Church, Eleventh sircet, above Jefferson, tomorrow. Fev. Dr. Seiss continues his lectures upon the Apocalypse to-merrow evening. Many of the Baptist churches in this city are enloying great revivals of teligion. Among them are the Tenth, Fourth, Olivet, Broad Street, and Tabernacle Churches. Surrounding churches, as in Camden and West Philadelphia, are also much revived.

The Board of Education of the O. S. Presbrinrian Church, at their last meeting, adopted a recolution requesting a sermon to be preached on to-morrow upon the duty of parents and teachers, and that a collection be made to enable the Ecard to carry out their obligations. The amount coniributed to the Ministerial fund from May 1, 1866, till February 1, 1866, has been but $20,234; to that for colleges, etc., $1397. A surplus on hand at the beginning of the last year has been melting away. The Board say "unless liberal amounts are given we must be embar-ra ad for want of means." The Young Ken's Christian Association.-On Monday evening the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, in Checknut street, "above Twelith, were crowded with India: and gentle-men, to lister: 'O an address by ex-Governor Pol-leck, entitled "Frogression of Knowledge an Incentive to its Acquisition." The speaker was listened to by his audience for over a half hour with the stilctest attention. At the close of the address an interesting debate took place on "what latitude should be ellowed speakers in the Sabbath Schools." The discussion was maintained by Rev. Alized Tavlor, Rev. Mr. Moore, G. H. Davis, H. Ward, and others. The Associa-tion has secured the services of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and John B. Gough, Esq., who will locate shouly in their behalf. The society is in a flourishing condition, and its future prospects are quite dattering. Peter B. Summons, Esq., President of the Association, presided on the occession.

A SIZE Too BIG .- A Western correspondent of a Western newspaper, being short of news, writes that a marvellous cave has been discovered in the town where he lives. He mys it is "of vast dimensions and startling magnificance, with niches, columns, receives, fountains, all'stranged as if by the hand of some great artist. On one side was a raised platform of pure white marble, and upon it was found a human skeleton of gigantic sile, and in excellent preservation. Its length from head to foot was thirty-sight feet six mehos, and the circumterance of the head was about six test."

It is an unfortunate circumstance that the man who used to own the skeleton lived and died before the days of the GEEAT OAR HALL. Poor fellow! He must have gone naked for the want of people who could fit him with a suit of clothes. Being without clothes he was of liged to take to the cave to hide, where he doub'le's caught cold and died in the prime of his life and the flower of his youthful leauty. If our long-logged friend were now living he might experience some difficulty in finding goods ready made to fit him, even in our extensive stock, but we would take his measure, and rig him up in a fire suit, and have them ready to send home Satarday evening.

Big folks, little folks, and middling folks can be sulted with all sor's of fine raiment, and fitted hand somely, from our magnificantt stock ot ready-made Clothing, without waiting till Saturday night; and those who are extra size, or detiro peculiar styles, or prefer sarmonts made to order, can be supplied with quick deepatch; and the prices are sure to please, because they are moderate.
