made so little progress in 3757 years! Such is the despotism of Mammon! (2) That the people are not to sit in idleness, or run wild in excess of plays and sports. "See, for that the Lord hath given you the Sabbath." "Abide ye every man in his place; let no man go out of his place on the seventh day. So the people rested on the seventh day." They kept the day "holy unto the LORD." The only sense, as we have seen, in which time can be kept holy, is the performance of holy exercises of God's worship. "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day."

3. This transaction, as a whole, is not the enact ment of a new statute, but the resuscitation of an old one. Our statute book exhibits an analogous case, The act of 1705 was called up and re-enacted in 1794 and again in 1845. If we had only the lex non scripta, the cases would have been more alike. They are, however, alike in another respect, viz , some ap pendages are added, as we shall see in another place. Now, we insist that this has not the form and appearance of a new law, "This is that which the LORD hath said. To morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath unto the LORD." If a colporteur take his station near some depot, where the crowd is hurrying off to worship God in the country, and should raise his voice and say. This is the Sabbath to be kept holy unto the LORD, and here are little books suitable for the LORD's day," would be be considered in the light of a legislator enacting a new statute? Thus our LORD himself speaks:-"A new commandment give I unto you, That ye love one another:" but John I, Epis. ii. 7, speaking of the very same law of love, says:-"I write no new commandment unto you, but an o'd commandment, which ye had from the beginning." Here is no inconsistency :- "He that leveth not his brother, abideth in death."

4. We must remember this transaction occurred a whole month before this same Sabbatic law, but with more detail, was enacted again at Sinai. So our Legislature act continually. A large amount of their acts contain, and are an enactment of some principle of the Decalogue. They can decree no penal enactment but they borrow their principle from some one or more of the Ten Commandments. THEOPHILES.

-In a church of Nottingham, England, a few Surdays ago, an insane man suddenly left his seat, jumped over the chancel rails, and began addressing the congregation in a wild manner. He had to be removed by force.

-The Town Council of Doncaster, England, have received as a gift from the building com-mittee the church of St. George, one of the most magnificent of recent English ecclesiastical structures. It was begun in 1858, and cost £43,128 15s. 6d. The organ cost £3500.

-Each of the five great confectioners in Par. sells on an average four thousand pounds worth of bonbons during the last week of the year, for the confection of which delicacies no less than twelve thousand loaves of sugar are melted. and ninety-five thousand kilogrammes of pistachio nuts pounded.

-Brigandage in Italy is becoming much reduced. Only two hundred and ninety-two brigands now remain in the southern provinces, and of these one hundred and fifty are cooped up in the province of Terra di Lanoro, abutting on pontifical territory. Of the seventeen pro-vinces in the South, six are quite free from brigandage, and in three the marauders are but ten in number. -A few weeks ago a Mr. Leonard Dufour, residing in London, gave a party on the occasion of the marriage of his daughter, and about nine o'clock Mrs. Dufour was waltzing with the bride groom, when she was observed to laugh in an hysterical manner and make for an ante-room, the entrance to which she had just gained when she fell lifeless into the arms of her daughter. Her death is attributed to disease of the heart.

-Marcello (Duchess of Colonna) has lately executed a bust of the Empress Eugenie, ordered by the Council of the city of Paris, and intended to be placed at the Hotel de Ville. The Duchess had several sittings from the Empress during her recent visit to Complegne, and the result, it is reported, "even exceeds in purity of outline and boldness of design the Gorgon and the Bianca Capella, which are so well known in the world of art."

MATTERS OVER THE RIVER.

THE WATER WORKS QUESTION,-The purchase of the Water Works by the city is the all-absorbing topic, and public sentiment is being extensively canvassed. Next Thursday evening the City Councils will meet to receive the report of Mr. Berkenbine, who has been em-ployed to ascertain the value of the machinery, and to give such other information as may lead to a just valuation of the property. The original cost of the machinery, iron pipe, and all other articles necessary to a supply of water can scarcely be a correct basis upon which to decide its present valuation. Since the works have been in operation, real estate, machinery, iron pipe, and all other implements have nearly doubled in value, especially non pipe, which is perhaps three times more costly. Be that as it may, there seems to be a general desire to place the works in the ownership of the city for various reasons.

