claring null and void all debts contracted by the State in the late war, and torbidding the Legislature to assume or make provision for their payment.

-Monseigneur Dupanloup, Archbishop of Paris, although not ill, has already prepared his own tomb, being desirous of regulating his own burial beforehand. The place of interment is fixed in one of the chapels of the cathedgal of Orleans, and is externally indicated by a tablet of white marble riveted to the wall, on which are simply engraved the armorial bearings of the prelate-a cross, with the legend Spes unica.

-The Columbus (Ohio) Journal says that of the two hundred and sixteen State flags pre-sented to Ohio State volunteers previous to their marching to the front, all will be returned except four lost in battle. Many of them are mere threads-tattered and torn into ribbons. When all the regiments have returned, these colors will be presented to the State with appropriate ceremonies.

-The New Orleans Crescent, February 28 says :- "The return of the days of peace, and of the supremacy of the gentler arts of civilization, was signalized yesterday in a very agreeable and suggestive manner. The occasion was that of the presentation of a beautiful set of silver plate to the distinguished dramatic artist, L. P. Barrett, Esq. A number of gentlemen assembled at Moreau's restaurant, where, after an elegant entertainment, illustrated by all the attractions of the cuisine, the presentation was made by a prominent and well-known citizen on behalf of imself and a number of other residents of New Orleans,'