The growth of the city demands a larger sup-The growth of the city demands a larger sup-ply of water than heretofore furnished lor pub-lic and private use. While the domestic wants are but poorly supplied, the Fire Department is rendered dangerously inefficient. Our costly steam engines are really no additional safeguards against the destruction of property without a better supply of water; and the annual appropria-tions made to the different companies must, in a measure, be thrown away, unless the city furnish all the necessary facilities to enable the department to meet public expectation. We have an active and energetic firemen's organization second to none, and none are more chagrined than they when their best efforts are randered futile at a fire. Nor is it likely, should the Water Works be retained by its present owners, that they will make the necessary outlay to in prove and enlarge the works to the extent demanded by our rapidity increasing population.
If vested in the city, every voter would have a voice to enforce such improvements as would satisfy the needs of the city; and the taxpayers could thus exact supplies, and make their public servants adopt such measures for purification as would meet their approbation.

A PLEASING CHANGE.-Travellers on the West Jersey railroads cannot but notice the pleasing change effected by the fine improvements progressing throughout that whole section of country. The present is a busy time with many, who are clearing bush land, and fell-ing trees in the extensive forests, where trees were suffered to reach an enormous growth, for the want of facilities to bring wood and timber to market. While making a recent trip to Salem, we noticed many "boys in blue" wielding the axe and grubbing-hoe, clearing and preparing acres for spring cultivation, while carpenters were framing houses, and farmers were ditching and tiling the low lands, Immense piles of cord wood are to be seen on the route, as well as at the different depots, at most of which new buildings are route. going up. At Salem the spirit of improvement is manifest throughout the city. In addition to the new glass works which will be built the coming spring, an oil cloth manufactory and other usiness establishments will be constructed. everal new and attractive residences will soon be finished, and the whole city gives evidence of rapid improvement in business and population. The efficiency of Mr. Van Renssalaer, the Superntendent of the West Jersey Railroad, and Judge Yorke, the Treasurer, has inaugurated a dis-cipline and furnished facilities which make it second to none in the State for public accommodation. The differences between the present evidences of prosperity and past stagnation cannot escape the eye of the most casual observer.

JANUARY FINANCES.-The financial collections for January were as follows:-North Ward-school tax, $104'85; special tax, $46; city and ward purposes, $844.66; leaving uncollected, $11,147.60. RECIPROCAL KINDNESS.—About a week ago the proprietor of one of our most prominent silk and dry goods stores on Chesnut street was united in the bonds of matrimony to an accomplished and highly attractive young lady of Delaware. The lady employes of the esta-blishment, previous to his departure on his weddding tour, presented to him, as a congratulatory token, a magnificent silver bowl, appro-priately inscribed. Next day the gentleman, through his cashier, communicated to the ladies a request that each should select, as a present for herself, the handsomest silk dress she could find in the store; and the gendemen were given carte blanche each to order for himself the finest broadcloth coat he could procure, with instructions to send the bill for set-tlement to the cashier. Such cases of reciprocal good feeling are worthy of all commendation.

ARRIVAL OF REGIMENTS .- This morning the 195th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers arrived in this city from the South, and proceeded to Camp Cadwalader, where they will be paid off and mustered out of the service. This regiment was organized July 25, 1864, for one bundred days. They were under the command of Colonel Joseph W. Fisher and Lieutenant-Colonel William L. Bear. The regiment was mustered out on the 4th of November, 1864, whereupon one battalion re-enlisted for one

The park is easily accessible by the Ridge avenue cars.

BUILDING PERMITS .- The number o building permits is ned for the past month, although small, is an increase over the same time last year. For the month ending yest rday the perissued were as tollows:-Dwellings, 30, o which nine were three-story, eighteen two-story and three one-story; dye-house 1; factories, 2 offices, 2; shed., 2; stores, 1; stables, 3; altera-tions and additions, 35. Total, 76. The total for 1865 in the month of January was only 30.

PICKING POCKETS .- George Shaw and Michael Nugent were arrested yesterday upon the charge of picking the pocket of an old man of a gold watch. The accused committed the Water and Market streets, and were lowed to Beach and Lauret streets, where they went into a barber shop, and were arrested. They had hid the watch away in the shop, where it was recovered. The accused were committed for trial by Alderman Bettler.
